ROSTAND'S SISTER TO LIVE IN WASHINGTON.

MADAME DE MARGERIE.

Mme. de Margerie, the brilliant and beautiful sister of Edmond Rostand, the author of "Cyrano de Bergerac" and "L'Aiglon," is now on her way to America to take up her residence in Washington. Her husband, M. de Margerie, one of the most promising young diplomats in the service of France, arrived in Washington about a month ago to assume the duties of First Secretary of the French Embassy. During M. Cambon's absence in Europe, M. de Margerie will act as Chargé d'Affaires.

Mme. de Margerie, whose mother was a Spaniard, has inherited from her her dark beauty of color and feature, with an expression of indefinable charm. She possesses also the reputation of being one of the brightest and wittiest young women of the diplomatic corps. During the summer M. and Mme. de Margerie will occupy a cottage at Manchester-by-the-Sea. In the autumn they will reside in Washington at 1753 N street, the former home of Colonel Tyler, and where later in the season they will entertain M. Rostand, who, it is needless to say, will be the social lion of the day.

FORECAST FOR TODAY.

The hot wave will last for several days and no permanent relief will be felt. The weather will continue warm, generally fair, with the possibility of local thunder-storms. The wind will remain southerly to southwesterly. This hot wave—for it is a genuine hot wave and has brought the hottest day of the year—extends from the lake region to the Ohio Valley and westward to the Rocky Mountains and almost to the Pacific coast. HENRY J. COX, Weather Forecaster.

Leaving its mark of death and prostration, the hottest weather of the year—92° on the street level—held Chicago in its sizzling grip yesterday. To the extreme heat are laid two deaths, a number of serious accidents, and more than a dozen prostrations, several of which are expected to result fatally. A thunder-storm, attended by lightning bolts which destroyed thousands of dollars' worth of property, and a shifting of the wind to the lake, gave only temporary relief to the sweltering city. Then the hot wave continued to breath its furnace-like winds over the streets.

For several days this siege of hot weather is to continue, according to the weather man.

The first check in the heat came shortly after the noon hour, when a thunder storm visited the down-town section of the city. Lightning struck the five-story brick building at 214-218 West Randolph street, causing damage to the extent of $500. The bolt struck a chimney, showering the street with bricks. Pedestrians narrowly escaped being struck by the falling debris. The building is occupied by the Alrich Baking company.

POLICE AT POWERS' BAR

"CENTRAL" MEN SAID TO BE PESTERING THE CITY FATHER.

Affidavit Offered Before Judge Haney in Saloon Injunction Case Charges Persecution of the Ninth Ward Representative and His Partner—Customers Annoyed by Veiled Threats—Political Fight with the Administration Cited as a Cause.

Charges that Mayor Harrison has used the police force to wage war on Alderman John Powers and ex-Alderman "Billy" O'Brien, after he had fallen out, politically, with these Democratic chieftains, were made in Judge Haney's court yesterday and not denied by the city's representative, Assistant Corporation Counsel Sexton. Because "Johnny" Powers had broken down certain Harrison political fences on the West Side, it was asserted, the city executive had tried to put the Alderman "out of business" by flooding the Powers & O'Brien saloon at 170 Madison street with bluecoats and plain clothes "flycops."

The policemen, from two to fifteen in number, according to an affidavit filed with Judge Haney, have camped in the Aldermanic buffet and have quaffed drinks without money and without price whenever their thirst impelled them to seek the bar. But this is not all, the affidavit charged. Acting on orders from the Mayor's office, it is said, they patrolled the doorway to the saloon, dropping hints of warning to intending customers that "the place was liable to be pinched."

Injunction Fight Is On.

These charges came out during renewed hostilities in the effort of the city's Law department to dissolve the injunction recently issued by Judge Haney, which stopped a "gambling raid" on the Madison street saloon. The defense fired its first shot by presenting an affidavit signed by Alderman Powers and his partner, ex-Alderman O'Brien. Attorneys A. B. Jenks and Edward Maher outlined the foregoing charges.

"The political difficulty between Mayor Harrison and Alderman Powers occurred more than a year ago," argued the latter. "Since that time a crowd of policemen has 'held the fort' at Powers & O'Brien's place. They have waited day and night to catch either Alderman Powers or ex-Alderman O'Brien. From two to fifteen policemen have been hanging about this place continually, waiting for some pretext on which they might cause arrests and make trouble."

As charged in the affidavit, the bartender was instructed one day to quit serving drinks to a detective who had been going to the bar regularly and ordering anything without showing any money. This detective at once objected to Mr. O'Brien.

War Grows More Intense.

"'So this means war to the end, does it?' was the challenge he threw down. Then, it is alleged, the squads of policemen increased. They stood outside the doorway and threatened to arrest certain customers. They had books, and devoted much effort and display to writing down the names of those who visited the place. They would make their way to the bar, as the affidavit alleges, and talk of arresting those who were in the place. That game has been kept up for more than a year."

"I have this affidavit," said Judge Haney, quietly, "I am aware of the charges it contains. Do you wish further time to deny these allegations, Mr. Sexton?"

Mr. Sexton declined to answer them.

The counsel for the complainants then quoted legal authorities in the effort to show that the search warrant on which the policemen endeavored to search the place on June 12 was void and conferred no power. Mr. Sexton argued just to the contrary, and the problem was left in Judge Haney's hands for decision.

What the Bartender Says.

"All that is true," said a bartender at Powers & O'Brien's last night. "Why, say, these fellows with stars have formed a regular wall around here. They've talked so loud about making raids and arrests that they have scared customers away. Business-men won't come here any more because they fear it may mean a ride in the wagon. Just the minute Harrison and the Alderman had their trouble the police made this a regular clubhouse. They watched day and night for anything off color which might give them a chance to call the wagon."

POLICEMAN STUCK IN THE ENTRANCE TO BOYS' CAVE.

Patrolman Clifford of Evanston Seeks Glory by Raiding "Robbers' Den" and Finds Only Lads' Smoking-Room

In his search for a supposed robbers' cave Policeman John Clifford of the Evanston force came to grief and is now looking for the wherewithal to purchase another uniform. His new summer uniform was ruined yesterday in his descent upon an underground playhouse which had been constructed by boys of South Evanston.

Clifford, while on his beat and near the Industrial School for Girls, saw an excavation of some size in the ground. On looking down into this he discovered the end of a barrel extending into it from the side.

Visions of robbers flashed across his mind and he immediately notified his superiors.

Policeman David Miller was sent to the scene and it was agreed that Clifford should crawl into the passageway, which had been constructed of small barrels, while Miller was to stand some distance from the entrance to see that no one escaped by another entrance. Miller took his station half a block away. Time passed and Clifford did not appear. At the expiration of nearly a half hour Miller went to the entrance. All he could see was a pair of wriggling legs. Clifford had found the barrel tunnel too small for him and was unable to go forward or to get out. Miller pulled Clifford out and then both set at work to dig to the cave.

They finally reached it and found two rooms, one four feet square, the other four by seven. The rooms were seven feet high. A burglar alarm had been arranged to ring as soon as any one should reach the last barrel in the tunnel. Several tobacco pouches and a supply of cigaret papers and matches were also found. The policemen decided that the occupants were harmless.

YOUNG GIRL HAS DISAPPEARED.

Sophie Kudicka, 11 Years Old, After More than Three Days' Absence, Cannot Be Found.

Sophie Kudlicka, the 11-year-old daughter of Mrs. Mary Kudlicka, 588 North Ashland avenue, ran away from home last Friday, and all efforts of the mother and the police to locate her have proved futile. Mrs. Kudlicka is nearly prostrated, and has almost given up hope of ever recovering her daughter. Mrs. Joseph Myslewicz, living next door, had some disagreement with the girl. The child began to cry and then got on a street car and went toward town. This is the last any of her friends or the police have seen of her. The girl wore a green dress spotted with red and a red hat when she disappeared.

ARREST BLOCKS ROAD TO RICHES.

Warren Stoner, Scion of Old Kentucky Family, and Companion, Conklin Jones, Caught.

CASHING A $1,000 CHECK.

In Possession Are Found Ninety-seven Blank Drafts by Bank Said to Be Imaginary.

LARGE AMOUNT IN SIGHT.

A high class operation, the principal mover in which was the scion of a prominent and wealthy Kentucky family, was terminated by the arrest of Warren W. Stoner and Conklin Jones by detectives of the Pinkerton National Detective Agency yesterday. The men might have raised many thousands of dollars during the week but for advance information received from the Kansas City agency of the detective bureau.

Warren Stoner was the first to be arrested, being taken into custody at the Washington Park racetrack. A visit was then made by William A. Pinkerton to the apartments of the man at the Auditorium Annex, and a few minutes later Jones entered the trap prepared and was taken to the Central Station to join his alleged confederate.

From Kansas City information was sent to Chicago last week that 100 blank bank drafts, drawn on the Third National Bank of New York by "the Farmers' National Bank of Topeka," had been engraved and were in the hands of men who had left the previous evening for Chicago. Descriptions of the men were sent and arrangements were made to apprehend them.

Caught at the Racetrack.

Hotels and the racetracks were selected as the points most likely to be visited and clerks and bookmakers were warned to watch for drafts issued at Topeka. Before the second race yesterday a well-dressed man who had made several heavy wagers on the preceding race made a bet of $200 on one of the starters. A $100 bill and a draft for $1,000 were tendered the owner of the "Virginia club" book, the bettor declaring that his available currency had been lost on the first race.

He was told to return after the race, when the change would be given him, and when he appeared he was placed under arrest by Mr. Pinkerton. He was recognized at once and admitted his identity and said he was staying at the Auditorium Annex. The hotel was visited and the room searched. A valise marked C. Jones was found, and the detectives decided to await the arrival of its owners.

Soon Jones appeared at the door. He was arrested and the valise opened. In it were found ninety-seven drafts as described in the dispatches. The whereabouts of the one unaccounted for was learned soon afterwards by its return from New York, dishonored. It had been given to the hotel management by Stoner in payment of his bill.

Stoner Known as a High Roller.

Stoner is well-known on the local racetracks and throughout the country as a race horse follower and "high roller." Several years ago, in a race at Hawthorne, he is said to have cleared $20,000, and at a Columbus trotting meeting later, while conducting a pool, he secured several thousand dollars.

His family is said to be one of the best known in Kentucky, and on the death of his father, four years ago, he inherited $100,000. This was disposed of in less than two years, and he is said to have been living a precarious existence for many months. Stoner is 35 years old, good looking, and a plausible talker. His companion, Jones, is not so well known.

Both the "Farmers' National Bank of Topeka" and the name, "Joseph Stephens," signed as cashier to the drafts, are supposed to be mythical, and no charge of forgery can be made. The men will be prosecuted on the charge of conducting a confidence game.

UNCOVER MANY HUMAN BONES IN DIGGING IN A BASEMENT.

Grewsome Discovery by Children Frightens Occupants of Building—Police Say No Crime Is Revealed.

While digging in the dirt in the basement of Edward Cannon's undertaking establishment at 526 West Grand avenue yesterday afternoon children unearthed three human skulls, a thigh bone, several ribs of women, and many miscellaneous human bones. The discovery frightened the occupants of the building, and they appealed to the janitor, William Sexton, who notified the West Chicago avenue police of the grewsome find.

Detectives were detailed, who made an investigation and determined the bones had been buried for some time. They declared last night that a part of the building formerly had been occupied by a man who made a business of preparing skeletons for medical students. They believe the bones found in the basement were concealed there by this person, as they were such that he could use them for nothing else. The bones were taken to the police station pending further investigation.

The discovery was made by Edward Cannon, 10 years old, son of the undertaker, and Sadie Corgan, 12 years old, who lives in the same building. The structure extends from 526 to 528 West Grand avenue, and the upper floors are used for lodge halls and offices. The main floor of 528 is vacant. It was formerly occupied as a drug store by Samuel Ade, who has since become a physician and moved away.

"We thought for a time that we had a grewsome mystery to solve," said Lieutenant Healy last night. "We have now come to the conclusion it will not take long to get at the bottom of the matter."

FIND BOMB IN ITALIAN TRAIN.

ON TO BUFFALO IN AUTOS.

CHICAGOANS PLAN NOVEL TRIP TO EXPOSITION.

Twenty-five Persons Arranging for a Journey Across the Country in Their Horseless Vehicles—Start Will Be Made on Aug. 31, but No Attempt Will Be Made at Speed—Receptions Await the Travelers at Several Important Points Along the Itinerary.

Instead of visiting the Pan-American Exposition at Buffalo in the prosaic and common way by taking berths in sleeping coaches, fifty Chicago automobilists have hit on the plan of a trip in their vehicles. The entire trip, according to plans and subject to the whims of the automobiles, will be a gala affair and arrangements are now being made to entertain the travelers along the way. They will be given receptions, smokers, and theater parties at every town in which they stop for the night.

Among those who have chosen this method of making the trip are Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Plamondon, Mr. and Mrs. A. J. White, Mr. and Mrs. Bert L. Shaw, Dr. and Mrs. M. B. Pins, Alderman and Mrs. John E. Scully, Mr. and Mrs. Tucker, and Mr. and Mrs. Cooke. The list already includes twenty-five persons, although the party will not leave Chicago until August 31.

Will Follow the Shaw Route.

The route on which the party will start will be the one taken by Mr. and Mrs. Shaw on their recent trip from New York. It is expected the distance from Chicago to Buffalo will be covered, barring breakdowns, in about eight days. This will give time for sightseeing and amusement on the way, a feature which is not to be neglected. Committees of citizens in Cleveland and Detroit are preparing elaborate entertainment for their Chicago guests. It is planned that nearly every automobile along the route will serve in a continuous escort.

Careful Plans Made.

The business arrangements for the trip also entail some careful planning. All supplies that might be needed will be shipped ahead to points along the way. Every possible emergency will be anticipated and provided for before the start is made. It is hoped in this manner delays may be avoided and the trip prove a smooth and pleasant one.

The Chicago party is to be hailed at the Buffalo end of the line as one of the features of the exposition. It will be one of the newest things to be seen at the fair. The idea of long distance transportation in automobiles has but recently been realized. There is just enough uncertainty about this trip to make it interesting.

"The trip is planned," said Mr. Shaw, "to give automobilists something novel in the matter of travel. Few people have taken long trips across the country, which can be made so delightful. With a party along for company, and entertainment waiting at every place on the way, little could be desired for pleasant traveling that we shall not have."

No Effort to Make Time.

There will be no racing and no attempt to make time. There are several automobile factories in Indiana and Ohio near the route, and they will be visited. This has not been arranged in the fear that members will want new machines at that stage of the trip, but to give the amateur enthusiasts a better knowledge of the construction of their machines. Several experts will travel with the party and be able to render services when needed.

Will Remain Two Weeks.

The stay in Buffalo will be a fortnight, it is planned. Then the party will turn homeward, after having their automobiles cleaned and overhauled. The run back will be made in shorter time, fewer long stops being contemplated. It will be the first trip of its kind ever made.

DOUBLE HONOR FOR SCIENTIST.

Professor Van 't Hoff, Upon Whom University of Chicago Conferred Degree, to Be Distinguished by Harvard.

Jacob Henry Van 't Hoff, professor of physical chemistry in the University of Berlin, one of the men upon whom President Harper conferred the degree of LL. D. at the decennial convocation last Tuesday, is to receive the same degree a second time at the commencement exercises of Harvard this week. He completed a course of lectures he has been giving at the University of Chicago yesterday afternoon, and immediately left for the East in order to be present at the proper time.

Professor Van 't Hoff is called by scientists the father of modern physical chemistry. He is the founder of the theory explaining the space relations of atoms in molecules—a theory said to be essential to a comprehension of the chemistry of organized and inorganized matter, and also a discoverer in the domain of the modern theory of solutions.

Professor Van 't Hoff will return to Germany after receiving his degree from Harvard.

SKILL ON WHEEL BEGETS FINE.

Ambitious Trick Bicyclist Performs on Sidewalk in Evanston Contrary to the Ordinances.

William Yoose, an employé of the Evanston Illuminating company, makes some pretensions as a trick bicyclist. During the noon hour yesterday he exhibited his skill before his fellow-workmen. Lacking a better stage he utilized the sidewalk. His tricks and turns were of amazing interest and attracted so much attention Policeman Rubo came up to see what was going on. When he had a chance to cut in he took hold of the wheelman.

"Yoose, come wid me," said the copper.

"Hey! Rubo?" queried he with the wheel.

When the police station was reached Yoose paid $1 and costs for riding on the sidewalk, and his exhibition closed.

ACTRESS ARRIVES TOO LATE.

Journey of Edna Wallace Hopper to Bedside of Dying Mother Fails to Bring Her There in Time.

San Francisco, Cal., June 24.—[Special.]—Edna Wallace Hopper arrived today in Oakland just twenty-four hours too late to see her mother, Mrs. Alexander Dunsmuir, before she died. Several weeks ago Mrs. Dunsmuir was taken ill, but it was only within a few days that her condition became dangerous. Mrs. Dunsmuir was formerly Mrs. Wally Wallace, her first husband being an usher in the old California Theater in the palmy days of John McCullough.

A few years ago Mrs. Wallace was married secretly to Alexander Dunsmuir of Victoria, B. C. This marriage was only made public just before his death, by which his wife received half a million.

This fortune Edna will inherit, as she is the only child.

MUSHAM IS NOW FIRE MARSHAL.

Mayor Appoints Him Successor to Denis Swenie, Who Retires This Morning.

VETERAN'S LAST ALARM.

Final Day of the Old Official Is Not Exciting; His Wife and Children Are Content.

INSURANCE MEN PLEASED.

Selection by the Mayor Is Generally Indorsed, and Is Agreeable to the Department.

CAREER OF THE PROMOTED CHIEF

After forty years of service in the Chicago Fire department William H. Musham has become its Chief. His promotion from First Assistant Fire Marshal to Marshal was given him last night when Mayor Harrison sent his name to the Council, and his appointment to succeed Denis Swenie was confirmed.

The new Chief will assume his duties at 10 o'clock this morning. Before his name went to the Council his bond had been filed with Mayor Harrison and Chief Swenie had cleared away the desk he has occupied ever since the City Hall was built. The old Chief closed fifty-one and a half years of service by working at a small West Side fire in Lake street, near Halsted. The alarm aroused him from his bed in the morning, and at 7:04 o'clock he sent in his last report of "fire out."

The appointment of Chief Musham moves both Marshals Campion and Horan up a step. Campion will take Musham's place as First Assistant, and Horan will succeed Campion as Second Assistant. The successor to Horan will have to be named through the Civil Service commission.

Indorsed by Old Chief.

Swenie was removing the last of his papers from his old desk and was destroying letters when it became known that the Mayor's appointment had been announced.

"Who's the new Chief?" he asked.

"Musham," he was told.

"He's a good man," was Swenie's comment, "and it's a good appointment. I am glad it has been made."

The appointment of Musham to the post to which he was regarded as the natural successor was well received in La Salle street among insurance men who have been interested in the change in the department. In sending the name of the new Chief to the Council the Mayor also sent his letter in which he accepted Swenie's resignation.

Mayor's Words of Praise.

"In accepting your resignation from the office of Fire Marshal of the City of Chicago," wrote the Mayor, "which position you have held with honor to yourself and to the advantage of the community for the last twenty-two years, I wish to congratulate you upon your long and valuable service. What you have accomplished for the Fire department of this city is evidenced by the condition of the department; what you have done for its citizens is made plain by their universal expressions of regret that your health should compel you to lay down a charge you have so worthily conducted.

"Speaking as the official representative of our city, I want to thank you for the service you have rendered in the management of Chicago's Fire department."

When Musham's name was read in the Council Chamber the new Chief was in the City Hall and at once was given the congratulations of his friends.

"I have known for two days that I was to receive the appointment," he said. "I will endeavor to maintain the department at the standard which it always has kept. I will do the best I can for it."

"The appointment belonged to Musham and I am heartily glad he has secured it," said Assistant Chief Campion. "He has gone up from the ranks to the top of the ladder. The department will be satisfied and gratified."

Spikes a Short Term Story.

Speaking of a story that Musham was only to hold his office for six months and then retire to make room for some one else, the Mayor said:

"I want to deny that yarn most emphatically. It is not only absolutely untrue but is unfair to both Marshal Musham and myself. So far as I am concerned, he will stay in the position as long as his health permits, and judging from his present physical condition that is apt to be considerably longer than I am likely to be Mayor."

For the last few days the appointment of Musham had not been much in doubt. When Chief Swenie handed in his resignation two weeks ago, and even before, when it was known that his retirement was almost certain, Musham's chances were placed even with those of Horan. The latter had the backing of an element among insurance men who wanted a younger Chief than Musham. The new Chief is but a few years younger than Swenie, and it was claimed that he could not continue long in the department, as a younger man would be able to.

May Go to Seashore.

In closing his long service as Fire Marshal Mr. Swenie said:

"Don't know what I will do. Have no idea. Maybe my wife and I will take a trip to Atlantic City. I could not go without her, and if I could she would not let me. She will be glad I'm out of it. She has always been afraid I would come home on a stretcher. Somehow I never thought I would, or, rather, I never thought much about it."

After the Chief had ransacked his desk, and pulled out and packed away the medals, buttons, and decorations that have been gathering there for years, and had pulled down the top of the desk, the men of the office came to him and said good-by. There was little attempt on the part of many to conceal their emotion.

In retiring Chief Swenie will draw an annuity of $3,000 a year for the rest of his life. He was Fire Marshal when the pension fund first was put in operation. He will draw half the Fire Marshal's salary of $6,000.

With the confirmation of the appointment the Council accepted the bond of the new Chief for $25,000 with the American Surety company as security.

William Henry Musham was born on Feb. 9, 1839, on State street, near Kinzie street. Like his famous predecessor, he joined the fire fighters' ranks early, leaving the carpenter's trade in 1861 to don a helmet.

Before that time he had been a member of the Philadelphia Hose company, a volunteer organization. His first connection with the paid department was with Phœnix Engine company 8, which was housed in Michigan avenue, where Engine company 11 now has quarters. With this company he remained until it disbanded in 1858, when he resumed the hammer and the saw. In 1860 he joined the Little Giant Volunteer Engine company 8, at 79 Dearborn street. In 1861 he went to Philadelphia and entered the regular fire service. Returning in 1866 he became head pipeman and later foreman of Company 6, the Little Giant, and in that organization he fought the Chicago fire of 1871.

For his display of ability on that occasion the Board of Fire Commissioners on March 1, 1872, promoted him to be Third Assistant Fire Marshal, with headquarters at Enginehouse 12, now 17, at 80 West Lake street, in charge of the entire West division. The following year he was married.

In 1877 he was transferred to the Second Battalion, and three years later was appointed First Assistant Fire Marshal and inspector of the department, with headquarters at the house of Hook and Ladder company 1, in Pacific avenue.

The new head of the department has often been sent to other cities when they were menaced by fires, and always has rendered valuable services. He has for a long time been the "boss carpenter" of the department, going over all of the apparatus of the organization once in three months.

Insurance Men Talk.

The insurance men in La Salle street received the appointment with favorable comment. When the question of a successor to Swenie was raised a delegation representing 80 per cent of the underwriting interests called on the Mayor to urge the appointment of Musham. They made the argument that he would follow Swenie's example in keeping politics out of the department. Expressions yesterday from a number of insurance men were:

President Pellet of the Chicago Underwriters' association—I think he deserves the place. That covers it.

J. H. Moore of Moore & Janes—Musham deserves the place on his record, and I am especially pleased because he has not had his friends working for him, but has been content to let his record talk for him.

R. S. Critchell—He was the man for the place and his assistants should each be put up one step. Then I would like to see an age limit of 64 years set for the chief.

J. W. Nye of Ducat & Lyon, a leader in the anti-Swenie movement among the insurance men—I have always been for Musham, a man who has not had a day off in years for sickness, except for injuries received at fires; who believes that the payment and pensions given to firemen is in consideration of personal risk in going into burning buildings; a man who puts his pipemen where they can fire at the blaze, and who is in all respects capable of "filling the bill."

S. A. Rothermel, Secretary of the Traders' of Chicago—Musham's appointment was the only thing to do if the morale of the department was to be preserved. If they had jumped any one over his head it would have destroyed it. He has served the department as loyally, intelligently, and heroically as any one could.

F. F. Holmes, Secretary of the National Association of Local Agents—A wise selection and a well-earned promotion.

H. J. Ullmann of Marsh, Ullmann & Co.—He was the logical man on civil service lines. If he was not fit to be Chief he was not fit to be Assistant, and ought to be removed. He will make a good marshal.

SWENIE'S FINALE AS FIREMAN.

Last Evening at His Home Listening to Alarms—His Wife Is Happy.

"Denis, is it all over?"

"Almost, wife."

Then a silence fell on the grizzled veteran of fire fighting and his devoted spouse as they took each other's hands in the little hallway of the Pearce street house. Denis J. Swenie's almost fifty-two years of service in the Fire Department of Chicago had practically reached its close when the old man drove home last night. He said he felt lost at the prospect of inaction, but his wife, with her anxious inquiry, showed her eagerness to say farewell to all fears for his safety. Through all the years of their married life till today she has looked for her husband's homecomings with the apprehension that she might see him borne on a stretcher.

Looks at Familiar Spots.

Chief Swenie was detained at his office in the City Hall till after 7 o'clock last evening, when word was sent him that the appointment of Musham as Chief Marshal would be made without fail at the Council meeting. Then he donned his battered old slouch hat, lit a fresh cigar, and drove leisurely homeward in a meditative mood. Down La Salle street to Jackson boulevard and out on the asphalt to Halsted the Chief rolled along, glancing from one to another of the spots memorable for the warfare he had waged on the flames. There are many of them between the City Hall and the little house at 36 Pearce street.

Where the Illinois Trust and Savings Bank now stands the Chief was nearly suffocated once in leading his men down a blind corridor to the seat of a fire; just the other side of the Burlington yards in Jackson boulevard a chimney fell on him and bereft him of his senses for a few minutes; a block farther west he was blown through a second-story window by a gas explosion, but landed on his feet in just the position to lead a fresh detachment of pipemen into the burning building. Out of the myriad of accidents and hairbreadth escapes the worst injury he ever sustained was a broken leg, and that happened after the fire was out. The leg was crushed by a wagon in the engine-house.

When Chief Swenie reached his home last night he found his eldest daughter and two of his sons on the veranda to greet him.

"Are you a private citizen yet?" asked Denis Jr.

"Not quite," replied the Chief. "Marshal Musham will first be sworn in, and then for the first time in half a century I will be off duty. For a few hours more I've got to listen to the bell, and if any fires strike in tonight down-town, why, I'll have to go as usual."

When the old man struggled from the embraces of his children he met his wife in the darkened hall, and at first he did not see the tears in her eyes as she inquired for the end of his long service. Her voice quavered, and then the Chief looked up quickly and sought to laugh away her fears.

"You see, she's been a deal worried about me," remarked the Chief.

"I certainly have," added Mrs. Swenie. "I didn't know when I would see the men carrying him in on a shutter, and I've had many a sleepless night out of it all. Of late years I saw Denis go out in the middle of the night and fairly trembled with my fears. As I would help him into his clothes I would caution him not to risk his life, and he would laugh and promise me to stay in the background. Then the buggy would whirl away in the darkness on two wheels, and I knew Denis would never keep his promise. I'm glad he's through with it all at last."

May Go Into Business.

Chief Swenie admits that he will be a lost being for some time after his retirement, and he is going to keep the fire bell in the house for a week or two just to ease his parting with the service. After he has listened to a few "four-elevens" without having to dash out of bed into his boots he will have the instrument torn out and forget all about fires and the fighting of them.

"I've been offered a chair in a down-town store," said the Chief, "where I can loaf and watch the apparatus go galavanting past. Maybe, though, I shall only hear of fires from the newspapers, just like other people. If I get restless I may decide to go into business."

HAS ORDINANCE TO CLOSE ZION.

Alderman Rector Introduces One in Council with This Avowed Purpose.

CLEAN CITY RULE SAVED

ATHLETIC PROJECT WAITS.

WORK DONE BY THE CITY COUNCIL.

Referred an ordinance intended to close the Zion Hospital.

Defeated an attempt to break down the "clean city ordinance."

Postponed ordinance creating a paymasters' department.

Deferred the "athletic ordinance."

Allowed an order for bay windows for the Chaplain Building.

Ordered transfers from street cars at Clark street and Archer avenue.

Ordered that teams employed by the city be carried on the pay rolls in the name of their real owners.

Confirmed the appointment of two police court bailiffs.

Alderman Charles H. Rector of the Thirty-fourth Ward introduced at the Council meeting last night an amendment to the hospital ordinance that is expected to close the Zion hospitals. The measure, as the Alderman stated, is aimed at John Alexander Dowie, and may end his operations in Chicago.

The amendment was offered a few minutes before the Council adjourned. It amends section 923, known as the hospital act, which provides a fine of $50 to $100 for conducting a hospital without a license. The amendment provides that the lessee of buildings where the sick are received and treated must apply for a license, and if he fail to do so the city is empowered to declare his building a public nuisance and close it. The second clause provides that if persons are ill in a building they must be given medical treatment by a licensed physician, and provides a fine of $50 for a violation.

The amendment was referred to the Judiciary committee.

While the amendment was introduced by Mr. Rector, it was in behalf of the Police committee, which had been solicited to present it.

"I do not care to say who is back of the amendment," said Alderman Rector, "but it is aimed at Dowie, and, I believe, will close him up.

"Should he get a license the place will be subject to the same regulations as a hospital, and if he refuses to apply for a license his hospitals can be closed as nuisances."

Clean City Ordinance Saved.

By a vote of 26 to 26 the Council defeated an attempt to change the "clean city ordinance" so as to render it practically valueless as far as the collection of garbage is concerned. It was toward the end of a long meeting when Alderman Kunz sent in an order on the Commissioner of Public Works instructing him to stop the removal of garbage boxes in the Sixteenth Ward. It had nearly passed in the hurry by unanimous consent when Alderman Conlon of the Eighteenth cried out, "Hold on here, what's all this about?" and moved it be sent to the Committee on Health.

Mr. Kunz then moved to suspend the rules, and made a speech in which he said the ordinance requiring the removal of the old wooden boxes and the substitution of metal ones was working a hardship on the people of his ward.

"The police are taking out the old boxes," he cried, "and the people can't afford new ones. The result is garbage is being thrown into the streets, and the condition of the ward is worse than it ever was."

Alderman Smulski indorsed this by saying he wished the Seventeenth Ward included in the order, and Alderman Martin made the same motion for the Fifth. For a time it seemed as if the order would pass, but Alderman Goldsier and others explained that it would result in a practical breaking down of the "clean city ordinance," and the Mayor added his testimony to the same effect. So the order was defeated by the vote given.

The Council confirmed the appointment of William H. Musham as Fire Marshal, as told in another column, and also those of Frank McLaren as bailiff at the Thirty-fifth Street Police Court, vice Louis Schubert, removed, and Emanuel Abrahams as bailiff at the Maxwell Street Court, vice W. J. Laskowski, term expired.

The last appointment has a direct political bearing, as Laskowski is one of City Clerk Loeffler's adherents, while Abrahams is on the other side of the fence.

"Abrahams is the man Burke has picked out to carry the primaries of the ward in opposition to me," explained Loeffler, afterwards. "The question now to be determined is whether he can do it."

Corporation Counsel Walker sent in an opinion as to Alderman Thompson's "athletic ordinance," holding it was legal as far as regulating athletic games which are not unlawful are concerned, but pointing out that under the State law all "boxing and sparring exhibitions" are illegal. Consequently he holds the ordinance bad as far as it applied to them.

Alderman Thompson followed with another ordinance much the same as his previous one and providing for the appointment by the Mayor of a committee of five Aldermen, who, with the Mayor, shall supervise and issue all permits for all athletic games, "such as wrestling, fencing, etc.," where an admission fee is charged, the idea being that the "et cetera," like charity, should cover a multitude of sins. A motion to suspend the rules was beaten 43 to 25, it not being the requisite two-thirds, and the ordinance went to the Committee on License.

Corporation Counsel Walker's opinion that the Council had the power to compel the Chicago City railway to furnish transfers at the corner of Archer avenue and Clark street was followed by the passage of an order to that effect. The company disputes the right to the Council to enforce such an ordinance, but it is understood it will not contest this case, as it is willing to grant the transfers.

Permit for Charles Netcher.

Permission was given Charles Netcher to put a bay window not to occupy more than three feet of sidewalk space on both the Madison and State street sides of the Champlain Building. There was some discussion over it, and Alderman Foreman followed it with a satirical ordinance allowing the Commissioner of Public Works to grant such permission to all people who asked it, and Alderman Bennett another one striking out section 125 of the building ordinance. Both went to the Judiciary committee. The Netcher ordinance provides he shall pay $1 a square foot for the privilege.

The ordinance providing for the creation of the paymaster's bureau, after being once buried in committee, was taken out and made a special order for the next meeting.

Alderman Cullerton had passed an order that all teams employed by the city be carried on the city pay rolls in the names of their right owners. The charge he makes is that some favored politicians have teams so employed and they are on the pay rolls in the names of other people.

The ordinance creating a prohibition district of Brainerd, Beverly Hills, and Longwood was lost, 33 to 19.

The South Park Commissioners were authorized to take charge of, control, improve, and maintain "Normal Park" in Chicago.

Alderman W. F. Brennan introduced a resolution directing the Commissioner of Public Works to enter into a contract with the Wright Garbage Crematory company, "to build such crematory as is necessary in convenient portions of the city where the heat may be utilized for generating steam," and charge $100,000 to the appropriation to destroy garbage of which $25,000 is to be expended in 1901. The matter was sent to the Finance committee.

NOTHING CAN COME TOO SWIFT FOR JUSTICE DOOLEY THESE DAYS.

Nothing can come too swift for Justice Dooley,
J. Dooley.
He judges the rough, the tough, and the unruly,
Unruly.
And as a judge of tiles and shoes,
As well as of bums with booze,
He's yours truly,
J. Dooley.

First there was Beau Brummell. Then there was Ward McAllister. Now there is Justice Dooley, 161 West Madison street, justice of the peace and arbiter elegantium of the Cook County Democracy, last court of appeal on hats and shoes, and dictator of the styles. The West Side has set the pace.

With a copy of "Modes for Men" before him, a few leaves from "The Proper Thing" in his left hand, and a volume of "The American Chesterfield" in his right hand yesterday the justice handed out a decision in the case of Mrs. McNitt, charged with appropriating the clothes line of Mrs. McDuff, and proceeded to lay down the law.

"Let the defendent chase a bucket of beer for the prosecution, invite the court to have something, and get a new clothes line, and I'll tell ye why it's necessary to wear white spats at a wake and why a golf cap is not good form at a wedding. There's to be no more weddings in my court in golf caps and green stockings."

The West Side dictator has drawn a line for the County Democracy Marching club, and every man who expects to go to Buffalo for "Chicago day" must toe the mark. No fur caps with evening dress will go at the Pan-American Exposition. Justice Dooley says so. Neither will any Democrat in overalls be admitted on the train. The marching club must be the proper thing. Justice Dooley says so.

The marching club must look like Captain Farrell before it gets out of the railroad station if Justice Dooley has to tie it down with a rope. Captain Farrell is Justice Dooley's dream of Democracy properly attired. If the justice can have his way he will have the Captain on exhibition in the various propes. costumes all during September, so that the County Democracy can "rubber" and then speed to a tailor. A Democrat who wears tan shoes with a tall hat and a long coat will be brought before Justice Dooley for disturbing the peace and for disorderly conduct. He will be sent to the bridewell for a month to keep him locked up while the marching club gets out of town. The Democrat who puts on a brown fedora with a long coat will be brought before the justice as a suspicious character, and before his friends can find out where he is the marching club will steal away.

"There ain't going to be any fox passes on this trip," said the justice.

Here is the costume which the justice has labeled "O. K." for marching purposes:

Hat—silk, black, 10 inches, 1½ inch brim.
Coat—black, frock.
Trousers—black, peg-legged.
Shoes—patent leather.
Tie—black, one-inch string.
Hose—black, open work.
Waistcoat—white, double-breasted.

For fatigue costume the members may wear overalls, flannels, pyjamas, or ducks. For night wear a gown or pyjamas will be permitted, the member to use his own discretion. There will be no fixed rule as to nightcaps. If the member takes one at the bar he will be excused from wearing one in bed. Justice Dooley will be lenient as to evening dress. A Democrat may go to Buffalo without dress clothes if he wants to, with the understanding that he goes to bed at 6 o'clock every evening.

There will be a dress rehearsal of the marching club in September. Captain Farrell will form in one line and the rest of the marching club in another. The club will march past Captain Farrell and Justice Dooley will make comparisons. Those who pass the examination will be given certificates which, in conjunction with the proper amount of cash will entitle them to tickets to Buffalo.

"This thing started as a joke," said the justice; "but, say, it's about time something was done. Do you know that fellows come around wearing hats of the vintage of '56. It's something awful. There don't any more fur hats go, either, and they ought to get together on their shoes. We ain't millionaires, and we have'nt all got the figure of Captain Farrell—some of us could not get it if we wore corsets for a year, we are too far over the building line—but we can try to look as near like him as possible, and that's why we're going to have an inspection. I guess I'll do as inspector general. Nothing can come too swift for Justice Dooley."

HOT WAVE BRINGS DEATH

TWO FATALITIES AND MORE THAN A DOZEN ARE OVERCOME.

the Chicago Golf club, but luckily only the keeper of the green and one member were in the building. They escaped injury and rushed out, to find the building in flames.

Miss Elisa Campbell, whose house is nearby, saw the fire and ran into the burning building to save her golf clubs, and soon returned triumphantly with her property in her arms.

Encouraged by her example, Mr. Wheaton, who lives nearby, and John Besch also entered the building and began breaking open the lockers and carrying out the clubs.

At this time Fire Marshal Kampp arrived with his volunteer company and completed the work by saving all of the club's furniture and other property. As the building is beyond the water main district the firemen were powerless to save it. The loss is $3,500.

Green Keeper David Horton was so dazed that he ran from the building and down the lane until he met Wheaton and Besch, who assured him that he was unharmed, and he returned to assist in saving property.

In Evanston lightning struck a chimney on the Grove House, Grove street and Sherman avenue, and partly demolished it. The cap on the opening to the chimney in the dining-room was blown off and the soot scattered over the dining table. The force of the shock knocked a quantity of plaster off the ceiling in the police station across the street. A maple tree in front of the Grove House was also struck by lightning and partly destroyed.

Many Reports of Mad Dogs.

The heat was attended by many reports of mad dogs. Policeman James O'Brien just escaped being bitten by a fox terrier owned by R. F. Winslow, 38 Thirty-third place. Policeman James Madden shot the dog as it was seeking to fasten its teeth in O'Brien's hands. William Danaher, 6 years old, 213 North Springfield avenue, was bitten by a dog suffering from hydrophobia.

Jurors Remove Their Coats.

The dignity of the courts surrendered to the weather. Judge Ball instructed his jurymen to remove their coats and make themselves comfortable.

Three pupils of the Anderson School, Lincoln and Division streets, created a commotion by "striking" because it was "too hot to study." They left the school building, pursued by Principal McKay.

Secrecy and Heat for Jury.

The closing up last fall of all the air shafts in the grand jury room to prevent the possible escape of secrets made the apartment most offensive yesterday. The jurors kept at work, but frequently suggested the opening of a few ventilators, no matter if secrets should leak out.

WOODLAWN CITIZEN IS MISSING.

William Merrick, 80 Years Old and Feeble-Minded, Disappears—Police Notified to Make Search.

William Merrick, 80 years old, and one of the oldest residents in Woodlawn, has been missing from his residence, 6316 Madison avenue, since yesterday morning and fears are entertained by his relatives for his safety. Last night a son of the missing man reported the disappearance to Lieutenant McCann of the Woodlawn police. He said his father, who is feeble-minded, started out for a short walk early in the morning and had not returned.

NEW CHIEF OF THE CHICAGO FIRE DEPARTMENT.

SLAYS HIS SISTER; KILLS HIMSELF.

Shocking Crime of Richard Friedman of Harvard Dental College.

BALL FOR SECOND SISTER.

Bad Aim by the Marksman the Only Reason Another Life Is Not Taken.

INSANE FROM OVERSTUDY.

Boston, Mass., June 24.—[Special.]—Richard Friedman, 25 years old, a former student of Harvard Dental College, shot and killed his sister, Miss Rosa Friendman, aged 21, in Chambers street this afternoon, and then committed suicide. He was insane from overstudy.

Rosa Friedman and her 17-year-old sister, Helen, both living at 31 McLean street, were walking down Chambers street. Samuel Prince, a boy, who was walking behind them, says he noticed Richard Friedman, brother of the two girls, walking on the other side of the street, evidently following them. The boy saw Friedman take a revolver from his pocket and load the five chambers. With the weapon exposed Friedman continued to walk toward the Ashland street corner.

Just before the two girls reached the corner Prince says he saw Friedman rush across the street and attempt to get in front of his sisters. Both girls ran, with the brother following. Then Friedman discharged one shot and both girls dropped to the sidewalk.

Hastily looking around, Friedman turned the weapon upon his own breast and fired once. He examined his clothing hastily, seemed to think he had not succeeded in wounding himself, and fired again. Then he dropped to the sidewalk.

Thought All Three Were Dead.

Clerks from an adjoining drug store rushed to the assistance of the wounded persons and thought all three had been shot. When the police ambulance arrived the driver found that, while Rosa Friedman and the man apparently were mortally injured, there was no wound on Helen. She was taken to a drug store and in a few minutes revived, as she had merely fainted from fright. When the ambulance arrived at the Massachusetts General Hospital with Friedman and Rosa the surgeon declared both were dead. The bodies were placed in the morgue.

Anna Friedman, a third sister, who is with her mother in New York, was actually informed of the tragedy nearly half an hour prior to its taking place, for Richard sent a telegram to her at 1 o'clock saying:

"I have just killed Rosa."

The mother, who has been sick for some time, is not yet aware of the news, her friends fearing that the shock would kill her.

Richard Friedman was insane. So says Dr. Frunsom of 113 Chambers street, who knew him well. He was for a time a photographer, but for two years he studied dentistry at the Harvard dental school, and it is said his mind was affected by his work there. Failing to complete his course and unable to practice, he turned his hand to the real estate business. He had lived in various parts of the West End. His last habitation is not known, but is believed to have been in Temple street. He was unmarried.

Previous Threats to Kill.

Helen Friedman says her brother had talked about shooting them before, and they were afraid of him. Rosa had been the sole support of the family, it is said. She worked in a store on Washington street, and also taught in a public evening school. Richard blamed her for not providing for the completion of his studies at the Harvard Dental College.

Richard Friedman had been threatening to commit suicide for the last year, and this was the chief topic of his conversation when talking with any of his friends. Last Friday Richard waylaid a young newspaper man, whom he knew, and told him he had something interesting to talk about. He then accompanied his friend to 43 McLean street, when he again threatened to kill himself.

Jokingly Told to Do It.

His friend, who looked upon his stories of committing suicide as a joke, laughed and said:

"Go and do it. You have done it so often that I am about used to it."

"Look here," said Friedman, "I came up here to ask your advice. I want to know whether, when I commit suicide, I should take my sister along with me. I have prepared a statement to the public, giving the reasons why I have committed suicide."

The manuscript consisted of eleven sheets of paper, and it gave a brief history of Richard Friedman and his sisters, also an account of his studies at Harvard Dental College and reasons why he thought his sisters were against allowing him to continue at the dental school.

"Is it strong enough?" asked Friedman. "I want the world to know that it was my sister's fault that I didn't finish my dental studies, when it needed but nine months to complete my education. When you hear that I have committed this deed don't let people run away with the idea that I was mad. And don't you ever afterward think that because a man commits suicide he is mad. That is a mistaken idea."

The newspaper acquaintance tried to make him understand that was thinking of a great wrong, but Friedman insisted that life was so sweet to his sister that he would have greater revenge by killing her.

TWO KILLED AND FORTY HURT IN RAILWAY WRECK.

Train on Pittsburg and Lake Erie Runs Into Open Switch and Over Embankment—Partial List of the Victims.

Pittsburg, Pa., June 24.—By the wrecking of train No. 23, north-bound on the Pittsburg and Lake Erie railroad at Monaca, twenty-six miles from this city, this evening, two persons are dead, three fatally injured, and forty others more or less hurt.

The dead:

BLACK, LAWRY, baggagemaster, Pittsburg.
CUNNINGHAM, WILLIAM J., fireman, McKee's Rocks, Pa.

Fatally injured:

Carse, Mrs. Jefferson, Beaver, Pa.; cut and bruised.
Lee, Mrs. James; Washington, Pa.; arm broken and hurt internally.
Perkins, Mrs. Lola B., Cleveland, O.; abdomen penetrated by splinter.

The wrecked train was known as No. 23, not the Cleveland flyer as at first reported. It left Pittsburg for Cleveland at 3:30 p. m. and was composed of two baggage cars, two day coaches, and one parlor car, in charge of Conductor F. L. Murray, and carried between 125 and 150 passengers.

From passengers it is learned that the train, while going fast, ran into an open switch at Monaca, and the entire train went over an embankment twenty-five feet high. Every car was turned over, two of them going over twice.

As soon as the news of the wreck reached the city Superintendent Yohe summoned a corps of physicians and took them to the scene on a special relief train.

KILLED BY SMOKING CIGARETS.

John Vickers of Chicago Dies Suddenly at Elgin, Ill., from Arsenical and Nicotine Poisoning.

Elgin, June 24.—[Special.]—John Vickers of Chicago died at the home of George Roberts, an uncle, in this city after an illness of a few hours. He was the victim of the cigaret and constantly smoked them. Two hours after death his body turned brown, and the physician who was called stated that the cause of death was arsenic and nicotine from cigarets.

FORBIDS TOY PISTOL FIRING.

Lieutenant Scmock Orders Arrest of All Boys Caught Discharging Weapons in Oak Park Before July 4.

The firing of toy pistols in Oak Park has become so frequent of late that Lieutenant Scmock issued an order yesterday to arrest all boys caught in the act of firing off pistols. This order will run until July 4, during which time the Lieutenant hopes to bring the Oak Park boys back to their old code of discipline.

Lemont Man Killed by Trolley Car.

John McGauley of Lemont, aged 27, was instantly killed Sunday night by a north-bound car on the street car line near Romeo. McGauley was lying on the track, and the motorman did not see him soon enough to stop. McGauley is the first victim of the new line operating between Lemont and Joliet.

Load of Hay Stops Trolley Car.

For nearly an hour yesterday morning traffic was stopped in Oak Park on the Lake street electric line by a load of hay upsetting at Harlem and Lake street. M. J. Quarter of Wheaton County, the owner of the hay, was driving along when a wheel came off his wagon, and he was buried under half a ton of hay. Passersby dug him out.

FLOOD VICTIMS LESS THAN 100.

Later Estimates of Death Loss in Elkhorn Valley Not So Fearful.

NEWS IS STILL DELAYED.

Days Must Elapse Before Full Details of the Storm Can Be Learned.

PROPERTY LOSS IS HEAVY.

Roanoke, Va., June 24.—[Special.]—It is still impossible to obtain a definite statement as to the losses to life and property as the result of Saturday's flood in the Elkhorn Valley. Neither the telegraph nor the railroad through the stricken valley has been repaired.

Up to tonight only fifty bodies have been recovered, while the list of missing and reported drowned contains the names of 249 persons. It will probably never be known how many perished. The estimates tonight place the number not to exceed seventy-five.

Railroad officials who have gone over the ground now estimate the damage to railroad and mine property, including cost of repairs, at $500,000.

General Manager Johnson of the Norfolk and Western railway this afternoon sent the following message to President Fink at New York, summarizing the losses:

"The best information is that about sixty people were drowned in the North Fork of the Elkhorn. Property loss about $300,000. The Norfolk and Western railroad suffered severe damage to its tracks and trestles. Expect to be open for traffic some time Wednesday if we have no more storm."

It will necessarily be several days before the real figures on the loss of life can be ascertained.

The devastated section covers an area of about twenty miles west of Bluefield. It is a narrow valley, not much wider than a broad street in some places. Coal mines are scattered all along the road.

Flood Damage at Keystone.

Keystone, the town reported to have been so greatly damaged, and which was at first believed to be wiped out of existence, is a village of between 2,000 and 3,000 people, and is built along the narrow valley and on the sides of the bluffs.

There is a creek which runs through the town, over which most of the houses are built on piles and rocks. This creek runs in a zigzag way through the narrow village, and has a gradual fall.

The mountains on either side loom up for hundreds of feet, and the town is so narrow in places that one is obliged to go into the middle of it to see the sky.

Persons familiar with the situation of the town say that it would be a death trap if the flood was as heavy as reported. Yet, they reason, that, occurring in the daytime, there was no reason why many people should have been caught in the onrush of the maddened waters. All reports agree that between 200 and 300 houses were swept away in the Elkhorn Valley, but, of course, not all the occupants were drowned.

Story of a Witness.

Mr. E. H. Stewart, a well-known furniture dealer in this city, was in the midst of all the storm and traveled on foot nearly the whole route devastated. Mr. Stewart had been to Jamestown, N. Y., on business and was returning via Columbus.

When the train reached Vivian, W. Va., about 9 o'clock Sunday morning water already covered a large portion of the yard, and the trainmen knew that no further progress could be made. The train was placed at the highest point on the yard. Rain was coming down in torrents, and while in the train Mr. Stewart saw about thirty cars washed from the yard and carried away by the rushing torrents, large trees uprooted nearby, while houses, bridges, furniture went whirling by in the water.

As the flood increased the water cut a channel on the other side of the train, leaving it between two streams. Then it was decided to take out those passengers who wished to leave the train, and a rope was attached to the platform of one of the cars and to a tree on the bank. Among the passengers was a woman, who, with the assistance of several men, was gotten safely to the bank. A number of men had narrow escapes from drowning in making the trip.

Walks to Keystone.

There was a letup in the rain and the flood subsided about noon, and at 1 o'clock Mr. Stewart and another passenger left the train and started to the next station, Keystone, five miles distant. Much of the track and several bridges had been washed away and the trip was made with great difficulty, a portion of the way on the track and the balance on the bluffs along the route.

Mr. Stewart says he saw a number of corpses along the route, but does not think more than forty people were drowned. When he reached Keystone about 3 o'clock he found that a number of buildings had been washed away, and it was estimated that along the whole route of the storm between 200 and 300 houses had been carried away, but the occupants of many of them had escaped to the hills. He saw one large building go down with the flood. Most of the buildings, however, were small affairs. The coke companies lost heavily on bridges and supplies.

Damage at Ennis.

At Ennis the depot was washed away and yesterday, when Mr. Stewart left, the safe had not been found. He walked to Keystone, to Ennis, and was taken from there to Bluefield, arriving in Roanoke today.

Mr. Stewart's statement can be relied on as being a truthful story of the flood and the most complete statement so far given out.

An official telegram from Ennis says the water came in a wave and so sudden that people could not get out of the way of it. The water rose to a height of six feet in thirty minutes.

Arrival of Early Train.

Fuller details of the disaster were expected on the arrival of the passenger train from the west over the Norfolk and Western railroad at 5:30 o'clock this morning. When the train came in there were many people at the station who had waited anxiously all night for the belated news carrier from the devastated coal fields of West Virginia.

Among those who came in on this train, and who had been in the storm, were a prominent business-man of Roanoke, several railroad men, and a woman and two children. They came direct to Roanoke from Vivian, and were compelled to walk a distance of eleven miles from that place to the small town of Ennis, where they were enabled to get a train for this city.

These passengers declare that the number of deaths has been exaggerated, in their opinions, and feel confident that not more than 100 people have lost their lives, though they cannot say with any certainty as to the number. The mountain districts lying back from the railroads probably have suffered heavily.

Panic on Passenger Train.

A railroad man who has been working at Vivian said that the rain started last Friday night and continued for some time in moderation, but shortly after midnight the heavens seemed to open and poured forth great volumes of water. When the cloud burst over the Town of Vivian there was a passenger train standing in the railroad yards. About forty passengers, of whom three were women, were in the cars.

The water rose rapidly and soon was over the trucks of the cars. Houses and cars were being washed about before the eyes of the frightened passengers. Ropes were thrown to the cars and the male passengers caught them and waded through the water, which was now waist deep, to places of safety around the coke ovens on the adjoining hill. The women were too much frightened to get into the water and were placed on the tender of the engine, where they were safe.

Other portions of the railroad yards were washed out and a hundred box cars were wrecked.

Destruction at Vivian.

The house in which the sectionmaster at Vivian lived was washed away. A young son of the sectionmaster rode on driftwood for four miles and was then lodged in a tree from which he was rescued. A colored section hand who was in the sectionmaster's house when the flood struck the building was drowned. The rain ceased falling about 9 o'clock on Saturday morning. There has been no rain since that hour and the streams are gradually falling.

A big furniture store and a large clothing house were washed away at Vivian, as also were about a dozen small dwellings which were situated in the lower portion of the village.

Two dead bodies, both colored men, were seen at Eckman, and three colored and one white corpse at Empire.

Two iron bridges were washed away at Vivian and another at North Fork Junction, and three persons are reported to have been drowned near the latter place. All the bridges and trestle work have been washed away on the Simmons River, branch of the Norfolk and Western system. All telegraph lines are down and tracks are badly washed out on this division. The people who came from Vivian did not come through the town of Keystone, but only around it. They state, however, that the damage done there is nothing like as great as was at first reported. They think that not more than a dozen houses were washed away. They cannot say how many, if any, lives were lost at Keystone. Of the ten miles of railroad between the towns of Vivian and Ennis it is stated there is not 100 yards of track in one place and it is thought this division will not be repaired for a fortnight. Fifty people walked over this washed-out territory on Sunday to get from Vivian to Ennis.

Damage to Coal Fields.

The damage done all over the coal fields is large, but every one seems to have been too greatly excited and too anxious to get away to take time to inquire into the affairs of their neighbors. It is certain, however, that much valuable machinery has been washed away. Many of the wrecked cars along the Elkhorn Valley have been washed down the river and probably will be a total loss.

East of Ennis the train had little trouble getting through to Bluefields. Two bridges are gone between Vivian and Welch. At Shawnee the Shawnee Coal company lost all its mine mules which were in the stable when the storm swept down on them.

A report from Keystone has it that a mob of negroes there refuses to work for $2 a day, but are loafing around and watching their chances to steal from the débris. Another report says that the number of dead there is seventeen, and that of this number ten have been buried.

Two Negro Vandals Shot.

It is reported that Dr. Hatfield, a prominent physician and a kinsman of the famous feudists of this section and Kentucky, was compelled to shoot two negro plunderers who were robbing defenseless flood sufferers. The negroes' names are George Wade and Alex. Watts, both desperate characters.

The recovery of bodies in the last twenty-four hours has not amounted to many. The reason assigned is that the corpses of the missing are hidden in mammoth piles of débris. Some of these piles are thirty feet high and cover in some instances as much as a half acre of ground, and it is the work of days to search through them. It has been suggested that the best plan would be to burn these masses of débris, but the friends of the dead are loud in their denunciation of the idea. So bitter is the feeling regarding this matter that if it is attempted bloodshed will be the result.

Some of the Victims.

With the meager information at hand it is impossible at the present time to compile a list of the victims of the flood. Less than a score of bodies have been recovered and identified. Only isolated names and instances of loss of life can be given.

J. W. Crotty, a fireman on the Norfolk and Western road, who resides in this city, received a message yesterday from Bluefield that his father, mother, one sister, two brothers, and sister-in-law, with her two children, were lost in the floods Saturday at Keystone. Mr. Crotty's people lived in the center of the town. A neighbor of the Crottys who escaped the flood informed Mr. Crotty at Bluefield Saturday that he saw the Crotty house move off in the waters.

William Teigend and wife were drowned. Their home floated away before they were aware of their danger.

Crazed by the Storm.

Martha Morgan, a white woman, became so excited that she deliberately threw herself into the water and was lost, her dead body being recovered over a mile below her house.

Mrs. McCoy, an aged colored woman, together with her daughter, Mrs. Nellie Smith, and granddaughter, Annie Smith, were washed down in their cabins. When their bodies were recovered their hands still remained clasped. The bodies of Sam Peindexter, John Ballard, Bell Brown, and a family of mother and four children, all colored, were all recovered. The bodies of John Lewis (white), Ira Neff, and a Hungarian mother and baby have been recovered.

One of the gruesome features of the flood was the destruction of a graveyard. The torrent washed through the little mountain cemetery, carrying away tombstones, coffins, and bodies.

There are hundreds of homeless men, women, and children along the length of the desolated valley, and there will doubtless be much suffering. Fortunately, the work of rebuilding will furnish employment to the men, and they will thus be able to supply their families.

Fifteen hundred laborers are already at work clearing away the débris and repairing railroad tracks and establishing telegraphic communication. It will be several weeks before railroad traffic will be resumed, and probably longer before the mines will be in operation. About twenty collieries and coke manufacturing plants are damaged.

Work of Rebuilding.

There will be work for thousands of men in rehabilitating the valley. Thirty miles of railway track must be regraded and laid with new ties and rails. Scores of bridges must be rebuilt. Many miles of telegraph constructed. Coal mines and coke plants must be cleared of rubbish.

The Crane Creek branch of the Norfolk and Western, which had been recently graded, has been completely destroyed for seven miles and will have to be rebuilt.

The Big Four mines are flooded and the delivery tracks are gone.

The railroad company has gone to work promptly.

This morning many trainloads of men from all occupations left here to aid in the work of rescue and repair.

The railroad shop men, conductors, engineers, and all are at the scene of the storm horror, while every available man on the nearly 1,000-mile system has been rushed to the scene. Appeals to connecting railroads for wrecking crews and men have been responded to.

THUGS STRANGLE WOMAN AND TAKE HER MONEY.

Mrs. John Roach Attacked in Dark Hall by Two Men Who Choke Her Into Insensibility with a Strip of Cloth.

Two men attacked Mrs. John Roach last night in the hallway of her flat at 157 North Center avenue, and after choking her into insensibility with a rope of cloth robbed her of a purse containing $5 and escaped. A few minutes later Mr. Roach discovered his wife nearly strangled to death, the cloth rope having been tied so tightly that he had to cut it with his knife. Dr. Joseph Bindley, who was summoned to revive the woman, expressed the belief that she would have died had her husband's coming been delayed a few minutes.

Mr. Roach, after summoning Dr. Bindley, hurried to the West Chicago Avenue Police Station and reported the matter to Lieutenant Stephen Healy. Within half an hour the police had arrested six suspects. One of these, John Peterson, Lieutenant Healy says, refuses to answer questions, and it is believed he is one of Mrs. Roach's assailants. Peterson was arrested in the vicinity of the Roach home. Sergeant Foley also found Mrs. Roach's purse in the yard in the rear of the Roach house. The pocketbook was empty. It is believed by Lieutenant Healy the purse was dropped while the men were running away.

Mrs. Roach was attacked while she was coming down the stairway. She had in her hand a pitcher, and as she was about to open a door which leads to the yard she heard some one move close by her side. She attempted to run back up-stairs, but had only gone a few feet when she found herself in the grasp of a man. Mrs. Roach was about to scream when the man took a piece of cloth from his pocket and tied it around her neck. Mrs. Roach tried to free herself, and was getting the best of the struggle, when the door opened, and she was seized by another man from behind. She was forced to the floor, and at the same time one of her assailants tightened the cloth, and in a few moments she had lost her senses.

Mr. Roach had returned home from work, and was waiting for his wife to return home with some groceries which she had gone out for. After waiting some time he became anxious and started out to find her, and stumbled over her unconscious form in the hall. His first thought was that his wife was sick, and it was several minutes before he discovered the piece of cloth. He at once suspected his wife had been attacked by robbers, and after seeing his family physician went to the police station. Dr. Bindley says Mrs. Roach is in a critical condition, and that it will be several weeks before she will be able to leave her bed. The woman says she will be unable to identify her assailants, as she could not get a good look at their faces.

WIFE GONE SIXTH TIME.

EMIL SCHULTZ CALLS MARRIAGE A FAILURE FOR YOUTH.

At 19 He Was Wedded to Girl of 15 and She Frequently Packs Her Things and Goes to Home of Parents, Returning Two Days Later—This Time Man Says He Will Sell the Furniture—Quarrel About the Saloon Business.

"Marriage is a failure," said Emil Schultz yesterday when he returned to his home at 500 North Ashland avenue, to find that for the sixth time his wife had packed her belongings and gone with them to her parents. As usual she had taken the children with her.

Six years ago, when Schultz had reached the age of 19 years, he married pretty Mary Myslewicz, who confessed to 15 summers. Since that time he has divided his time between managing a saloon and trying to make life pleasant for his wife. For the first three years the household moved on smoothly, but since then Schultz has never been sure when he reached home from work whether his wife had a meal prepared for him or had moved out. A short time ago her parents moved into the same neighborhood with their daughter, so that she does not have so far to go.

Schultz is employed as a bartender at the Silver Moon saloon in West Madison street, working from 1 o'clock in the morning until 1 o'clock in the afternoon. When he left for work early yesterday morning his wife leaned out of the window and threw him a kiss as he boarded the car. When he returned in the afternoon he found that the room had been stripped of everything that belonged to her, as well as several Christmas presents that she had given him from year to year.

According to Schultz, his wife was the cause of his failure in the saloon business. Last winter he was conducting a saloon at 707 Milwaukee avenue, and he says she went to the police and complained of him, saying that he was maintaining winerooms. Schultz says that his business was ruined in that way.

"She complained about two other saloons I was keeping," said Schultz. "One of them was at 484 Milwaukee avenue and the other at 61 Clark street. You can't make money in a saloon without winerooms, and I lost all I had. I never knew who complained about me until the police said my wife kept going to the station every day and urging my arrest. I guess she didn't like the saloon business. She wanted me to work in a shop.

"This is the last chance she will ever have to return to her mother," said Schultz. "I am going to sell all the furniture to a second-hand man. The first two or three times she went away I used to take the hatchet and chop up some of the furniture, but lately I have held my temper and waited until she came back. She usually came in two days. I let her in because I wanted to see the children.

"I do not think any young man ought to get married," added Schultz sadly.

BURGLAR ALARM STIRS FAMILY.

Moses J. Wentworth's Household Is Awakened—Police Called, but Find No Trace of Thieves.

The family of Moses J. Wentworth, 465 Elm street, were awakened at 11 o'clock last night by the loud ringing of a burglar alarm bell, and the police of the East Chicago Avenue Station were summoned by telephone to catch the burglars.

When the police arrived they discovered a window in the pantry, in the rear of the house, had been opened, but were unable to find any traces of thieves. There were no tracks visible, and the manner in which the window was opened puzzled the police. After a thorough search of the premises, however, they failed to find any clew, and assured the family there was no danger.

KILLING LAID TO POLICEMAN STARK

Witness Says He Saw Accused Fire Shot Causing William Moriarity's Death.

STORY TOLD TO CORONER.

Testimony Has Little Weight with Jurymen, Who Return an Open Verdict.

DENIAL BY THE PATROLMAN.

Probably the final act in the mystery of the fatal shooting of William Moriarity at Twenty-second and State streets on Sunday night was concluded yesterday when a Coroner's jury returned a verdict declaring that Moriarity had "come to his death by a shot fired by an unknown person." The jury also recommended that the unknown murderer be apprehended and held to await the action of the grand jury. The inquest was conducted by Deputy Coroner Buckley at the Twenty-second Street Police Station.

The verdict was returned after the startling testimony of A. Howsley, a colored man, who declared he had stood within three feet of Policeman Henry Stark of the Cottage Grove Avenue Station, who, he said, he saw draw his revolver and fire the shot that caused Moriarity to sprawl from a kneeling posture into a heap on the street car track, where he was picked up a few moments later dead.

Says He Saw Stark Shoot.

"I saw two policemen running up," asserted Howsley, "and Stark, who was in front, pushed the other to one side and pulled his gun from his hip pocket. As he jerked it out he pointed it toward the ground and fired. Moriarity was on his knees in the street, and after the flash of the gun he pitched forward on his face in the tracks.

"As soon as the shot was fired the policeman put the gun back in his pocket. I could tell the gun was a Colt's by its muffled sound. It had a black handle and a long, blue barrel. I have known Policeman Stark for fifteen years and could not be mistaken in the man. He did not point the gun at any one in particular; just pulled it out and fired toward the ground."

Stark's revolver was examined shortly after he had been placed under surveillance, and according to Sergeants Supple and Duffy the weapon had not been discharged recently.

Stark Denies Shooting.

"Howsley is mistaken in his identification," declared Policeman Stark after the inquest. "The testimony of a dozen witnesses will prove that the shot was fired before I entered the crowd. I have been on the Police department fourteen years, too long to lose my head and do an act of the kind pictured by Howsley. I traveled in the levee district for many years and did not have many friends among those fellows. That may explain the testimony."

"I don't believe the policeman intended to shoot the man," declared Howsley after the inquest, "but they can't try to send any other man to prison on that charge, because I'll be in the courtroom, and I'll tell the Judge and jury what I saw."

Police Evolve a Theory.

That the shot was fired by a friend of Lillian Huntley, the girl injured by a brick hurled during the brawl in which Moriarity was killed, is the theory evolved by the police during the hearing before the Deputy Coroner. They declare that men known to have been with her a few minutes before the shooting, and who witnessed the injury to her, are being sought and have disappeared from the places frequented by them. That the men were actuated by a spirit of revenge in shooting one of the rioters, and the fact that both men carried weapons and displayed them, is said by the police to reconcile the conflicting testimony of the witnesses.

Detectives Howe and Canty of the Central Station, who with policeman Stark and Flynn were detained in the station to await the finding, expressed gratification when the verdict was announced. Inspector Hartnett listened closely to the evidence.

Many Hesitate to Testify.

The testimony of many of the witnesses was given reluctantly and aroused the anger of the Deputy Coroner. Charles Hill, Thomas Brennan, and Albert Dwsley, the three billposters said to have been attacked by Moriarity and his friends, declared that, although within a few feet of the man who fired the shot, they were unable to describe him, and had never seen him previously.

Varying descriptions of the mysterious man were given by witnesses until A. Howsley, 1916 Armour avenue, an employé of the government secret service, was called to the stand. A description of the struggle and the location of the men was given by him, and he told the story of the shooting previously detailed.

Howsley Sticks to His Story.

Howsley was sharply questioned by Inspector Hartnett, Lieutenant Cronin, and Sergeant Supple, but persisted in his identification. He was asked if Policeman Tetcomb had not been the first man identified by him and denied it.

The testimony showed the quarrel to have been occasioned by a dispute between Charles Hill, foreman of the bill posting crew, and Moriarity a few days before.

Lawrence Martin, 602 Twenty-second street, a messenger boy, testified that a tall man attired in a light suit and straw hat had fired the shot.

Thomas Casey, 6627 Evans avenue, declared that a small man had drawn a revolver and leveled it at him. The shot, he said, was fired while his back was turned.

RICH MAN TO RESIDE AMONG HIS EMPLOYES.

J. E. Tilt to Forsake His Fine Mansion in Chicago for a Farmhouse at Big Shoe Factory Near Binghamton, N.Y.

In his desire to study industrial problems at close range J. E. Tilt, 546 Evanston avenue, proprietor of the Goodyear welt factory in this city, and a man whose fortune is written with six figures, has decided to live among the men who earn their bread in the sweat of their brows. He will give up the fine mansion in Lake View which occupies nearly a block, and in the near future will reside in a small, white farmhouse, situated eight miles from Binghamton, N. Y., where the Endicott Manufacturing company has erected an immense shoe factory.

Mr. Tilt has accepted the position of general manager of the Goodyear welt department of the factory, and has purchased the farmhouse in which he will live. It is a two-story frame structure, painted white, with proverbial green blinds, and surrounded with vines and flowers. It is no more pretentious than the home of the average factory hand. The Tilt family is expected to take possession of the house in a few weeks, and begin the work of getting acquainted with the neighbors.

The plan which Mr. Tilt is about to carry into execution is one which those who know him intimately believe will be attended with good results in its carrying out. Mr. Tilt has a reputation for being democratic in his ways among his employés, and is said to enjoy their confidence and esteem to an unusual degree. He has long been in search of a solution of the housing problem, among others, and the opportunity before him is said to have been eagerly accepted.

ALL NIGHT ON THE CANAL

SIXTEEN YOUNG PEOPLE HELD PRISONERS BY STONE WALLS.

Ten Naval Militiamen and Six Young Women Friends Go to Lockport in Dorothea Launch—On Return Trip Engine Breaks Down and Boat Drifts to Summit, Where Landing Is Made—No Water and Little Food—Anxious Friends Search in Vain.

Adrift on the placid waters of the Drainage Canal, the precipitous walls on each side making a landing impossible, sixteen Chicago young people floated along in the evening and sighed vainly for warm meals and ice water. Ten members of the Illinois Naval Reserves, accompanied by six young women friends, composed the party, and the thirty-two foot launch of the training ship Dorothea was the vessel on which they were prisoners within a few miles of home.

In the meantime brothers and fathers were telephoning to Lockport and vainly searching the lake front basin and questioning bridge tenders to learn some tidings of the boat.

Permission to use the steam launch Waite, an appropriate name for the occasion, for a trip down the canal had been obtained by members of the militia and a small party was formed. According to the schedule arranged by Master-at-Arms John Welsh the launch was to depart at 10:30 a. m. Sunday, reach Lockport a few hours later, and return to its starting point at 8:30 p. m.

Return at 8 in the Morning.

Instead, ten bedraggled and sleepy voyagers emerged from a Chicago and Alton passenger train at 8 o'clock yesterday morning and moved wearily toward the surface lines that would carry them to their homes. Four others had stumbled across farming lands to Lyons, where water, food, and street cars could be found, while the commanding officers remained aboard the launch, ostensibly to guard the craft and repair its damaged boiler, but in reality to escape the contumely which the hungry crew and passengers had heaped upon them.

Master-at-Arms Joseph Williams and Dowie Butner, Engineer Hardin and Fireman Frank Butner, Machinist L. Jones and Charles Shewey, accompanied by Miss Nellie Browning, 427 Forty-second place; Miss Nellie Miller, 727 Sixty-third street; and the Misses Noyes were the first of the party to arrive at their homes.

During the trip down the canal the machinery of the launch acted as if under the inspection of a naval examining board. The first break came while a few miles below Summit on the return journey, and after a few minutes' delay was patched up. Another that taxed the patience of the amateur engineers followed, and at the hour when they should have arrived at home the final break came, and the chief engineer announced that no further progress could be made until daylight.

On each side of the craft the clean-cut banks of the canal loomed seemingly mountain high, and no friendly agriculturist with ropes or ladders to release them appeared in answer to the feminine screams of dismay. The water keg of the launch had been emptied shortly after leaving Lockport, and the one ham sandwich and two chocolate cakes remaining in the hampers were at once stored away in the cabin, to be divided when hunger had driven them to the last stand.

For two hours the boat drifted past the artificial palisades before a break was reached. At this point no farmhouse or other habitation could be seen, so the drifting trip was resumed. At Summit a landing was made shortly before sunrise, and a foraging party was formed, which, after much exertion, aroused one of the residents, and returned carrying four sandwiches and three bottles of root beer. Telegrams also were sent to Chicago telling of the breakdown.

Four Walk to Street Cars.

Four of the party started at once to a point where street cars could be reached. The others remained and waited for the next train. "If we could have allayed the anxiety of friends in Chicago, the experience would not have been an unpleasant one," said Miss Browning. "We can discuss the tribulations of shipwrecked sailors with an appreciation not felt before, while regular meals and sleep are things to be almost revered. I would not have missed it for a great deal, but I would not experience it again, willingly, for a great deal more."

TO CONTROL SALT OUTPUT OF WORLD

Negotiations About Complete for the First International Trust.

CAPITAL OF $50,000,000.

Gen. D. E. Sickles Indorses Move to Remove Pension Commissioner Evans.

GENERAL NEW YORK NEWS.

NEW YORK BUREAU CHICAGO TRIBUNE, New York, June 24.

The plans for the first international trust to be actually launched are almost ready for announcement.

International Salt Trust Is Formed.

An official of the National Salt company said today: "A plan for an international salt company has been under advisement for some months, and practically has come to a head. The company will include the Salt union of England, the Canadian Salt company, and the National Salt company.

"When formed it will supply Japan and China, as well as the United States, South America, Great Britain and her colonies, and continental Europe with salt—practically the entire world, excepting Russia and barbarian peoples. Its production will range from 5,000,000 to 6,000,000 tons of salt a year, of which the National will furnish about one-third.

"The Salt union of England owns wells in the Cheshire district, in England; the National Salt company owns wells and mines of salt in the States of New York, Michigan, Ohio, Kansas, Texas, and Louisiana. The Canadian Salt company owns wells in the Province of Ontario.

"The company will be the first international trust ever formed, and probably will be capitalized at not less than $50,000,000. Mr. McDonald in England and President Archibald S. White of the National Salt company have to do chiefly with the plans."

The Standard Oil interests are understood to be behind the whole plan. One of the schemes is said to be the manufacture of sea salt at Porto Rico, this salt of a coarse grade being good for curing fish. The National Salt company was incorporated under the laws of New Jersey in March, 1899, and acquired the business of the National Salt company of West Virginia, which company was the distributer of the products of thirteen companies in New York State. These companies produced at the time of the consolidation over 90 per cent of the evaporated salt from brine by artificial heat manufactured in this State. All of the companies which were acquired transferred to the new corporation their good will, patents, trade marks, and all other property, taking in payment stock of the new company and the balance in cash. The capital stock of the National Salt company consists of $5,000,000 7 per cent noncumulative preferred stock and $7,000,000 common stock, all of which is outstanding.

Senator Chauncey M. Depew, chairman of the Boards of Directors of the Vanderbilt lines, will sail on the steamship St. Louis next Wednesday for his annual vacation trip to Europe. He will be accompanied by his son and his neice, Miss Paulding, and the party will remain abroad until early in September. Senator Depew expects to take things leisurely and visit only a few of the European cities.

"The veterans demand that Pension Commissioner Evans shall not be retained in office, and I say 'Amen,'" General Daniel E. Sickles remarked to a reporter today. Regarding the statement of Corporal Says Evans Will Be Removed.

John Tanner that General Sickles had written a pledge that Commissioner Evans would be retired, General Sickles said he had received such assurances from the National committee in September last. It authorized him to state that Commissioner Evans would not be retained in office after the expiration of his term in March, 1901. General Sickles said, further:

"It is a grave misapprehension to suppose, as many people do, that the demand for the retirement of Commissioner Evans comes mainly from the pension agents. My belief is that, with perhaps a dozen exceptions, Governor Evans could not obtain the signatures of five veterans in any Grand Army post in the country favoring his retention in office."

General Samuel C. Lawrence's steam yacht Ibis, bound east, grounded on Nigger Point reef, on the south side of Ward's Island, opposite Astoria, at low tide this morning and stuck fast until nearly 3 o'clock in the afternoon, when the flood tide floated it off.

Beaten in the Court of Appeals in her attempt to break her mother's will, Mrs. Edith H. Simmons of Yankton, S. D., formerly of this city, has sent a last appeal for her mother's old clothes, jewelry, and pictures, and she is likely to get them, even if giving them does technically break the law. The Farmers' Loan and Trust company today sent Controller Coler a check on the National City Bank for $52,204, in compliance with a decree of the Surrogate's Court.

This money was left by Mrs. Angelina Crane, who died in 1894, to the city for the purpose of erecting a drinking fountain, and was part of an estate of about $73,000 which Mrs. Crane left. Her daughter, who was cut off with a bequest of $5, contested the will on the ground that the City of New York was not qualified under its charter to accept such a gift. She was beaten.

The daughter married a Dr. Simmons, and it is said this embittered the mother against her. The will stated that the daughter was cut off with only $5 because of her unfilial conduct toward her mother.

A widely circulated report in Wall street today had it that F. A. Vanderlip would soon become an officer in the National City Bank, perhaps one of its Vice Presidents. At that institution no statement in regard to the report was forthcoming in the absence of President Stillman.

It was announced today that the United States Steel company has completed negotiations for the purchase of the Pittsburg Coal company. One of the members of the underwriting syndicate of the steel trust would not confirm or deny the report, and intimated that the time had not arrived for discussion of this matter. The coal company has paid 7 per cent dividends on its preferred shares since the time of its organization.

Judge Gary of the United States Steel corporation said today: "President Cassatt of the Pennsylvania railway company voluntarily stated to me a few days ago that his people had purchased both the Cambria Steel company and the Pennsylvania Steel company, and at the same time assured me that it would be the disposition of these companies to operate in entire harmony with the United States Steel corporation. Basing my statement on previous business transactions with Mr. Cassatt, I am pleased to say his assurances are received with perfect confidence and entire satisfaction. None of the interests of any of the steel companies will be prejudiced by reason of these purchases."

The United States Steel company is negotiating for the purchase of the Flat Top Coal Land association properties. The latter company practically owns the territory from Pocahontas to Gray, Pa., which includes the celebrated Pocahontas coal field over which the storm swept on Sunday. The deal by which the famous coal land will pass into the hands of the steel corporation will be consummated within a few days. The price agreed upon is $10,000,000.

The horses of this city today received more care and consideration at the hands of their drivers than they have for some time.

Extra Care Is Given Horse During Epidemic.

The drivers had read about the epidemic of influenza or other disease, which now numbers among its victims about two-thirds of the horses of the city, and they took care not to overheat the animals. Lighter loads were carried and blankets spread when standing. A name for the disease which has struck this city was found today. It is "laryngial," according to the surgeons of the American Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals.

It is not at all likely to prove fatal, and the only deaths reported today were due to exhaustion.

"The Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals is watching this epidemic," said President John P. Haines. "Unless the sick horses show evidence of exhaustion we shall not prevent drivers from working them. In fact, light work is recommended by veterinarians. We believe the disease to be infectious, but not contagious. As soon as the weather settles the horses will begin to recover and the epidemic will die out."

Mrs. Thomas G. Barker, wife of the convicted assailant of the Rev. John Keller, visited her husband in the Hudson County Jail today for the first time since his conviction. Mr. Keller's friends advise him to apply to Bishop Starkey for a trial by an ecclesiastical court and to also insist upon a public trial.

A jury in the Supreme Court today rendered a verdict which is of interest to book publishers, as it involved the meaning of the term "book rights" in a contract. The case was that of Paul R. Reynolds, an agent of Doubleday, Page & Co., against L. C. Page & Co. of Boston. Mr. Reynolds, as agent, sold to the Boston firm the "book rights" of W. Clark Russell's novel, "A Ship's Adventures." When the contract and assignment of copyright were forwarded to Boston, L. C. Page & Co. declined to sign the contract, and substituted one of their own drafting, which included the serial and dramatic rights to the novel, as well as the right to publish it in book form. They contended that this was what they understood by the term "book rights."

In the trial today before Justice Leventritt a number of publishers were on the witness stand. Arthur H. Scribner, Frank M. Lovell, and a representative of E. P. Dutton & Co. testified that they understood that the term "book rights" covered all rights of publication. F. A. Stokes, F. A. Doubleday, and T. C. McClure testified that the term now meant only the right to publish in book form. The jury, after some deliberation, brought in a verdict of $800 in favor of the plaintiff.

It is understood the case will be appealed and may eventually reach the United States Supreme Court, as it involves a number of points of importance to publishers.

Frank S. Peer of Ithaca, a passenger aboard the liner Minnehaha, in today from London, had under his charge a consignment of fifty-two head of choice cattle, including ten Jerseys, for William Rockefeller.

Miss Rosalie Loew, representing the Legal Aid society, obtained a writ of habeas corpus from Justice MacLean in the Supreme Court today. This writ is directed against Count Gyula de Festetics and orders him to produce in court his 4-year-old son, Dwight. The writ was issued on the petition of the Countess de Festetics, who, before her marriage was Elsie Haven, daughter of Charles Haven. According to the Countess she and the Count separated about a year ago, and under the articles of separation she was to have their son, Dwight. The father was to be allowed to see the child at certain times. The Count called for the boy on June 15 and took him away on the promise to return him the next morning. This he failed to do. It is supposed that the Count is now in New Jersey with the boy, or that he has gone to Europe.

A summer season was begun at the Knickerbocker Theater tonight, when the program described as a musical comedy entitled "The Strollers" was produced. This piece would be more fitly called a farce with music interspersed. It is taken from the German of L. Krenn and C. Lindau. The program failed to reveal to an expectant public the name of the person who made the adaptation, but it has been stated on several occasions that the librettist in ordinary to the United States, Harry B. Smith, was to be the author of the book.

"The Strollers" is as good as anything of its kind lately presented in New York, and in many respects much better. It needs a lot of cutting, but that is always the case with those things when they are first made public. The jokes are all of honorable age, and they are hurled at the hearer in a way that leaves nothing to his imagination.

There is an aged Prince, who spends his money on a ballet girl, like a real nobleman, and there is another man who shows her a pocketbook well filled, and so wins her. As for the strollers themselves, they are two happy-go-lucky tramps, good humored, ready in farcical resource, and as dishonest as possible. Their adventures with a diamond necklace which they have found form the main story of the play. The music is rhythmic, tuneful, and pleasing.

Marie George was vivacious and danced well in the rôle of the ballet girl, and Edwin Foy's peculiar drolleries fitted well into the part of the jailer. The chorus was large and active. Francis Wilson acted with his usual drollery.

GOVERNOR NASH TO BE RENOMINATED IN OHIO.

WAIST A SUICIDE CLEW.

SUMMER GARMENT LEFT ON VIRGINIA WAS "ROSA RICHTER'S."

Mrs. George Church, Whose Maiden Name Only Appears in First Reports, Takes Her Life Because of Domestic Trouble—Mrs. Anna Woycik, a Sister, Identifies Clothing and Receipts Found on the Boat as the Property of Her Missing Relative.

A woman's shirtwaist, white, with a small black figure, and some receipts, proved yesterday the much discredited story that a woman really did leap or fall from the steamboat Virginia into the lake on Sunday while the boat was making its daily trip to Milwaukee. Her name turned out to be Mrs. George Church. Before her marriage her name was Rosa Richter. She had separated from her husband, and from her despondency and significant remarks concerning her death it is believed she had planned to take her life.

Mrs. Anna Woycik, a sister of the woman, called at the Goodrich docks in the morning and identified the articles left in the seat on the main deck where Mrs. Church was last seen before she jumped overboard. Mrs. Woycik had read the report in the morning papers and became convinced that her sister had carried out her threat to commit suicide.

The articles left behind consisted of the shirtwaist, three handkerchiefs, and two receipts for money which bore Mrs. Church's signature. Mrs. Woycik had been present when the shirtwaist had been purchased and identified it. The signature she also identified as her sister's. The handkerchiefs were marked with the name of a Chicago haberdashery, and inquiry there brought forth a description of the purchaser which corresponded with Mrs. Church's appearance.

Talks with Mrs. Church.

Mary Rick, 3731 Shields avenue, appeared at the office of the steamship company and stated that she had been sitting next to Mrs. Church on the deck before the latter disappeared. The woman had given her some cards engraved with the name "Rosa Richter," and they had conversed on ordinary topics for some time. At length Mrs. Church rose and strolled down the deck, leaving her bundles apparently in charge of Miss Rick, as if she were soon to return. That was the last seen of her.

No one saw the woman jump overboard, but several passengers asserted they saw her afterwards in the water, and they urged the Captain to put back and search for the body. The Captain doubted the truth of the rumor and did not put out a boat.

Mrs. Church had been in partnership with her husband in a bakery business on the West Side. A few months ago the couple quarreled and a separation followed. Mrs. Church was greatly depressed by the trouble, and several times remarked to her sister:

"You will never see me again."

Sister of the Suicide Talks.

"My sister's death is due to her long brooding over sad events in her life," said Mrs. Woycik last night at her home, 410 Cornell street. "She was separated from her husband because of money matters. For a long time now she has worked in a cigar factory, Hansen's, at 351 Milwaukee avenue, where the girls are not allowed to talk during working hours. That is all right for men, but for women—especially if they have had trouble—it is a hardship. Not to talk, to joke, or laugh makes them have to think all the time. I work in the same place and I have seen Rose every day sitting thinking about the same thing, about her husband. She thinks and thinks, and something in her head gets worse and worse. Her husband's home is Pontiac, Mich. He wrote her recently that he was going West, and that she probably never would see him again.

"On Saturday morning she was like a crazy woman. She could not work, and at last went home, saying to one of the girls named Pearl, as she went out: 'Good-by, you will never see me again.' I went to her room, at Noble and Cornelia streets, that night, Sunday, and again today, but she was not there. Then I saw the story about Rose Richter in the paper, and went at once to the Goodrich docks. They declared the story was false and they knew nothing about it, but at last they said it was so, and took me to the police station, and there I saw some of Rose's clothes."

HANNA CONTROLS OHIO CONVENTION

Wins Delegations in All of the Twenty-one Districts Represented in Gathering.

FORAKER DEFINES POLICY

Points Out Important Bearing Results in McKinley State Will Have on Nation.

NOMINATIONS FOR TODAY.

Columbus, O., June 24.—[Special.]—The preliminary session of the Republican State convention this afternoon was without incident, except to emphasize the hold of Senator Hanna upon the party in Ohio. He and Senator Foraker captured every member of the new Central committee, and had their way all through the convention both in the district meetings and the open session.

One of the dramatic features of the district meetings was the turning down of the venerable ex-Governor Foster for member of the Committee on Resolutions in the Thirteenth District and the substitution of H. N. Quigley of Marion County, a young and unknown man.

Caldwell Withdraws His Name.

Lieutenant Governor Caldwell caused quite a stir tonight by announcing that he would not be a candidate for renomination. This ended the conferences that have been in almost continuous sessions the last two days. The representatives of the brewers express their displeasure at what they call the enforced retirement of Caldwell and the recent defeat of State Senator Selber and others for renomination, while the author of the Clark local option law has been renominted in Columbus for Representative.

When Caldwell declined renomination, George B. Cox, chairman of the Hamilton County delegation, suggested State Senator Carl Nippert of Cincinnati to a conference of the leaders, and there is now no doubt that Senator Nippert will be nominated for Lieutenant Governor.

A forecast of the ticket indicates the following:

For Governor	George K. Nash
For Lieutenant Governor	Carl L. Nippert
For Supreme Judge	W. B. Crew
For Clerk of Supreme Court	A. C. Critchfield
For Attorney General	J. M. Sheets
For State Treasurer	J. B. Cameron
For Member of Board of Public Works	W. G. Johnson

Platform Is Outlined.

The Committee on Resolutions concluded its work before 11 o'clock tonight. The platform reaffirms the Philadelphia declarations and indorses the administrations of President McKinley and Governor Nash. It commends the last Ohio Legislature, and especially the records of Senators Foraker and Hanna, with the specific recommendation of the former for reëlection. A liberal administration of the pension laws is demanded; the disfranchisement of colored voters in the South is denounced, and especially the rage of lynchings.

The recent declarations of certain Democrats in Ohio on taxation are denounced, and a careful revision of the taxation laws in Ohio is recommended so that corporations rather than properties shall bear the burden of taxes. The plank on State taxes is the same as the one adopted by the county convention last week in Cleveland. The faith of the party is specifically expressed in the President's insular policy, in commercial and tariff matters, and in never taking down the flag, and great stress is laid on sustaining the President with Republicans in control of Congress. The Hanna merchant marine bill is indorsed and the Democrats are asked to make prize fighting an issue on Governor Nash.

Hanna for Permanent Chairman.

The resolutions adopted tonight by the Committee on Rules were prepared by General Dick Monday, and they were adopted without the change of a single word or sentence. Senator Hanna will be the permanent chairman of the convention tomorrow, and he is booked for one of his picturesque speeches.

When the delegates met at 2:30 p. m. by Congressional districts the Hanna men swept everything in the twenty-one districts.

The large auditorium was crowded at 4 p. m., when the glee club entertained the sweltering delegates. Senators Foraker and Hanna were loudly cheered as they came upon the stage together.

After prayer by the Rev. N. W. Good of Columbus, P. W. Durr, chairman of the State Central committee, in a brief speech congratulated the Republicans of Ohio on the result of the Ohio campaign last year and predicted victory for this year. Then he introduced Senator Foraker as the temporary chairman of the convention.

Speech of Senator Foraker.

Senator Foraker, in opening his speech, said:

"Our approaching election will be the most important held this year in the United States. It is but a State election in name, but it will be distinctively national in both character and importance. The Legislature chosen this year will be charged with the duty of electing a United States Senator and redistricting the State for representation in Congress.

"We now have two Republican Senators and seventeen Republican members in the House of Representatives. If the next Legislature should be Democratic we will have but one Senator and not more than twelve Republican Congressmen, and probably not more than ten—the number we were allowed the last time a Democratic Legislature gerrymandered the State—and this reduced representation in the National House of Representatives would be fastened upon us not simply for the next Congress but for the next ten years, making a net loss to us of not less than twenty-five votes in Congress for the next decade.

"It is this fact that gives the campaign upon which we are entering its national character, and thrusts upon us, whether we would have it so or not, the discussion and consideration of national policies and national questions; and it is for this reason that every vote cast in our State next November will be a vote for or against the administration of William McKinley, just as certainly and emphatically as though he were again our candidate this year as he was last; for we must, of necessity, by the action we take, indorse his work and give him encouragement or discredit his record and embarrass his efforts."

Senator Foraker then reviewed the conditions and their changes from the administration of Benjamin Harrison, through Cleveland's term, and then through McKinley's.

Work Yet to Be Pushed.

"The achievements of the last four years are still in large measure incomplete and insecure," continued the Senator.

"We have unexampled prosperity, but a Democratic wave would blight it.

"We have unheard of combinations of capital, against which the rights of the people must be guarded without destroying our industries or retarding our development.

"We have added new luster to our arms and new glory to our flag, but an application of Democratic policies would tarnish the one and dim the other.

"We have expanded our limits, advanced our jurisdiction, and assumed new responsibilities, but Democratic ascendancy at this time would mean abandonment, retreat, and national humiliation.

"This is not imagination, but serious fact. The record shows it."

The speaker asserted that the administration policy in the islands was being indorsed and proven correct every day and every hour. All the developments showed that the original plan laid down and followed was the correct one and had brought the greatest good in the least possible time.

The convention adjourned until 10 o'clock tomorrow.

TRIAL OF FRENCH MARQUIS OPENED.

Lur Saluces, Who Is Accused of Treason, Appears Before Senate Court.

CAUSES NO EXCITEMENT.

Initial Proceedings Consist Mainly of Orations by Defendant and President Faliere.

MANY SENATORS STAY AWAY.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

PARIS, June 24.—Trial of the Marquis Lur-Saluces, Royalist, ex-Member of the Chamber of Deputies, who was banished for complicity in the Royalist conspiracy of 1899 and who recently returned to France for trial, began today. Of the 150 Senators summoned to form the high court of justice twenty-two failed to appear and are barred, consequently, from attendance hereafter.

M. Bover de Bouillane, the Marquis' counsel, raised objections to the competency, but the court decided that it had jurisdiction of the case.

The President of the Senate, M. Fallieres, presided. The Marquis, escorted by two guards, appeared at the bar of the House to answer the charge of complicity in the crimes of high treason and attempts against the safety of the State, for which MM. Deroulede, Buffet, Marcel-Habert, and Guerin were condemned. There was no excitement in the vicinity of the palace where the Senate holds its sitting, as was the case in the earlier trial of the Marquis and the others mentioned.

Melodramatic Effect Missing.

Although there was no crowd around the palace of the Senate, and it was evident that the trial was not arousing the excitement the Marquis anticipated when he returned to Paris, great precautions were taken. Two companies of Republican Guards and large detachments of police were stationed in the precincts of the palace.

There were a number of smartly dressed women in the audience, including the "white lady" who followed the Dreyfus trial.

After rejecting the pleas made by counsel for the Marquis to the effect that the Senate Court was null because it was not composed of all the members of the Senate, the names of witnesses were called. Among those who answered were M. Lepine, the Prefect of the Paris police; General Zurlinden, M. Trarieux, Senator from Gironde; General Chamoin, and Major Cuignet, while M. de Freycinet, ex-Minister of Foreign Affairs, and others who were summoned by the defense sent their excuses.

The remainder of the session was occupied by two monologues, one from the Marquis of Lur-Saluces and the other by M. Folliers.

The Marquis began by reading a long statement in the nature of a political indictment of the government, in which he spoke of the Fashoda incident, the financial bankruptcy of France, the Dreyfus trial, and the campaign against the army.

M. Falliere requested the speaker to keep within the limits of the present trial. The Marquis concluded his address in these words:

"I see in this high court of justice not judges but political adversaries. You can punish me by force, but not by right."

Lur-Saluces Haughtily Silent.

M. Falliere then began his monologue, in which he reviewed the charges against the Marquis of Lur-Saluces in a series of questions, to which the Marquis vouchsafed no word in reply. Finally M. Falliere asked the Marquis why he fled across the frontier. The Marquis remained silent at this question. The trial was then adjourned until tomorrow, and it is said the proceedings will be concluded on Wednesday.

The Courier du Soir, in its issue of this evening, predicts the acquittal of the Marquis, and says the high supernumeraries persist in their determination to punish only the leading actors in the treasonable action against the state.

CHAMBERLAIN IS WELL AGAIN.

British Colonial Secretary at His Desk After a Brief Spell of Sickness.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

LONDON, June 24.—Mr. Joseph Chamberlain has so far recovered from his recent sickness as to be able to resume his duties at the Colonial office.

Today he telegraphed to the election agent of Mr. Foster, the Conservative candidate for election to Parliament in the Stratford-on-Avon division in Warwickshire, as follows:

"I hope the electors will remember that a seat lost to the government is still a seat gained by the Boers. I trust they will give Mr. Foster a triumphant majority."

URGING DOLE TO RESIGN.

Members of Hawaiian Legislature Declare That Secretary Cooper Cannot Legally Act as Governor.

HONOLULU, June 16.—[Correspondence.]—In a lengthy opinion supplied to the House Committee on Judiciary, Attorney Thomas Fitch has expressed the view that Secretary of the Territory Cooper was not legally acting as Governor. The opinion held that Governor Dole's present condition does not constitute "disability" within the meaning of the organic act.

The House passed a resolution declaring that the doubt would affect any appropriation bill that might be passed, and requesting Dole to either resign, resume his office, or leave the Territory long enough to allow Cooper to qualify.

Governor Dole left on the same day for Hawaii. He stated that he would probably be away about two months. In reference to a report that he had forwarded his resignation to Washington, Governor Dole said the report was untrue. As to his disability, he said that he had been advised by his physician that he was not in fit condition to perform the duties of the office of Governor.

The Advertiser publishes a story that "Kahunas" are at work on Governor Dole, praying against him, according to the old native idea of praying enemies to death. It says:

"Hawaiians believe implicitly in their necromancy, and even some of the men in the Legislature say that Governor Dole, now that the 'Kahunas' are after him, is assuredly doomed to at least a state of permanent incapacity."

Both House and Senate are working slowly on appropriations. The extra session has now lasted thirty days. It is said that some of the Republicans are working for delay to prevent the passage of any bill at all, in order that the old appropriation bill, which is regarded as fairly satisfactory, may continue in force.

The House has decided to cut out altogether the appropriation for a National Guard, which means that Hawaii will have no local militia.

The annexation of Hawaii by the State of California is proposed here in some quarters as a way out of the various political and governmental difficulties.

The registration of Chinese in Hawaii has been finished. The number registered is about 27,000.

The special court created by the Legislature to hear claims growing out of the plague fire in Chinatown now has 2,394 claims before it, over half of them being Japanese. The amounts asked for aggregates about $1,750,000.

SENATOR'S DAUGHTER BECOMES A MILLINER.

When Mrs. Bessie Stewart Hooker, daughter of Senator Stewart of Nevada, secured a divorce from Lieutenant R. C. Hooker, U. S. N., and was given back her maiden name, she decided to make her own way in life. Forming a partnership with Mrs. Robert A. Osborne, Miss Stewart went to New York, rented a storeroom at 400 Fifth avenue, and set up a millinery establishment. So successful has the business been that the Senator's daughter has just opened a branch store in Newport, which bears over the door the legend: "Stewart, Importer, 400 Fifth avenue, New York," and which is presided over by three pretty French girls. Miss Stewart has two sons; the eldest, Lieutenant Richard Stewart Hooker of the Marine Corps, was recently married to Miss Mary Condit Smith, a heroine of the American legation during the siege of Pekin. The other son is a student at Harvard.

Motors Which Left Paris on Saturday Morning Arrive at Coblentz Without Mishap.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

COBLENTZ, June 24.—The tourist motor car people who left Paris on Saturday arrived here from Luxembourg this evening. Their trip from the last named place was uneventful except for greetings they received along the route and the flowers with which they were constantly showered.

Preparing for Thursday's Race.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

PARIS, June 24.—The customs officials have been busy all day stamping the motor cars which will start in the speed contest to Berlin on Thursday. Two of the foremost competitors, De Mester and Barras, have been obliged to withdraw from the contest. Barras broke his collarbone and De Mester's car was smashed to pieces by charging into trees along the roadside.

RUSSIA IS NOT SATISFIED.

Secretary Gage's Explanation of Recent Tariff Ruling on Petroleum Considered Beside the Point.

ST. PETERSBURG, June 24.—On competent authority it may be stated that the Russian Ministry of Finance regards Secretary Gage's explanation of the petroleum question to be beside the point.

Russia does not admit the correctness of Secretary Gage's interpretation of the tariff laws of the United States. Section 626 of these laws places naphtha and the products of naphtha on the free list unless the country whence they are exported charges duty on similar articles from the United States. Russia does not admit that these laws authorize the collection of a tariff on paraffine made in Great Britain from Russian naphtha as decreed by Secretary Gage in his circular of March.

GEN. WOOD DOWN WITH GRIP.

Military Governor of Cuba Compelled to Take to His Bed—Republicans Accept Platt Amendment.

[BY CABLE TO THE TRIBUNE.]

HAVANA, June 24.—The condition of General Wood, who for several days has been suffering from an attack of grip and malarial fever, which, however, did not interrupt his official duties, is somewhat worse. His fever is considerably higher tonight, and he has been forced to take to his bed. Surgeon Major Havard, the general attending physician, has advised absolute rest until the fever subsides.

The Republican party of the Province of Havana decided today by a vote of 41 to 15 to respect the Platt amendment. Gualberto Gomez, on account of the action, resigned from the Republican party and also as editor of the Patria, the newspaper which is supposed to voice the opinions of that body.

At the municipal convention of the National party of Havana today it was also decided that the Platt amendment should be accepted and respected, and that the party would coöperate with the intervening authorities in establishing the republic. It was decided, however, that after the latter had been accomplished the party would work for the repeal of the Platt amendment by legal means.

Eugene Zimmerman Supplies Cash to Enable Young Manchester to Compromise with His Creditors.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

LONDON, June 25.—The creditors of the Duke of Manchester will meet next Thursday to consider an offer of settlement of 12 shillings and 6 pence in the pound. It is understood that the liabilities of the Duke, which were originally stated to be £37,794, will not exceed £19,794, and that cash will be provided by Eugene Zimmerman, the Duke's father-in-law, to pay the above compromise plus expenses.

CHILD CAUSE OF INNOVATION IN RENTING.

To the influence of a little girl, not yet 2 years old, is due a real estate innovation, the removal of the objection to babies in rented houses, and the substitution of a premium for them. Alma Grace Van Winkle, a child of 20 months, is the one who has accomplished it, and she has done it through her father, Charles F. Van Winkle, owner of a large tract of land in the southwestern part of the city.

Like many another real estate owner Mr. Van Winkle has always regarded babies simply as an annoyance. Up to his marriage three years ago he often lay awake at night planning tortures for those in his neighborhood who had babies, and even gave much of his time to inventing an air-tight, sound-proof railway car in which all babies must be carried when traveling. If any one offered to rent one of his flats his first question was about the baby, and if there was one negotiations were off. He had ironclad leases that positively forbade babies.

Three years ago Mr. Van Winkle married Miss Josephine Reed, a teacher in the Hyde Park High School. The teaching instinct was born in little Alma, and she set herself to correct her father's ideas. Her success was marked. Mr. Van Winkle has announced that hereafter not only are babies not barred, but that they are at a premium in all houses owned by him.

"No family should be without one," is his motto, and he follows it up by stating that whoever builds a house on land leased from him, and thereafter becomes the proprietor of a baby, shall receive a rent receipt free. Babies coming within fifteen months of the execution of the lease are worth five years' rent. After that they count for one year's rent. No family can score more than once, except in the case of twins, which count for five years.

ROUSED UP BY BERESFORD.

BRITISH ADMIRALTY REPLIES TO LORD CHARLES.

Several Well-Known Naval Officers Complain of the Inefficiency of the Mediterranean Fleet—Popular Rear Admiral Indirectly Censured in the House of Commons, and His Friends Fear He Will Resign His Command in Consequence—London Gossip.

[Copyright: 1901: By the New York Tribune.]
[BY CABLE TO THE TRIBUNE.]

LONDON, June 25, 3 a. m.—The state of affairs in the Mediterranean fleet is causing much concern. It is well known that several naval officers have addressed strong remonstrances to the Admiralty in regard to the strength of the war organization of the squadron, but Lord Charles Beresford's action in making a communication public is not approved of.

The reply of the Admiralty secretary in the House of Commons last evening with regard to Lord Charles' recent letter conveys an indirect censure on the popular Rear Admiral, and some of his friends fear that it may lead to his resignation.

Whatever course Lord Beresford may take, however, the attention of Parliament will be called to the deficiencies which it is alleged exist in the Mediterranean squadron, especially in the matter of torpedo boats.

Some of the military experts in the House of Commons express the opinion that the reinforcements dispatched to Lord Kitchener may have proved inadequate.

Canadian Statesmen in London.

Five Canadian statesmen, at present in England, are about to be entertained by the National Liberal club. They are the Hon. A. Blair, Sir L. H. Davies, the Hon. W. S. Fielding, the Hon. S. F. Fisher, and the Hon. D. Mills, who have all been nominated for temporary membership.

Sale of the Royal Sherry.

The sale of royal wines yesterday at Christie's attracted a large throng of dealers. The bidding started off briskly, the first lot of pale sherry being sold at $37.50 a dozen, but the purchaser evidently made a miscalculation, as the next lot of the same wine brought only $16.50.

The wines auctioned off were pale and golden sherry from the St. James' Palace cellars, bottled in 1894 and 1801 and also in 1880 and 1882.

Prices ranged from $15 to $18 a dozen. The aggregate sales for 1,169 dozens were about $19,000, pointing to about $100,000 for the entire surplus stock. While the auction was well attended bidding was mainly confined to a few large dealers. It was understood that a considerable quantity was purchased for the American market. The price for each brand was settled by the dealers and there was little variation from it.

Earl Russell's Case.

Earl Russell's counsel has not succeeded in the preliminary effort to obstruct the work of the grand jury in the bigamy case, but it is probable that the House of Lords will defer action if he be indicted. It is generally assumed that the case will be tried by the peers, but nobody seems to know what would happen if he were to waive his rights and privileges and ask for an ordinary trial. That would be an unexpected proof of the sincerity of his radical convictions. Advanced Liberals are hoping that the House of Lords will take up the case, and thereby render ridiculous a revival of antiquated procedure based on privilege.

Revives "King Charles."

Sir Henry Irving revived "King Charles the First" with marked success at the Lyceum last night, and was received with hearty enthusiasm. Ellen Terry supported him well as Queen Henrietta Maria. He is working constantly, rehearsing one play after another, yet he retains his usual health and vigor. It is probable that he will appear in the full series of plays now in progress at the Lyceum when he goes to America.

Bernhardt rivals Irving in physical endurance and has strength in reserve for a constant round of social engagements. Coquelin also is a welcome guest in West End houses.

Marion Crawford is making a short visit in London and pronounces "L'Aiglon" a perfect stage epic.

New Theories on War.

The public, while perplexed and anxious over the Boer war, is hardly prepared to support M. Bloch's view that modern warfare has been rendered impossible by superior advantages of defense, and that the sacrifices made on the continent for the support of conscription are unnecessary. The opinions of the Russian Councilor of State were clearly explained in an important paper read yesterday before the United Service Institution.

M. Bloch declared that the south African war showed that the theatrical spectacles called maneuvers were in no way related to real warfare. One of the most remarkable features was the constant impossibility of determining the enemy's position. This was not attributable to British defective reconnoissance, but to the new conditions of war.

It was not mistakes made by the British nor the qualities of the Boers, who had shown an entire lack of rational strategy and tactics, which produced the results seen, but smokeless powder and long-range, quick-firing rifles, which involved dispersion and invisibility to a degree unheard of formerly, and to the possibility of providing riflemen with a larger number of cartridges.

CAILLES' TROOPS TAKE THE OATH.

Filipino General and 650 of His Men Surrender at Santa Cruz.

CEREMONY IS ELABORATE.

Insurgent Leader Weeps as His Soldiers Stack Their Arms in Submission.

PAY FOR RIFLES REFUSED.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

MANILA, June 24.—The Filipino leader, General Cailles, surrendered today at Santa Cruz, in Laguna Province. With him were 650 of his men, who turned over to the American authorities 386 rifles and 4,000 rounds of ammunition.

The surrender was unique in its ceremonial features and was as impressive as it was unique. The American troops were drawn up on three sides of the courtyard of the Santa Cruz church, with six native bands in front.

General Cailles and his staff, at head of the insurgent forces, marched to the courtyard and were drawn up in six lines, facing the Americans.

The insurgent General and his staff, all in full uniform, with swords, entered the church, where Chaplain Hart of the Eighth United States Infantry celebrated a solemn mass.

Troops March in Review.

The religious ceremony being over General Cailles marched his troops in review before General Sumner and his staff, the officers on each side giving the required salutes with military preciseness.

The insurgent troops then stacked their arms in the courtyard of the church, there being 100 captured Krag-Jorgensens in the lot.

General Sumner and his aids then started to distribute certificates of $30 each to the men who had surrendered rifles. General Cailles protested indignantly, saying that the rifles were given up by his men voluntarily and he could not, therefore, sell them to the Americans.

General Cailles Breaks Down.

After he had spoken he broke down, weeping. Some of his officers and men also cried. Cailles' adjutant then collected the certificates and they were returned to General Sumner.

The insurgent leader then made a farewell address to his troops, in which he commanded them to adhere to the United States and uphold American institutions. When he had concluded he fainted from grief and heat.

Sumner Returns the Sword.

When he had regained his composure General Cailles walked to the headquarters of General Sumner and tendered his sword in token of his surrender. General Sumner returned the insurgent's sword, an act of gallantry to a former foe that brought cheers from the surrendered men as well as from the Americans who witnessed it.

General Sumner also handed back the revolutionists' flag, which Cailles will personally present to General MacArthur. General Sumner congratulated Cailles on his surrender, and the latter responded that it was a happy day for Laguna Province.

After General Cailles and his staff had been formally introduced to the American officers and the Filipino native functionaries they accompanied General Sumner to the plaza, where the oath of allegiance to the United States was administered by Chaplain Hart to the entire insurgent force and the municipal officials, the ceremony concluding with the playing of the national anthem by the assembled bands.

American Deserter Captured.

After all the insurgents had taken the oath of allegiance one of their number was recognized and identified as Private Frank Meekin of the Thirty-seventh Volunteers, who deserted some time ago and joined the insurgent force under General Cailles. He had surrendered with Cailles' command, hoping to escape recognition. He is now confined in the guardhouse in irons. He will be tried at Manila, although his regiment has been mustered out.

With the exception of Meekin the entire Filipino force was liberated. Many of them are mere boys, but they are fine physical types.

The surrender was unmistakably sincere, but it was also sad, although it had been intended to make it a grand festival. Cailles holds the universal respect of the natives and the Americans in Santa Cruz and the town is celebrating the reunion of the men with their families. The insurgents are on the friendliest terms with the Americans, and both participated in the drinking and the dancing.

"I Would Rather Give Up My Beefsteak or Chop in the Morning Than Go Without MALT BREAKFAST FOOD."

A gentleman of position and well known to citizens says:—

"From childhood I have been a user of oatmeal, but at certain times had to give it up as it did not agree with my erratic stomach.

"A few months ago, my wife was asked by her grocer to try a package of Malt Breakfast Food which he recommended very highly, as he was using it in his own family. Our experience with Malt Breakfast Food was so satisfactory that oatmeal has been banished from the house.

"I find Malt Breakfast Food contains more strengthening and nourishing qualities than any other grain food I have ever used. I find it very easy to digest, and I am gaining flesh right along. I would rather give up my beefsteak or chop in the morning than go without Malt Breakfast Food; this is also the experience of my wife and sons."

[BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.]

Philadelphia, Pa., June 24.—[Special.]—For fourteen long innings the White Stockings and Athletics struggled for victory at Columbia Park today, and in the end after Comiskey's men had fought probably harder than they will be called upon to do again this season they blasted the hope of the Athletics, which had its formation at the start of the battle, and won by a score of 7 to 5.

Seldom has such a battle been waged on any ball field as that today between Chicago and Philadelphia, and the baseball fan who witnessed it will have good cause to remember the occasion, even after many seasons of baseball have come and gone.

The game was remarkable in more respects than one, and the victory was all the more creditable because of the plucky fight the champions made against odds that would have caused some teams to give up. All the glory for the victory itself rests with John James Callahan, not long since on the hospital list.

It was Callahan, who, after the first inning, when the Athletics took to batting and pounded the ball over the field, steadied himself, and by marvelous pitching held the mighty Lajoie at his mercy and prevented the Athletics from crossing the plate for the next twelve innings.

Callahan Brings In Runs.

But it was not Callahan's pitching that really won the game for Chicago. It was the ability of Callahan, in the ninth inning of the game, when the Athletics were still one run ahead, to smash a three-bagger to the left field fence when hope had almost departed. This feat enabled Callahan's battery partner, Sugden, who, by virtue of a base hit, had managed to reach first base, to score. And again it was Callahan who distinguished himself in the fourteenth and final round of the struggle by making the circuit of the bases, bringing in the run that virtually won the game and started the overthrow of the Athletics. It was through no virtue of the Chicago pitcher that he managed to reach the counting station in that fourteenth, but because of the errors of two of the opposing players—Lave Cross and Powers, the last of whom, in trying to catch Callahan stealing second, threw the ball over Lajoie's head, and it did not stop until it had reached the fence, permitting Cal to reach the plate from first. After this the Athletics practically fell to pieces, and two more white legs crossed the plate.

There was another hero. It was "Chick" Fraser, erstwhile "Phillie," who nearly brought defeat on Chicago. Fraser pitched magnificently, but when the men behind him fell down he let up, because there was no longer any use to fight alone.

Quakers Try Hard to Win.

The Athletics made a strong effort to win in the closing inning of the game, and might have prolonged the struggle or won had there been some one on bases when Seybold came to bat. The big outfielder picked out one of Callahan's benders and knocked it over the left fence, making the longest hit of the season on the Philadelphia grounds.

The game was replete with brilliant plays, in which both sides vied for the honors. Once Mertes, when fully extended, grabbed the ball with one hand as it sped past second base and threw the runner out. There was a catch by McFarland, who snatched the ball with his gloved hand after a hard run near the fence. Score:

Notes of the Game.

Fultz made a clever bunt in the fourteenth and Hartman fell over himself trying to pick up the ball.

One catch by McFarland was certainly a good one. He misjudged the ball, then had to run fast, and just got his one hand out in time.

Griffith wants the other game with the Athletics so as to break even on the trip. Katoll will take his turn in the box tomorrow, Sullivan catching.

Chicago narrowly escaped defeat. Sugden's hit in the ninth came after two were out and Callahan made his triple after striking twice.

Geier was taken out of the game today and Seybold sent to right for the Athletics. Seybold is a worthy rival of Lajoie in the batting line and hits the ball hard.

No one can ever accuse the "champs" of being quitters after today's performance. It only took three hits to make that fourteen-inning game. A single, double, and triple in the first did the business.

Isbell participated in a pretty double in the third inning. Cross hit a foul over near the bleachers, which Isbell caught and then threw to Sugden, catching Fraser, who was on third and attempted to score on the play.

BREWERS BAT OUT VICTORY.

Senators Drive Two Milwaukee Pitchers to the Woods, but Are Defeated.

Washington, D. C., June 24.—Milwaukee bunched hits in the sixth inning and with the aid of two errors clinched the game. Washington gave a disappointing exhibition of baseball. Hustings went in the air in the seventh and with the bases full was relieved by Hawley, who, after hitting a man, letting Dungan make a tripple, scoring three runs, gave way to Garvin. The home team could have won the game, but for the latter's effectiveness at critical moments. Score:

WEYMOUTH, YALE'S NEW ATHLETIC STAR.

Yale has a new star athlete in the person of Clarence E. Weymouth. He is Captain of the Yale freshman crew, which promises to break the record of defeats Yale freshmen have sustained in the annual boat races for three years. He is one of the fastest sprinters in the university, having a record to his credit of 100 yards in ten seconds flat, and he probably will be the successor of Perry Hale, Yale's great plunging full back.

Weymouth is also a star baseball player. He was the catcher of Christy Mathewson of New York when the pair were the battery for Bucknell College, till last year. Both Weymouth and Mathewson intended to come to Yale after leaving Bucknell, and Mathewson began playing baseball professionally to earn a little money to assist him in paying his way through college after his father met with financial reverses. Weymouth kept his promise, but Mathewson became so successful in the National league that he decided to remain in the professional arena for a few years.

Weymouth said today, in speaking of his old pitcher, Mathewson: "Chris is fulfilling the promise of being a great pitcher he made in Pennsylvania. He is also keeping his temper. I remember how excited we got in some of our college games. When we played Villanova he became so angry he threw the ball over the grandstand, and declined to play for awhile. Mathewson is a great pitcher, and he is absolutely the greatest football punter in America, according to my ideas."

WILLIAMS LEAVES THE FIELD.

Amherst, Mass., June 24.—[Special.]—Amherst took the lead in the Tricollegiate league race this afternoon by defeating Williams, 13 to 12, on Pratt Field. The score stood as above at the close of the eighth inning, and Williams refused to play out the remaining inning. The umpire, therefore, declared the game forfeited, 9 to 0, to Amherst. The game was one of the most exciting, but also one of the most unsatisfactory, ever seen at Amherst. It was a loosely played exhibition from start to finish. The errors mounted up two and three at a time, and the batsmen received bases quite as often by a base on balls or being hit as by clean batting. Both teams felt that much depended on the game, and the fact told on the nerves of the players, and of the pitchers in particular. A large crowd of Amherst undergraduates and alumni and two brass bands made things lively on the side lines. Chase hit to right field and the right fielder threw to third base, the ball going into the crowd. Sturgis came home on the play, and Chase was caught between second and third. In running back to second he collided with Street. Street got the ball on second, and began to pommel Chase with it. The crowd ran out on the field, and things looked desperate for the Williams team, but finally straightened out. The crowd was cleared from the field and the umpire ordered the game to go on. The Williams team refused. Street hit Chase on the head three times. He in turn was hit by a spectator, or one of the Amherst team.

Games Today.

Chicago at Brooklyn.
Pittsburg at Boston.
St. Louis at New York.
Cincinnati at Philadelphia.

New York, June 24.—[Special.]—James McGuire, who was embalmed with Rameses II., but whose right arm is still alive, saved Brooklyn from defeat today and made Loftus' Remnants look cheap. The Remnants have themselves to blame. By miserable judgment in running bases they gave McGuire his opportunities, and he never failed, so in the end Brooklyn won by a score of 2 to 1 a game which should have been easy for Chicago.

McGuire caught five Remnants off bases today, two of them in the sixth inning, when Chicago had the bases full and only one out. Loftus' men had many opportunities to win, but the warm weather was in McGuire's arm, and every time a Remnant essayed to caper a few feet away from the bag the ancient and honorable James took a shy at them with the ball and, aided by Dahlen and Daly, he caught them before they could dodge back.

Brooklyn scored the first run in the third inning. Gatins singled to center. McCormick and Green caught flies sent up by McGuire and Hughes. Kelly's single placed Gatins on third, and Keeler sent him home with another single to left field. Sheckard also singled, a pretty throw in by Chance catching Kelly at the plate.

What proved to be the winning run was scored in the sixth inning, Keeler leading off with a single. Sheckard's bunt could not be fielded in time to retire either runner, and Daly advanced them both with a neat sacrifice. Dahlen flied to Green and Keeler scored. Green also caught McCreery's fly. The Remnants' run was scored in the seventh inning, an error by Kelly being responsible for it.

Farrell was accidentally spiked in one of the Cincinnati games last week and is now suffering from blood poisoning. Captain Kelly, therefore, had to play first base, although his sprained ankle is still weak. Score:

CYCLISTS GET TERRIFIC FALL.

McFarland Seriously and Nelson Slightly Hurt in Accident at Madison Square Garden.

New York, June 24.—When Floyd McFarland had ridden thirteen miles and four laps of a scheduled fifteen-mile race with Johnny Nelson at the Madison Square Garden tonight he ran into a motor machine which slipped down the incline at the northeast end of the garden just as it was getting under way to pace one of the contestants. McFarland was thrown from his wheel to the banked track, and Nelson, who was following him at a terrific clip, was thrown completely over McFarland. McFarland was picked up bruised and bleeding, and was taken to a hospital in a semi-unconscious condition. Nelson was also bleeding from a cut in the face, but pluckily resumed riding, and after pedaling fourteen miles and one lap, which he covered in 27:42, he was notified to stop riding and awarded the race.

Canoe Races at Buffalo.

Buffalo, N. Y., June 24.—The first day's canoe racing on Park Lake within the Pan-American Exposition grounds brought out some good contests. The best race was the half mile club four oars over a half mile course with a turn. There were six crews and only inches separated the bunch over almost the entire course. From the grand stand it was impossible to tell which crew had won. The judges caught the prow of the Toronto Canoe club's boat first, with Grand Trunk second. Another close event was the war canoe race. Only two crews started, representing the Toronto Canoe club and the Buffalo Canoe club, the former winning. The Canadians won every event of the day.

Aztec Tennis Tournament.

The Aztec Tennis club will hold its annual club handicap tournament next Saturday. The entry list is large, as the club has a large number of new members. It is thought Saturday's play will bring out a number of dark horses. Entries must be in by Friday at 6 p. m.

Notes of the Golfers.

A local firm which has control of two brands of balls has received an offer from a large Scotch house, which desires to purchase the right to use its molds.

Wilke Hoare, the Oconomowoc professional, is playing in fine form and regrets he did not go to Myopia. Last week he made his course in 73 and 74, and on Sunday made a round at Belmont in 40.

The Golfers' Green Book, published by Joseph E. G. Ryan, is out, and is a valuable work of reference. It contains a complete list of the clubs in and around Chicago, with descriptions and maps of their courses, names and addresses of members, and other valuable data.

Tom Bendelow will examine three tracts of land in the vicinity of Homewood today to determine their suitability for golf. If any of them is found well adapted for the sport there is a possibility of a club being formed by Chicago people, though so far the matter is in an indefinite state. There is undoubtedly ample room for another club on the south side of the city if one can be formed in which membership can be had at a reasonable rate.

ROW AT CORNELL OVER FRANCIS.

Father of Oarsman Comes All the Way from Greece to Intercede for Son.

BARRED BY COMMITTEE.

Members of the Varsity Eight at Poughkeepsie Threaten Not to Compete.

COACH COURTNEY'S VIEWS.

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., June 24.—[Special.]—Charles S. Francis, United States Minister to Greece, has come all the way across the Atlantic to use his influence to induce the Cornell Athletic council to permit his son, John M. Francis, to participate in the single scull interuniversity race at Poughkeepsie on July 2. Minister Francis arrived at the Cornell quarters at Oakes this afternoon. The Rowing committee of the Athletic council was to have met today to consider the case, but whether it did or not nobody was willing to say.

When the crew went to the boathouse for the afternoon spin H. W. Sackett, trustee of the university, said: "This is a family affair and has been greatly exaggerated."

Mr. Sackett's only comment when his attention was called to the statement that some of the members of the varsity eight had announced their intention not to row if Francis was permitted to enter in the single sculls was: "You know how boys will talk."

An undergraduate said: "The outside public has had only a hint of what is brewing in Cornell athletics. The thing is so complicated that I doubt if it would be understood if it was explained. Francis can row at Poughkeepsie only by consent of the Rowing committee, which has been refused him. His father, in his early days, was a famous amateur oarsman. His records in single sculls in severl instances still stand. Some of his fame he earned on this course on the Hudson River. His heart has always been set on his boy succeeding to his laurels. There is little doubt that he would win at Poughkeepsie if allowed to row."

The Cornell crews made a favorable impression in their two practice rows on the Hudson today. Both have learned the Courtney stroke thoroughly and keep the boats moving smoothly and with speed.

Of this year's varsity Coach Courtney said: "It is a stronger crew than last year. I see that it has been reported to be a heavier crew than the average Cornell eight, but I doubt it. The average weight is 162 pounds."

Courtney commented pleasantly on the forms shown by the Columbia and Pennsylvania crews. He scanned the Quaker varsity as they went by and said he could not see but they were doing well.

Wisconsin he spoke of as, in his opinion, a factor to be figured upon. "They have men in that section of the country who are fitted by nature for oarsmen," he observed.

Speaking of Columbia's trial of 19:07 over the four-mile course, Coach Courtney said he had found time rows of small significance. Coach Courtney laughingly offered to bet a suit of clothes that the winning crew on July 2 would not do better than 19:30.

Coach Courtney and all the crews have been invited to attend the marriage of Cornell's old stroke, J. A. Buggs, to Miss Anna Haight, which takes place here tomorrow.

CREWS TAKE LIGHT PRACTICE.

Sultry Weather Keeps the Yale and Harvard Oarsmen from Hard Work—Changes in Freshmen Eight.

Gales Ferry, Conn., June 24.—[Special.]—All the Yale crews had a light day today. The freshmen eight was shaken up, the following changes being made: Substitute Miller was sent to bow, retiring Yerrel; Scott at No. 4 changed places with Judson at No. 6. In this order the freshmen boat was sent out tonight with the varsity eight.

It was intended sending the varsity crew over the four-mile course, while the freshmen were to row the two miles, the two boats making the start together. After leaving the starting flag a river steamer got in the course ahead of the shells and kicked up such a sea the shells were forced to check their speed. Continuing along under reduced speed for another half mile the crews were turned back up the river. The four-oar crew spent considerable time on the river rowing short spurts. The Harvard varsity crew visited the Yale varsity quarters this afternoon. The visit will be returned tomorrow.

Today's practice was the lightest for the Harvard crews since their arrival. The day has been sultry, and it was thought best to keep the men under cover until evening, hoping for more favorable conditions. Tonight, however, the tide and wind combined to produce rough water, and the coaches were content with practicing racing starts. The varsity men do not seem to show any ill effects from their time row of Saturday evening. The coaches have spent considerable time on the freshmen eight and the varsity four. On the whole, their work is unsatisfactory, and the dissatisfaction of the coaches is apparent. All the crews were out tonight for a short practice.

HEAT BOTHERS THE BADGERS.

Wisconsin Oarsmen Take Only Moderate Exercise—Have a Swim in the Lake.

Madison, Wis., June 24.—[Special.]—This morning the heat was so excessive that the crew was given only a short row. The men were taken out about a half-mile and given several starts. The boat rode evenly and well. The conditions for such work were excellent. It was hot and not a breath of air was stirring. The order was the same as Saturday. The subs went out for a short row in pair oars this morning and afternoon. The afternoon's work consisted of a row of about four miles in three stretches. The boat rowed evenly and well in spite of the strong wind that had arisen. No starts were tried, and they sprinted only once at the finish. After the row the men were allowed to take a plunge off the pier, as a broken pipe had shut off the water supply in the gym. The men enjoyed this immensely, the only complaint being that they were not allowed to remain in the water as long as they wished. The coaching launch John Day was to be taken out of the water, but owing to the accident this will have to be put off until tomorrow.

INDEPENDENCE IN A REAL RACE.

Lawson's Boston Boat Outsails a Seventy-Footer Herreshoff Creation in a Light Breeze.

Boston, Mass., June 24.—[Special.]—This afternoon, for the first time, there was an opportunity of comparing the sailing ability of Independence with that of another boat. The possible cup defender was tried out outside Boston Light in a light air with the 70-footer Athene, designed by Herreshoff and owned by W. C. Gay of Boston. The result of the trial was satisfactory to Designer Crowninshield and to Captain Haff.

The breeze was so light it was thought by all that it would be the one chance in which Athene could make any kind of a showing against Independence, but the 90-footer got away from the 70-footer without difficulty.

In a little tryout windward work Independence started behind and to leeward of Athene. It sailed through the 70-footer's lee, and then, hauling on the wind, Captain Haff kept gradually working his boat into the wind until it had worked across Athene's bow to the weather position.

A balloon jib topsail was set for the first time on Independence today. It is a beautifully cut sail, and when used without the jib or without both headsails, will pull throughout every square foot. The ballooner and also a No. 1 jib topsail were used in a reaching trial with Athene. With the ballooner Independence did not pull away so fast on account of the sail being back-winded, but when its jib topsail was hoisted the yacht seemed to travel two feet to Athene's one.

W. C. Gay, owner of Athene, was on board Independence. He is a hot Herreshoff man, and has openly expressed his belief in the supremacy of the designer from Bristol, but the sailing of Independence opened his eyes. He expected Athene would head the big one, and was pleasantly disappointed by the result.

There were also on board of Independence Count Mansfield and one of his guests from the Austrian yawl which is now lying in the harbor. Both were much pleased with the Boston yacht and will cruise to Newport to witness the trials between Independence and Constitution.

When Independence was sailing close to the wind it was noticed there was considerable flapping to the leach of its jib. This is due to the lead of the sheet, and it is to be considered that the leach of the sail is a bit too long. The jib will be recut and the lead of the sheet changed. A new jib is being made, which will be put on Independence when it goes around to Newport, and the old one will be sent overland after it has been changed.

Independence is to be fitted with a new Oregon pine bowsprit to take the place of the hard pine bowsprit. This change is made because it is thought the present bowsprit is too slender at the outer end, and it is thought the Oregon pine will be more serviceable. It is expected that the bowsprit will be in place tomorrow morning, as work was started on it tonight. There will also be a wheel box placed over the steering gear.

If possible Independence will go out for another trial on Wednesday, and on Thursday it is hoped it can be sailed to Provincetown, anchoring there over night and starting on Friday morning around the cape to Newport.

CONSTITUTION IS MEASURED.

Water Line Is Found to Be Just Within the Required Ninety Feet—Time Allowance Mark.

Newport, R. I., June 24.—[Special.]—The cup defender, Constitution, was officially measured this morning by Mr. J. Hyslop, the measurer of the New York Yacht club, for the races to be held here on July 1 and 3. As a result it is stated that the water line of Constitution is just within 90 feet. The figures 89.96 are stated to be about right, but these are not given out as official. Mr. Hyslop had no hesitation, however, in giving out the measurement for time allowance, which he said was 104.76.5. The measurement of Columbia, taken two years ago, was 102.13.5. He said he could not say what its measurement was this year, as he had not measured it. Columbia's water line was exactly 90 feet, and it is said there is not half an inches difference between that and the water line of Constitution. Constitution took a spin this afternoon. Today the lighthouse tender Cactus arrived here and set a mooring buoy for the sloop Independence. It was placed in Brenton's Cove in the same place that Constitution's was first set.

YACHT COLLEEN IS FOUND.

Dr. Baum's Knockabout Turns Up at South Chicago Ship Yards—Illinois in Dry Dock.

Colleen, the twenty-one-foot knockabout purchased by Dr. Baum of this city, the whereabouts of which have been uncertain for the last few days, has turned up at the South Chicago ship yard. It was brought from Long Island Sound and is thirty-eight feet over all and twenty-one feet water line. The new arrival carries 600 feet of canvas and has a lead ballast of 3,500 pounds six feet below the water line.

Illinois has gone into dry dock at Fifth avenue and Wells street. In addition to cleaning, some changes in its rudder are contemplated, similar to those recently made in Crowninshield's bigger creation, Independence. Owner Pynchon is of the opinion he can get more effective work if the rudder is altered slightly. Measurer Cothroll finds the boat's measurements exactly according to specifications.

The seventy-foot, yawl-rigged auxiliary cruiser owned by Captain Starr of Fond du Lac is in the harbor. Last night the members of the Chicago Yacht Glee club went for a sail on Hawthorne.

William Hale Thompson will leave for Racine this afternoon to bring down the sloop yacht Yankee if the weather is favorable. Mr. Thompson has ordered a new rig of hollow spars from Sawyer of South Boston, with which Yankee will be fitted out before the trial races. By the use of hollow spars the weight of rig has been reduced some 600 pounds, and by taking 500 pounds of lead ballast out of the boat it will show a measurement on the water line of 28 feet 6 inches, which will reduce its racing measurement sufficiently to bring it in the 35-foot class, for which it was built. Mr. Thompson is uncertain what result this change will cause, but believes its chances to win will not be materially affected.

Work of the Penn Crew.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

HENLEY, June 24.—The crew of the University of Pennsylvania gave an excellent performance this afternoon over the full course, covering it well within 7:04. Some of the watches made the time 7:03. Notwithstanding the fact that the wind was favorable and the stream was slack the time was remarkably good. The waterside critics still condemn the style of the Pennsylvania crew. They recognize Smith, however, as a clever coxswain.

Invader Stands Hard Test.

Toronto, Ont., June 24.—[Special.]—The cup challenger Invader was put through the hardest test yet on Sunday morning, when it was sailed in a twenty-five-mile breeze with every stitch of canvas set. It stood the test grandly. It was inclined to bury itself under and might have made greater speed if it had been reefed in, but it was remarkably stiff under the circumstances.

PREVENTING DISEASE.

The thing medical men are trying to do nowadays more than anything else is to prevent disease—to get the system into a state of soundness, in which disease germs cannot do harm, and keep it so. "An ounce of prevention," etc.

Liquozone does it; provides the system with the oxygen it needs in a form in which it can be used; cleanses the blood, aids digestion, promotes assimilation, stimulates the normal functions.

Nature is the greatest healer after all; it is only necessary to provide the right conditions. Liquozone is the greatest health-maker ever discovered. Here is one evidence of what it will do:

My boy, six years old, had a severe attack of whooping cough last winter, and it left him with a bad case of bronchitis. We could not get rid of the cough. We heard about Liquozone, and after he had taken less than one bottle his cough left him and he is now entirely well.
JOHN B. BENNETT, 806 Taylor-st., Chicago.

We could give a multitude of such records. A good many people are coughing their way to more serious troubles which Liquozone would prevent.

Liquozone will cost you one dollar a bottle. The druggist should have it. If he hasn't send to us. You should read our little pamphlet about it. Sent free; worth sending for.

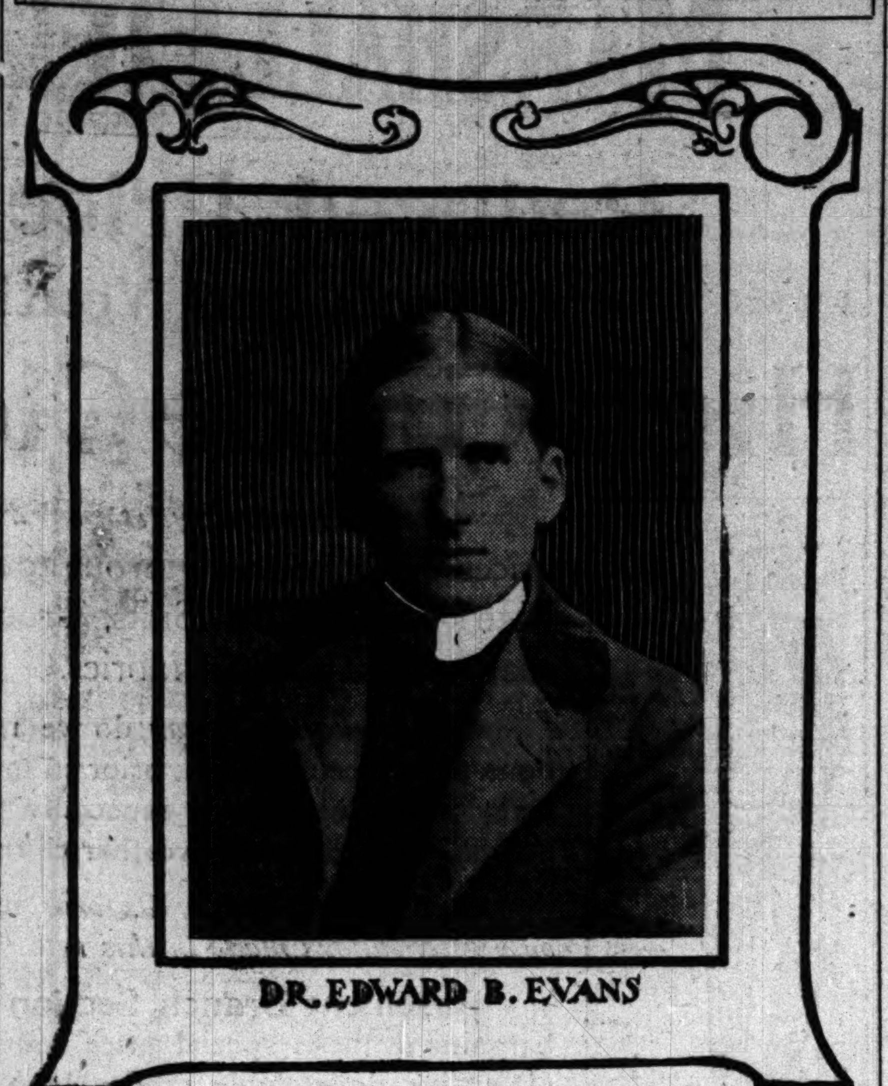
FARGO PHYSICIAN WHO HAS DISAPPEARED.



DR. EDWARD B. EVANS

Fargo, N. D., June 24.—All efforts to locate Dr. Edward B. Evans, assistant county physician, who disappeared from Fargo on May 28, have been unsuccessful. He left a bride after a ten days' honeymoon, and she absolutely declines to believe her husband has been false and eloped with another woman, as has been suggested. She insists that there must have been foul play or that her husband was temporarily deranged. Her confidence in him is so unlimited that she anticipates a message from him daily. Mrs. Evans was formerly Miss Jennie Lind Lewis of Lowell, Mass. She was on the stage four years with the Castle Square Opera company, "Gayest Manhattan," and other organizations.

MEMNON LOWERS TRACK RECORD.

Fast Sport Is Seen at Second Day's Races at Washington Park Course.

ADVANCE GUARD LOSES.

GONFALON CAPTURES SPRINT

Hot weather and fast time were the features of the second day's racing of the Washington Park club yesterday. The sun drove the spectators off the lawn except when races were being run, and the windstorm that eventually brought relief to the city arrived too late to benefit spectators at the track. The South Side track probably was never faster than it is just now, for all that a few days of racing are generally supposed to be necessary to put a track at its best. To show the condition of the going the half mile record for the course was broken in the opening race of the day.

Although Monday is regarded as an off day the attendance was large. There was a flutter of excitement throughout the ring just after the first race as the result of an order compelling the bookmakers to take down the signs they were wearing on their hats. A little later certain ones of the pencilers were again warned that they would better keep the programs on which they were posting odds a little less conspicuous. These commands resulted in more or less grumbling among the bookies and made it necessary for people who were anxious to bet to go to some trouble and crowding, but the majority of speculatively inclined were accommodated only too well. Not a betting favorite won during the afternoon.

There was no stake event on the card, but what it lacked in class it made up in surprises. The first came in the opening event, wherein Elsie L., M. H. Tichenor & Co.'s crack filly, held at 3 to 10, was easily beaten by P. Dunne's imp. Tithonus—Enview gelding, Memnon. The distance was four furlongs and Memnon, to show his quality, incidentally ran the half in :47 4-5, a fifth of a second faster than the track record.

Monarka Beats Advance Guard.

Monarka, T. C. McDowell's Prince of Monaco—Narka filly, furnished the second surprise by winning the third race after being backed down from 60 to 30 to 1, and defeating such good ones as Advance Guard, Pink Coat, Bangle, and Mr. Brown.

When Dwyer swished his bunting for the first race Elsie L. was on her stride and was a length to the good before the others got going. Her lead, however, was short-lived, as Winkfield sent Memnon to the front rounding the turn and showed a lead of three lengths entering the stretch. Caywood's efforts on Elsie were fruitless, as Dunne's pick simply galloped in front, winning by three lengths. Ishtar, at 20 to 1, was third.

Odnor and San Andres were bumped against each other in the ring in advance of the second race, and when they were called to the post Odnor was first choice, at 4 and San Andres second, at 9 to 2. Odnor ran into the lead opposite the clubhouse turn, and showed the way partly down the backstretch. At the half San Andres, who had moved up from third place, showed first by a neck, and, although pushed hard by Odnor, remained in front to the wire. Gawaine finished third, a half dozen lengths behind Odnor.

Next came the Monarka race, in which Advance Guard was backed from 6 to 5 to 4 to 5. Advance Guard was off in front, but fell back to fifth place. Monarka took the lead on the first turn, and all the "rooting" of the favorite players failed to cause her to back up. She stood off Pink Coat for three-quarters of a mile, and then, when Mr. Brown came along in the stretch, she had enough in hand to beat him without great effort. In the meantime Advance Guard had not been any too well handled by Woods. He was pocketed for a time along the backstretch, and by the time he could get clear of the leaders were far away. He gained a lot of ground, but seemed to falter in the final run, and was a moderate third at the finish. The last mile of this race was run in better than 1:39.

Defeat of Trinity Bell.

Trinity Bell was the selection for the fourth race, but she could not overtake Fancywood, who gained a lead of two lengths and kept Trinity Bell that distance behind her throughout the journey.

Sam Hildreth's Gonfalon took the fifth race in a drive. Isia, who defeated a fair field of sprinters on Saturday, was the favorite at 7 to 5, and chased Money Muss around the far turn and half way up the stretch. The race appeared to be between the pair, but Gonfalon, exceptionally well ridden by Coburn, came on the inside and won after a hard drive by a length. Money Muss was second and Isia third.

The final event went to Leo Newell. Bill Massie, played for a good thing at 5 to 1, attempted to make a runaway race of it by going four lengths in front of his field from the first turn until the last eighth, where he "chucked" it. Newell, Ecome and G. W. W. then indulged in a battle royal for the purse and passed under the wire as named. Myth, favorite because Bullman was up, finished last.

FEAR MARCHER HAS "WELCHED"

Men with Winning Tickets on Derby in Winter Books Wait in Vain for Bookmaker.

Charles Marcher, who under the firm name of Marcher & Co. made what is termed a "future" or "winter" book on the American Derby, is said to have "welched." About a dozen of Marcher's customers, who held winning tickets on the horses that finished one, two, three in the Derby, called at Marcher's office, 52 Dearborn street, yesterday to "cash in," but Marcher did not put in an appearance.

Marcher claimed he had backing to make a $20,000 book, and said the men behind him were well-known Chicago contractors who did not want their names mentioned in connection with the affair. Printed circulars with the weekly quotations against the ninety-three horses nominated for the Derby were issued weekly and upon which the Hibernian Bank and George Siler were named as references. The Hibernian Bank says the firm had no funds there and that Marcher had never been authorized to use its name as reference. Siler says he has known Marcher about fourteen years and has always found him to be honest and a man of his word, and on that reputation permitted him to use his name. Siler was astonished when he heard Marcher had not made good, and said he could not understand.

"I saw Marcher at Lakeside, Worth, Hawthorne, and Harlem three or four times each week, and he always told me business was quiet. I saw him at the Harlem track last Tuesday and inquired how he was getting on with his Derby book. He said, 'All right. I can't lose no matter who wins. I am going through my books before Washington Park opens, and if I am in wrong I will round up O.K.'

"He may have 'welched,'" continued Siler, "but they'll have to show me. He lives up north, is married, and to the best of my knowledge has a family, and I do not believe he will skip out of town and leave his family."

There was a rumor afloat last night that some of Marcher's customers were going to place him under arrest for obtaining money under false pretenses, but nothing definite had been done in the matter.

WINS HEAVILY ON SHAW.

PITTSBURG PHIL HAS A GOOD DAY AT SHEEPSHEAD BAY.

His Jockey Is Put Up on Kamara in the Place of Odom, the Regular Mackay Stable Boy, and She Leads All the Way—The Regent Disqualified After Gamely Finishing in Second Place—American Derby Colts Return in Good Condition.

New York, June 24.—[Special.]—"Pittsburg Phil" and his jockey, Shaw, stood out conspicuously in the racing and results at Sheepshead Bay racetrack today, and little else was talked of by the general public. If rumor could be believed, the winnings of the plunger on the horses ridden by Shaw amounted into the hundreds of thousands. Shaw rode three winners and one second horse, and, as his employer makes it a practice to back every mount Shaw has, if, in his opinion, the horse has a chance, Shaw alone was the means of making the plunger win a large sum. Shaw was on one winner, Kamara, in the Bay Ridge Handicap, one mile and a quarter, the fourth on the card, that caused a great amount of speculation. Odom is the Mackay stable jockey, and when Shaw's name went up as the rider of the Mackay filly there at once was an outbreak of questions as to why Odom had been kept down. The matter was never explained, but Shaw rode Kamara, taking her out to the front after The Regent had led past the stand the first time and around the turn, kept her up in the lead all the journey, moving away whenever any of the other horses closed on him, and in the end winning by a little more than a length, with Kamara all out and hard ridden. The fight for the place was a terrific one. The Regent, after Kamara shook him off, hung on with the second clump of horses, fighting to the last stride with Decanter and First Whip, the three finishing heads apart. The Regent was just far enough in front of the others to catch the judges' eyes and get second place. Burns, who rode Decanter, the favorite in the betting, at once went into the stand with a claim of foul, alleging that on the last turn The Regent had crossed and jostled Decanter. After all the riders had been questioned the stewards acted on the complaint and disqualified The Regent, placing Decanter second and First Whip third.

The New York owned horses that went on to Chicago to race for the American Derby at Washington Park all got back about noon, none of them worse for the trip, except that the Farrell colt, Bonnibert, seemed to have lost enough flesh to show plainly that the travel had not agreed with him. The Parader, on the contrary, was pronounced to look quite as good as he did the day he started.

Newton Bennington shipped a string of horses to Fort Erie to be raced there through the summer, the lot including Kilogram, bought from August Belmont.

Dwyer's Assistant Is Injured.

Harry White, who drops the timer's flag at Washington Park, was knocked down by Bill Massie in the last race and badly injured. Massie, with Jockey Meade up, broke with his field to a false start, and, being in full stride, the boy—although he almost sawed Massie's head off—could not hold him in. White was carried off the track into the Secretary's office and examined by a physician, who said his injuries were not serious. White complained of pains in the small of his back and in his kidneys, but the physician said he would be at his post in a few days. The injured man was taken to his home at 2454 Indiana avenue, in an ambulance.

YEAR OF FAST GREEN TROTTERS

Murray Howe Tells of Speedy Youngsters He Has Seen East and West.

[BY H. T. WHITE.]

Murray Howe, secretary of the Billings trotting track at Memphis, is in Chicago and reports work progressing satisfactorily on the new course.

"I have just finished a tour of all the trotting tracks in the East," said Mr. Howe, "and also put in a few days at Lexington and Louisville, where there are hundreds of harness horses in training. There will be a great lot of 'green' trotters out this season. In addition to those already noticed in the papers, John Hussey, who is training this season for the Patchen-Wilkes farm, has three that have already been miles this season better than 2:14, and, as Hussey is not a man who hurries his charges, it looks reasonable to rate all of them as possible 2:10 performers before the season ends.

"Before Hussey took the Patchen-Wilkes string he had in charge the stallion Onward Silver, to which Geers gave a record of 2:11¾ at Boston last summer. This horse has now gone back to Geers, and the other day, at Louisville, I saw him trot a mile in 2:10¼. The remarkable part of this performance is the fact that nearly all the boots and other rigging which Onward Silver wore last year have been removed. More than this, he has quit pulling, whereas last summer his mouth frequently bled from the force with which he fought the bit. He was also an unsteady horse, but now he is working without a break, and trotted the last half of his Louisville mile in 1:03, and did it right. Some of the credit for this changed behavior ought to go to Hussey, who is a master hand with excitable horses.

"In the 2:10¼ mile Onward Silver was accompanied by The Abbot, Ben White being up behind the champion. He was kept behind the Onward horse most of the time, but when Geers signaled for him to come on he would move up to the other horse like an arrow from a bow. Geers has moved his horses to the Wathen track at Louisville, thinking the change will do them good.

"Down East the most-talked-about trotter is the 3-year-old stallion Admiral Dewey, by Bingen, 2:06¼; dam Nancy Hanks, 2:04. They tell it as a fact that the Admiral can outstep any trotter or pacer in training at Readville, and New England horsemen think he is certain to be a sensation this year, as he is entered in several stakes. Peter the Great, a stable companion of Admiral Dewey, is also thought to have a great chance among the trotting stallions this year. He is going good gaited, and everybody knows the son of Pilot Medium has phenomenal speed."

CONVICT WINS HIS RELEASE.

Nicholas Fox, a Lifer at Nebraska Penitentiary, to Be Pardoned for Meritorious Work.

Lincoln, Neb., June 24.—[Special.]—Nicholas Fox, a life convict, is to receive an unconditional pardon for the part he played in the fire started by convicts at the penitentiary last night. Governor Savage made the announcement today. Fox, nearly 40 years old, was sentenced from Omaha many years ago for the murde rof his wife.

Fox discovered the fire, gave the alarm, and aided materially in quenching the flames. On three previous occasions during fires Convict Fox has distinguished himself, notably last March, when the main prison building was burned and the east cellhouses saved more through the efforts of Fox than any other individual.

BOY KILLS A PORCH CLIMBER.

Jay Foster of Monroe, Mich., Fires Shotgun Into Tree and Brings Down a Crook.

Monroe, Mich., June 24.—Footsteps on top of a porch early yesterday morning awakened the family of J. W. Foster. Jay Foster, aged 18, picked up a shotgun and went to the front door to investigate. He fired both barrels into a tree that overhung the porch to scare away the supposed burglars, and was horrified when the body of William Breckinridge, a local crook, came crashing through the branches. Breckinridge was instantly killed by the heavy charge of shot.

CARGO OF GOLD FROM KLONDIKE.

Steamer Dolphin Arrives at Seattle with $1,350,000 in Dust.

MORE ON THE WAY DOWN.

Twenty Million Dollars of the Yellow Metal in Spring Clean-Up.

STORIES OF FORTUNES MADE

Seattle, Wash., June 24.—[Special.]—The first big cargo of gold from the Klondike arrived here today with $1,350,000 worth of dust and nuggets. Most of it is consigned to the Canadian Bank of Commerce, but individual passengers held $350,000 of the amount.

Other big shipments will follow from now on at frequent intervals. There was shipped via St. Michaels on the 12th inst. $2,500,000, and there is on the way up the river another $1,000,000. Over three tons of gold, or $2,500,000, is on its way down the Yukon. It will be brought from St. Michaels, probably on the steamer Roanoke.

On the 20th over $1,000,000 was on its way on the Yukon from Dawson. It will probably arrive on the next steamer.

An estimate of the total clean up now in progress places the amount at between $15,000,000 and $20,000,000.

Spring Clean Up in Progress.

The spring clean up is now well along. Great mounds of pay dirt taken out during the winter are being washed out as the ground thaws, and miners are working over time to get the gold. Already the stream has begun to flow into Dawson, and is trickling down to Seattle.

Curiously enough, prospecting cannot be done in the Klondike during the winter, but mining cannot be done much in the summer. During the long, cold night the miners build fires in the bottoms of pits and tunnels. As the ground thaws they dig it up and deposit the rich dirt in mounds outside. As everything is frozen they cannot wash out the gold until spring.

One Man's Good Fortune.

Many big fortunes have been made by lucky tenderfeet. One of these is T. S. Lippy, formerly athletic instructor of the Seattle Y. M. C. A. He and his wife were almost starving in Circle City, Alaska, when the Klondike find was made. In the stampede that followed Lippy and his seemingly frail wife held their own. They located on adjoining claims on Eldorado Creek and struck the pay streak almost at once. Next year Lippy went out with seven mules loaded with gold. Already he has taken out more than a million dollars. This spring clean up he has eleven sluice boxes at work and is taking an average of $6,000 weekly from each one. He has invested his money in Seattle and has given the city a hospital. He has also established a free hospital for miners at Dawson.

Kicks Washing Into Street.

The other class of miners is represented by W. M. Stanley, who left his wife taking in washing while he went up north for a fortune. To everybody's surprise, he returned three years later with $300,000. His wife promptly kicked all the week's washing into the street. When the owners protested she settled with a generous hand. Before night Mrs. Stanley had bought $800 worth of silk clothing and ordered another story placed on her two-room cottage.

HUSBAND IS ACCUSED OF CRIME.

Louis Busse of Greene, Ia., Charged with Killing Wife and Trying to Burn Home.

Greene, Ia., June 24.—[Special.]—Louis Busse, a farmer living about nine miles from this place, was arrested this afternoon, charged with murdering his young wife and attempting to burn down his home to hide the evidence of his crime. Henry Snider, a hired man on the farm, was arrested as an accomplice. The woman was found dead in her home last Tuesday with her throat cut and her body partly burned.

The Coroner's jury rendered an open verdict indicating that her death was due to suicide, but the County Attorney ordered the body taken up today and an autopsy developed that the woman's skull had been crushed. The particulars of the crime as they have been brought out from the hired man show that the family ate dinner together on the afternoon of the murder and that after dinner Busse sent Snider to a neighbor's to borrow a post hole augur. While the man was away, it is alleged, the husband entered the house, struck his wife over the head with some blunt instrument, and then cut her throat with a pocketknife. In order to hide his deed, it is alleged, he saturated the woman's clothing and the floor with kerosene, carried a feather bed and several feather pillows from an up-stairs room, piled them on top of her, and then set fire to the whole mass. Having done this the man went coolly out to where his hired man was digging post holes and began helping him at the work.

A brother of Busse, living half a mile distant, discovered the fire, and hastening over threw a couple of pails of water on it and extinguished the blaze, but not until all the clothing had been burned from the woman and one leg burned away at the knee.

Tonight Busse and Snider are in jail at Allison and are strongly guarded to prevent possible violence by the man's neighbors. Busse is 47 years old and his wife was 26. They were married six months ago and she was Busse's second wife. His two children, aged 5 and 6 years, were safe in the barn.

MYSTERY IN OLD MAN'S MURDER

Homer Bliss in Jail at Mount Clemens, Mich., Pending Inquiry Into Father's Death.

Mount Clemens, Mich., June 24.—[Special.]—Homer Bliss, aged 23, the son of Charles Bliss, is in jail here pending an investigation of his father's death. The body of Charles Bliss was found yesterday riddled with buckshot in the woods near Washington, in Macomb County.

There is a deep mystery around the case. The old man disappeared three weeks ago, after a violent quarrel with his son. He went in the direction of the woods and his son was seen to follow him.

Several days later two anonymous letters were received from Detroit, both declaring that the old man had eloped with a widow and would never return.

Yesterday the old man's body was found in the woods. He had been shot in the back, and physicians declared he had been dead at least three weeks.

And yet men living near have frequently within the last week passed over the spot where the body was found, and they are positive that the body was not there until yesterday.

To deepen the mystery there were found in the dead man's pockets suburban railway tickets dated at Detroit on June 7 and June 17, indicating that the dead man had been in Detroit less than a week ago.

PASSES CHECK; IN A CELL.

WALTER SALING ARRESTED ON CHARGE OF FORGERY.

Young Man from San Francisco Falls Into Hands of Police Through Activity of Pinkerton Detectives—Bank of California Causes His Capture, Accusing Him of Raising Amount of $5 to $500—Former Confidential Clerk to Broker.

Walter Saling, son of a San Francisco merchant, was arrested yesterday afternoon by Detective Sergeant Edward Flaherty of the Central Station and Assistant Superintendent Andrew Irie of the Pinkerton National Detective agency at the Hotel Somerset, Twelfth street and Wabash avenue, on a charge of forgery preferred against him by the Bank of California. When arrested the young man had several checks, ranging in amounts from $20 to $329, which he acknowledged were worthless.

Saling is 20 years old, and until the latter part of March was assistant bookkeeper and confidential clerk of W. M. Du Val, a San Francisco stock broker. Through the confidence reposed in him by Mr. Du Val he was able to secure several checks, signed by the head of the firm, which he took with him when he left the employ of the firm last April and came east.

Before Saling left the coast, however, according to his own story, he drew a check in his own favor for $5 for salary due. Without interlining the space behind the amount of the check he left the sum line blank when he presented the check to Mr. Du Val for indorsement. Mr. Du Val, he says did not notice the error, and signed the check for $5 on the Bank of California. At his leisure Saling inserted the word "hundred" after the written in "five."

Shortly after his arrival in this city Saling met Virgil Pendleton, a former associate on the coast. He began to lay plans for cashing the raised check, and finally got Pendleton to introduce him to one of the clerks in the Oakland National Bank in this city, where he deposited the raised check for collection.

The plan worked well, and the money was paid over by the coast institution. Before it reached Chicago, however, Saling found himself with only a few cents in his pocket. With Pendleton he started to beat his way east on freight trains. All went well with the pair until they fell in with a third man at Norwalk, O. The third man, whom Saling said he did not know by name, robbed a gum slot machine in the streets of the Ohio town and the trio were arrested and thrown into jail in default of fines to the extent of $90.

Saling wrote to Chicago and the bank here sent him a certificate of deposit for $500, the California bank having honored the check. When the money arrived Saling paid the fines, and with Pendleton returned to Chicago. He was located at the Somerset Hotel by the Pinkerton agency and arrested. Pendleton convinced the police he knew nothing of the wrong-doing and was released.

The loss of $500 due to the first check will fall upon the Bank of California, as Mr. Du Val repudiated it and pronounced it a forgery when his account was straightened up at the end of the month.

Saling said that he would be glad to get back to San Francisco, and told detectives that he would leave without extradition papers.

REVIEW GROWTH OF VOLUNTEERS.

Commander Booth and General Fielding Deny Charge of Disintegration.

HAVE NEARLY 100 POSTS.

Starting in 1896 with Nothing, Last Year's Collections Reached $80,000.

WORK IN POOR DISTRICTS.

Roused by charges that the Volunteers of America have no shelters, that their work has not been a success, and that many of the soldiers are eager to leave for the ranks of other organizations, Commander Ballington Booth has just published an authoritative statement on "What we have to show in the Volunteers of America after five years of public service." Coincident with it comes a similar statement on the work in this city from Brigadier General Fielding, in charge of the work in Chicago and the Northwest.

"To more fully appreciate the rapidity of the movements, growth, and the condition of its present strength," says Commander Booth, "it should be borne in mind that on its organization, March 7, 1896, there was but a small bank balance, consisting of a loan from several friends; there were but five officers, not counting its leaders; no official organ or paper; absolutely no property, furniture, or material for such an undertaking.

Present Status of Work.

"The Volunteers lease and occupy a three (pactically four) story building in Cooper Square, New York, as their headquarters. Here also is done the printing, publishing, secretarial, and mailing work. The plant, type, and equipment is owned by the organization."

"The Volunteers have six regiments, under command of six territorial and regimental officers and their wives. These embrace nine companies, or central societies, that have been incorporated, and nearly 100 self-supporting posts throughout the country. These societies in the last fiscal year raised over $80,000; they attracted 1,113,683 persons to their indoor meetings, and 1,785,687 to their outdoor meetings. They held 11,582 outdoor meetings, and the annual aggregate attendance of 3,798,426 persons shows we have a congregation of nearly 4,000,000."

"We have 200 active workers," said General Fielding. "During the last six months we attracted to our outdoor meetings 996,287 persons, and to our indoor meetings 542,861 persons, an aggregate attendance of 1,639,-148. Besides this we have records showing 1,584 conversions. The money raised approximates about $15,000. We rent and occupy a dozen buildings and halls and own all the equipment.

Efforts in Philanthropy.

"The Volunteers have four branches of philanthropic work," continues Mr. Booth. "The first is the sociological, or that which embraces the homes for destitute and for the workingman, which give him lodgings at $1 a week. There are four of these homes in Chicago, one in Joliet, one in Kansas City, one in Brooklyn, and one in Philadelphia. In these homes nearly 200,000 people were lodged during last year alone, and in the five restaurants worked by the Volunteers 307,129 persons were fed with substantial meals at a nominal cost."

"The homes in this city," adds General Fielding, "are at 474 State street, 91 Desplaines street, and at 318 and 321 South Clark street. At these homes during the last six months we have sheltered 86,491 men, and have given meals to 124,361. More than that, we have given employment or found it for 5,040 during the same period.

"The second branch of our philanthropical work," reports the commander, "is the Home of Mercy Branch. These homes are open to any young woman who asks for admission. No questions are asked of her. Over 2,000 beds have been provided for young women in the homes in Newark, N. J., and Boston, Mass. Two hundred and fifty women have been permanently cared for, and a large number have been restored to positions where they are doing well.

"In Chicago we have these homes on a limited scale, but our chief work has been among the women of the tenements," said General Fielding. "We have a sewing school for poor women that has seventy-five members. They make over clothes for their children. We have a reading-room at 709 West Sixty-third street with an equipment worth $500. It is supported by six of the Englewood churches, but we control it.

Work of the Prison League.

"The Volunteers have an unparalleled work in their Volunteer Prison league," continued the commander. "Mrs. Ballington Booth's most recent report sets forth that the organization has now leagues formed in thirteen States prisons, embracing 7,500 prisoners, who are living reformed and subordinate lives within the prison precincts. A correspondence for the moral elevation and benefit of their families is carried on with some 19,000 men. There are two large homes known as Hope Halls, one leased in Chicago, accommodating forty-nine men; another owned by the Volunteers in Flushing, which, with the new wing, is expected to accommodate fifty men, surrounded by ten acres of ground. Thus far over 70 per cent of these men have given satisfaction in the places of occupation and trust to which they have been grafted. At the hall in Chicago, there is an average of forty paroled prisoners—men who have been given by the prison authorities into the charge of the Volunteer before their term expires."

ADVERTISERS AS HIS VICTIMS.

Postal Authorities Arrest William T. Akins on Charge of Using Mails for Fraudulent Purposes.

William T. Akins was arrested by the postal authorities yesterday at 306 Clark street on a charge of using the mails to defraud. Without admitting any guilt, Akins said he was the owner of several names which Postoffice Inspector Farrell presented on a list. He waived examination when taken before United States Commissioner Foote and his bonds were fixed at $1,000. Akins said he was formerly a desk sergeant at the Twenty-second Street Police Station. Recently he has been living with his father at 367 Wabash avenue. It is charged that Akins made victims of many persons who used the newspaper columns to advertise for lost articles. Akins, according to Inspector Farrell, wrote to such advertisers, stating that he could return the lost articles and would then arrange to return the property. Delaying a few days, he would write that he knew he was being followed by detectives, and would return the lost articles only on receipt of $5 or $10.

Throw Stones at Methodist Church.

The Rev. W. H. Head, pastor of the Vincent Methodist Church, complained to the police yesterday morning that boys have been stoning the church for five months, and he and Deacon J. F. Baterbaugh brought a stone weighing several pounds as evidence. About $100 worth of property has been destroyed, and the pastor will take out warrants for the next boy disturbing the services or destroying the church property. The boys have been warned by the pastor.

Wants Ferris Wheel Permit Revoked.

Fred Haide Sr., through his attorney, has asked Judge Stein to vacate the order permitting the Ferris Wheel to run during the summer, alleging that liquor is sold there on Sunday. The petition will be taken up tomorrow.

Alleged Wife Murderer Caught.

Braston, N. Y., June 24.—J. Wilfred Blondin, wanted in Massachusetts on a charge of murdering his wife, has been arrested here.

HOUSE ON WHICH PROF. CLARK IS WORKING.

Professor J. Scott Clark is busy at work every day on the construction of his house in Evanston. The instructor in English at Northwestern University does almost twice the work accomplished daily by his helpers, Gilbert Sabin and Walter A. Stultz, members of the freshmen class. The flooring of the first story of the house has been completed, and some of the frame work for the partitions has been erected. The trousers, cap, and shirt which the professor wore when wielding the tennis racquet have been pressed into service in the more serious task of erecting a residence. The house on which Mr. Clark is expending his labor in the belief that he can please himself better than any one else can please him is in Sheridan road, just north of Hamlin street, almost opposite Orrington Lunt Library. When completed it will have cost about $10,000. It is to be a two-story brick building, with a high basement. The plans were drawn according to ideas which the professor gained in his work on the three houses which he already has constructed. The finishing touches probably will be put on the building about the middle of September, and the builder expects to have it ready for occupancy when college opens.

ILLINOIS DAY AT BUFFALO

BUILDING DEDICATED JULY 3, STATE CELEBRATION SEPT. 16.

Exposition Structure Will Be Formally Opened to Public with Appropriate Ceremonies, Address to Be Delivered by Congressman Boutell—Attendance at Later Date Promises to Be a Record Breaker — Committee Hears Encouraging Reports.

Chicago and all other cities in the State will be represented at Buffalo on July 3, as on that date the Illinois Building at the Pan-American Exposition will be formally dedicated. Two thousand invitations have been issued for the event, and the managers hope to make this one of the notable days of the exposition. The building will be thrown open to the public with appropriate ceremonies, the address for the occasion to be delivered by Congressman Henry Sherman Boutell of this city. Special trains will carry the official guests to Buffalo, and delegations are expected from every considerable town in the State, most of whom probably will take advantage of the opportunity to celebrate the Fourth of July at the exposition city.

Next in importance to the dedication of the Illinois Building, so far as residents of this State are concerned, will be Illinois day at the exposition, which has been set for Sept. 16. Unusual interest is being shown in this celebration, and it is believed the attendance this day will be one of the record-breakers of the show. At the meeting of the general committee in the Hamilton club yesterday reports were received from organizations in all parts of the State, representing several thousand members, which were planning to go to Buffalo.

The committee has adopted a white ribbon one and three-quarters inches wide and six inches long, with the word "Illinois" printed in black and the name of the city from which the organization comes. This will be the official badge.

The committee has sent a circular letter to the Mayor of every city in Illinois. It calls attention to the great crowd which attended the World's Fair on New York day, and suggests that Illinois reciprocate by making its day at Buffalo one of the greatest at the Pan-American Exposition. It is announced that special excursions will be arranged from all parts of the State. Formation of local committees is urged to boom the project in all communities. Inquiries concerning transportation are to be directed to Colonel Walter Fieldhouse, 114 Madison street, Chicago; and on arrangements at the exposition to Scott Edwards, Illinois Building, Buffalo.

The General committee has completed its organization by the appointment of the following subcommittees:

Arrangements—Scott Edwards, F. J. Moore, Colonel H. O. Rucker, and General J. McDonald.

Transportation—Colonel Walter Fieldhouse, Colonel J. Y. Calahan, and Colonel J. B. Sanborn.

President—General J. McDonald, A. C. Thomas, John Eastman, Charles E. Nixon, E. A. Snively, William Knox, Edward G. Menkin, and Maurice T. Moloney.

Clubs and Organizations—William L. Bush, Marquette club; Volney W. Foster, Union League club; Todd Lunsford, Iroquois club; Dr. Charles Johnson, Lincoln Cycling club; Elliott Durand, Chicago Athletic association; and John P. McGoorty and Robert E. Burke, County Democracy.

A large reception and kommers was given at convention hall tonight in honor of the visitors.

MAN'S BODY FOUND IN RIVER.

Evidently Had Been in the Water a Long Time—No Marks of Identification.

Workmen employed at a dock at the foot of Fifteenth street yesterday found the body of a man floating in the river. The Maxwell street police were notified, and the remains were removed to the county morgue. Across the neck was a gash extending nearly from ear to ear and deep enough to have caused death. There was a deep wound in the head, which might have been caused by a propeller wheel. The clothing was of good quality, and a heavy black ulster was buttoned closely about the body. A silver quarter was the only article found about the person. The man was about five feet nine inches tall and had heavy, black, curly hair. The body evidently had been in the water a long time.

WOODWORKERS GET OFFER

FIVE PER CENT INCREASE OF WAGES PROPOSED.

Manufacturers of Bar and Store Fixtures Agree to Give General Advance Over Scale Which Expires on July 1—Union Will Vote on Proposal Next Sunday—Brewery Workers Levy Assessment to Aid the Striking Machinists.

Representatives of the manufacturers of bar and store fixtures yesterday submitted a proposition to advance wages 5 per cent to a committee from the Woodworkers' union, which is demanding a scale 25 cents a day higher than that which will expire July 1. Should the woodworkers vote next Sunday afternoon to refuse the offer of their employers a strike will be ordered on July 1. The employers will meet again next Monday to receive the answer of their men.

The conference was held at the Great Northern Hotel in the afternoon. The woodwookers voted recently to refuse to accept the offer of the employers to give the machine hands and cabinetmakers 5 per cent increase over the $2 a day they receive under the old scale. Yesterday the employers offered to include the finishers in the 5 per cent increase over the $1.80 they now receive, and requested the committee to submit this proposition to the men.

Milwaukee Wages Below Scale.

"We want to hear what they have to say on a general advance of 5 per cent in the scale," said B. E. Bensinger, manager of the Brunswick-Balke-Collender company. "In Milwaukee the woodworkers are not paid the same scale as here, and the result is the Milwaukee manufacturers are able to sell their goods lower than the Chicago men. Either the Chicago woodworkers ought to work for less money or they should compel the woodworkers in Milwaukee to insist upon an advance of their scale to equal that of the Chicago workmen."

The Woodworkers' committee, which was headed by Secretary Meiler, will submit the flat advance to their men at the mass meeting in Bricklayers' Hall next Sunday afternoon. It is not believed they will accept it, as they insist upon 12½ per cent, even to the extent of striking should it be refused them.

Brewery Workers Aid Machinists.

Representatives of the Brewers' union called at the headquarters of the machinists yesterday and informed Business Agents Ireland and Boyle that they had voted to assess themselves 50 cents each per week to assist the striking workmen. This assessment, they said, will raise $800 weekly to aid in the fight against the manufacturers. Committees from the machinists are visiting the other unions endeavoring to secure assistance, because of the threat made by the National Metal Trades' association to raise $500,000 as a defense fund.

Ask Civic Federation to Mediate.

A request, purporting to come from the manufacturers and the machinists, asking the Civic federation to act as mediator between the opposing interests, has been made to that body. Secretary R. M. Easley now is in New York, it is said, discussing the situation with officers of the National Metal Trades association. W. J. Chalmers also is in the East, and is said to be in conference with Mr. Easley and representative members of the National Metal Trades. Chairman A. C. Bartlett of the Arbitration committee of the Civic federation stated yesterday that his committee had taken no action on the proposition, as they doubted the authenticity of the request. Business Agent Boyle of the machinists said he had heard nothing of an appeal to the federation to act.

Not Interested in New Union.

Labor leaders are not much interested in the meeting in the Western Avenue Methodist Episcopal Church next Saturday evening, for the purpose of harmonizing opposing factions through the influence of religion, under the direction of the Christian Builders' union. Contractor Henry P. Berck, 1008 West Harrison street, is President, and O. D. Hill Secretary-Treasurer of the new union.

STRIKING COAL MINERS PUT MARSHALS TO FLIGHT.

Federal Officers Bearing Notice of Injunction Issued by Judge Jackson Fired Upon at Matewan, W. Va.

Huntington, W. Va., June 24.—A posse of Deputy United States Marshals, led by A. C. Hufford of Bluefield, were fired on today by the strikers and forced to flee from the coal fields at Matewan. They had come to serve notices of the injunction which had been issued by Judge Jackson. One reckless miner fired the first shot, and then the mountain sides reëchoed with reports that followed the crack of twenty or thirty rifles. The deputies were forced to take refuge in flight, and then barely escaped with their lives.

INJUNCTION AGAINST BOYCOTT.

Court Commissioner Ryan of Milwaukee Issues Another Restraining Order to Machinists.

Milwaukee, Wis., June 24.—[Special.]—Court Commissioner Ryan tonight issued another injunction against the striking machinists. This one was obtained by the Bucyrus company of South Milwaukee and it differs from the one obtained by the Vilter company in that it is directed against the boycott which it is claimed has been started against the union men at South Milwaukee.

It is claimed the union men have threatened the storekeepers until they will not sell anything to the men the company has engaged to take the places of the strikers.

Another injunction will be secured tomorrow by the Filer Stowell company. It is claimed by Business Agent Holmes and other leaders of the men that the injunctions are being secured for the purpose of aggravating the men to commit some overt act and thus get an excuse to call in the police.

SIGN THE GAS CONTRACT.

PEOPLE'S COMPANY OFFICIALS RATIFY AGREEMENT.

Expected to Light Streets 50 Per Cent Better than Heretofore—Compensation Idea Kept Well to Front in the Instrument—Finance Committee Refuses to Ratify Ordinance to Guarantee Payment of Special Assessment Bonds.

The officials of the People's Gaslight and Coke company have signed the contract with the city to furnish gas for the rest of the year. The agreement binds the company to light the streets and public buildings with 25,000 incandescent lights, which the company is to furnish at an expense of $25,000. The company is to furnish the city with illuminating gas to the value of $350,000. The contract gives the city 25,000 instead of 18,000 lights. The lamps are to be maintained by the city.

The city agrees not to attack the franchise rights of the company. It may continue the suit for the revocation of the franchise and the forfeiture of the property of the Ogden Gas company.

The compensation to be paid by the company is set at $375,000, or as much more as 3½ per cent of the gross receipts may reach. Under estimates based on previous years this compensation in 1901 would be $330,000. The compensation idea is retained and kept well forward, in spite of the resistance of the gas company officials.

City Electrician Ellicott asserts that the new gas contract means that the city will be 50 per cent better lighted than heretofore. The lamps will be sixteen candle power instead of the present fourteen candle power and there will be 6,000 more lights in service.

Many city lights have been cut off in residence districts. Mr. Ellicott explains that lack of funds has caused this. On Jan. 1 he estimated that $615,000 would be needed to maintain the entire number of lights this year, but he got only $400,000, and 19,777 of the 26,000 lamposts are now in service.

In the southwestern part of the city it is charged that lack of light is due chiefly to the lamplighters putting as many lamps as possible out of service. Thus they avoid the work of lighting them.

Refuse to Guarantee Bonds.

By the refusal of the Finance committee of the Council to recommend an ordinance guaranteeing the payment of some improvement bonds and special assessment vouchers which fell due last December, but were not paid, a stop may be put to the making of street improvements on the installment plan. Controller McGann asked for the passage of the ordinance for the reason that the delay in paying these bonds and vouchers had resulted in bankers refusing to buy them. The bonds in question amounted to $125,000, and there were in addition a little over $400,000 of special assessment vouchers.

Superintendent of Special Assessments May is hopeful the bankers will still take the bonds and allow the plan of paying special assessments in installments to continue, but Controller McGann holds that in the future, unless the contractor is willing to take his chances of selling the bonds himself, the street improvements will have to follow the old plan of raising the entire sum in one assessment.

Special Police Stars Called In.

Mayor Harrison and Chief of Police O'Neill have called in all the special stars given out by former Chiefs of Police. Forty or fifty holders responded with many grumblings. The decorations were called "Sergeant's" or "Lieutenant's" stars, and gave their possessors free admission to theaters and prize fights. Two of the holders were Aldermen.

Appropriations for Schools.

The School committee of the Council concurred in the action of the Board of Education in appropriating $250,000 for a new English High and Manual Training School, at Oakley avenue and Van Buren street, and $275,000 for a new South Division High School at Thirty-ninth street and Prairie avenue. The setting apart of $9,000 for a residence building for the Superintendent of the new parental school was not concurred in.

City Hall Notes.

The Judiciary committee of the Council has recommended for passage the ordinance increasing the legal height for buildings to twelve stories, or a maximum of 175 feet.

The request of the Western Electric company for a permit to connect its two plants on the West Side by an underground conduit for carrying heat and power and its main plant with the river was put over for one week by the Committee on Streets and Alleys West.

George Zilkey, a peddler, was fined $50 and costs by Justice Mahoney for having in his produce wagon short peck and half bushel measures. City Sealer Quinn expresses the intention of prosecuting violators of the measure ordinance vigorously.

Officers of the permanent organization were elected as follows:

FEWER CASES OF CONTAGION THAN FOR LAST TWO YEARS.

Deaths for the Week Also Less than for the Preceding Seven Days—Warning Against Measles Reported.

There were fewer cases of contagious diseases reported during the week ended Saturday, June 22, than in any week of the previous two years, according to the weekly bulletin of the Health department, and there were thirty-five fewer deaths than during the previous week, the total of 406 giving an annual rate of 12.04 per thousand of the population. The principal decrease was among infants under 1 year of age, while on the other hand deaths among the aged showed an increase, chiefly from old age, the majority being among those upwards of 75 years.

There were five fewer deaths from measles than during the previous week, but the disease is still so prevalent the Health department thinks it is worth while repeating the comments in the bulletin of May 18 on this subject:

"It is not usually regarded as a serious malady, and parents not infrequently intentionally expose their children to its contagion, so that they may 'take it and get through with it.' Even if it were not the fact that its mortality is rarely less than 20 per cent among children under 2 years old, and in some epidemics is as high as 50 per cent, it is criminal folly to expose the young to any form of contagion. The younger the child the less its powers of vital resistance. Keep your own children away from those having measles, and these latter should be kept from others for at least four weeks after the eruption subsides, and longer if there is bronchitis, inflammation of the throat or nose, or abscess of the ears."

Statement of mortality for the week ending June 22, 1901, compared with the preceding week, and with the corresponding week of 1900, death rates computed on the United States census figures of population—viz.: 1,698,575 for 1900, 1,758,025 for 1901:

	June 22, 1901.	June 15, 1901.	June 23, 1900.

Hopes to Arrange Terms with Russia and England Before Leaving Office.

TREATIES UNDER WAY.

Abrogation of Clayton-Bulwer Treaty May Already Be in Sight.

TRADE WAR TO BE AVERTED.

WASHINGTON BUREAU CHICAGO TRIBUNE
Washington, D. C., June 24.

During the coming summer two subjects of great importance to America are to be considered by European Cabinets, and in each case the Ambassador to the United States will give the home office the benefit of his personal knowledge of the situation. Count Cassini, the Russian Ambassador, left today for home, carrying with him the official text of the reply of Secretary Hay to the retaliatory action of the Russian government on the tariff question.

Count Cassini to Explain American Laws.

Count Cassini has been here so long that he understands American methods better than many European diplomats. He and his niece have both been warmly received in Washington society, and through a long course of afternoon teas, and dinners, and automobile breakfasts, and golf luncheons the Ambassador has been initiated into the mysteries of American public opinion.

He knows thoroughly well that this country has both a traditional and an actual friendship for Russia, and he also understands that the action of the Treasury department in imposing a discriminating duty, first on Russian sugar and then on Russian petroleum, was in no sense an exercise of the discretion of the Secretary of the Treasury, but instead was dictated by law.

In fact, it is said at the State department that the departure of Count Cassini for St. Petersburg is the most opportune thing that could have happened. He has expressed himself, it is said, in an unofficial but none the less positive manner, to the effect that this country cannot possibly be charged with any intentional or unfriendly discrimination against Russia.

As nearly as can be learned, the Russian Ambassador is prepared to show to the head of his Foreign office that there has been a misunderstanding in St. Petersburg of the feeling in Washington. It is confidently expected, therefore, that during the summer the Russian government will accept the testimony of Count Cassini as to the extremely friendly attitude of President McKinley's administration.

It is hoped that after Count Cassini has explained the situation thoroughly the Russian Foreign office will see its way clear to a substantial reversal of its recently adopted policy of retaliation. It has been evident for some time to the State department the Russian Foreign office did not fully understand the mechanism of the American government. Minister Witte has persistently assumed that Secretary Gage or President McKinley has the power to alter or amend the tariff law, much as the imperial government is accustomed to do in Russia.

The one great benefit that is hoped to be derived from the visit of Count Cassini is the dissipation of this characteristically European idea.

Count Cassini has been here long enough to learn that Congress passes a tariff law, which the President cannot change, and it is well known that the Russian Ambassador himself is convinced that in both cases regarding the sugar and the petroleum tariff Secretary Gage had no discretion whatever, provided the facts were as he assumed them to be. The Russian Ambassador has been provided with the decision of the Board of General Appraisers in New York sustaining the action of the Treasury department.

The State department here would not object to a straightforward prohibitive tariff duty in Russia against the United States, because that would be strictly in accordance with the modern American tariff theory. What is objected to is that the Russian government should enter upon a policy of retaliation based exclusively upon the theory that the United States, from some unknown reason, had seen fit to discriminate unfairly against some of the most important products of the Empire of Russia.

It is believed, therefore, that when Count Cassini reaches St. Petersburg, after a ten days' stop at Paris, he will speedily dissipate the idea of discrimination on the part of the United States. When that result is accomplished it will be an easy matter, comparatively speaking, to adjust the difficulty by means of a reciprocity treaty, or even if it became necessary by some minor legislation in Congress.

Controller Dawes today declared a third dividend of 2 per cent in favor of the creditors of the Capital National Bank of Lincoln, Neb., making in all 17 per cent on all claims proved, amounting to $1,242,979.

The second important bit of negotiation which will be in progress across the ocean during the summer months concerns the revival of the Hay-Pauncefote Nicaraguan Canal treaty. In discussing the question as to whether the sad tragedy at New Haven might not tend to hasten the retirement of Secretary Hay from the Cabinet, State department officials today incautiously revealed the fact that the new negotiations for a canal treaty were farther advanced than had generally been supposed, either here or in London.

New Treaty Over Nicaragua Under Way.

The statement was made today that the Secretary of State was not likely to resign before he had collated the opinions of Republican Senators on the canal question and believed he had reached a basis for a new treaty, which would be acceptable to Great Britain, and which could be ratified by the Senate.

It was incautiously admitted that in view of this fact the Secretary of State desired to remain in the Cabinet in the hope of having his name connected with a great international agreement between this country and Great Britain.

It is understood that the main idea is a guarantee of neutrality by the United States, an abrogation of the Clayton-Bulwer treaty, the union of Great Britain with the United States to force the neutrality of the canal in all cases except where the United States saw a necessary war measure for its own protection deemed it necessary to close the canal against some other nation.

Lord Pauncefote, the British Ambassador, before leaving here, was advised of the fact that public opinion in this country would not sustain a treaty which would permit Great Britain or any other country to dictate the control of the Nicaraguan Canal after the United States had paid for its construction. It is the belief at the State department that the British Foreign office will ultimately consent to the abrogation of the Clayton-Bulwer treaty, but will probably demand something in return for the concession.

The administration is willing to discuss the quid pro quo. Great Britain, it is believed, will demand a concession on the Alaska boundary while the United States, it is hinted, will probably offer instead of that important tariff concessions as between this country and the Dominion of Canada.

Chandler Hale, son of the Maine Senator, was today formally appointed secretary of legation at Vienna.

Secretary Long today approved the designs of the two medals authorized by Congress to commemorate the achievements of the American navy in West Indian waters during the Spanish war. He acted upon the unanimous recommendation of the Naval Board of Awards. These souvenirs are distinguished as the battle medal and the meritorious service medal.

Secretary Long Approves Design for Navy Medal.

The board is particular to point out that the battle medal is not conferred for service in any one engagement, but is intended for the men who participated in any or all of the battles fought in the West Indian waters. Admiral Sampson's head is placed upon the medal, because, as explained by the board, he was commander-in-chief of the West Indian fleet, and the members followed the policy laid down when Admiral Dewey's head was put on the Manila medal.

The battle medal will not be known as the Santiago medal, for upon the reverse will be found the name of the decisive battle in which the recipient participated. If a hero took part in more than one battle the engagement will be represented by separate bars attached to the suspending ribbon, the latter being red, white, and blue. One bar will be shown for each battle. In the event of an officer participating in all the battles, as was the case of Wainright, the bars will be as conspicuous as the medal itself.

On the obverse appears Admiral Sampson's portrait in profile, taken from a portrait made just before the Spanish war. On the face of the medal is inscribed "United States Naval Campaign in the West Indies, 1898—William Thomas Sampson, Commander-in-Chief." The suspending bar above bears the American eagle, over a design in oak leaves.

On the reverse of the battle medal recognition is given the men behind the guns, whose marvelous work commanded the admiration of the world. It portrays a spirited scene on the deck of an American warship in full action. To the left, stripped to the waist, shading his eyes with his hand and bending his shoulder to direct a rapid-fire gun, is the figure of a typical American bluejacket. In the foreground stands a young officer with extended arms, indicating to the jack tar the mark to be struck.

Design Honors the Man Behind the Gun.

To the right is a marine in his shirt sleeves, with his belt, heavy with cartridges, and his rifle in hand, waiting for his turn at the gun. Over the bulwarks and in the distance is the outline of a warship in action. This is conventionalized, so that it may be anything from a battleship to a torpedo boat.

In adopting this feature of the design the board has undoubtedly avoided some heartaches and jealousies among the officers of the fleet. Surrounding the picture, on the rim of the medal, is a handsome laurel wreath. The inscriptions on these medals will read: "Santiago," "San Juan," or the name of the place at which the battle was fought in which the recipient participated. The date will also be given, together with the name of the man, his position, and the name of the ship.

Secretary Long is responsible for the design of the reverse, and he is responsible for the type of ship. It was intended to have a battleship of the Oregon type on the reverse, but the Secretary feared objection might arise to the prominence given any particular vessel, and he suggested the "man behind the gun" idea.

What is known as the meritorious service medal is simpler in design, and is intended for those who rendered gallant and meritorious service not in the line of battle. These will be awarded to such men as Hobson, Victor Blue, Ward, Buck, and a few others. The design is a five-pointed star in open work encircled by a laurel wreath and supported by a bar, the whole backed by a red, white, and blue ribbon. On the face the five points of the star bear the inscription, "United States Navy, War with Spain, 1898." A foul anchor fills in the center of the star. The name of the recipient will be engraved on the reverse.

Meritorious Service Medal Is Simpler.

Secretary Long left tonight for Boston, where he will spend several days with his family. The Secretary will return here in about a week and remain until August, when he will leave for a vacation of a month's duration.

Representative Prince had a brief conference with the President today in the interest of his constituents, including a number of postmasters. Owing to the change made in Mr. Prince's district by the reapportionment law there was some doubt as to whether the Illinoisan should recommend postmasters for appointment in his old district, or whether the recommendation should be made for the new one. It was decided that Mr. Prince should continue to name the postmasters in his old district until March, 1903, when his present term expires. This rule will govern in all districts the boundaries of which have been changed by the State Legislatures.

Congressman Prince Confers with McKinley.

Architect Henry Ives Cobb, in stepping from a street car late last night, fell and sprained his right knee. The injury is not a serious one, although Mr. Cobb will be confined to his home for several days. The accident to the architect, he says, will not delay the work on the Chicago building.

An army officer stationed at the national armory at Springfield, Mass., has proposed the establishment of a school for armorers in this country. Captain John T. Thomas, a well-known ordnance officer, last year visited the school for armorers which is located at Liege, in Belgium, and has been giving a good deal of study to the subject of a similar institution to be located at Springfield, Mass.

Proposes a School for Armorers.

He is enthusiastic over his plans, and probably will try to interest some of the large small arms manufacturing concerns in forming such a school in this country and locating it at Springfield.

The object of the school is to train young men to become expert in gunmaking, so that they can fill responsible positions before they become old. The work done in the school would be largely of a practical nature, but some theoretical work would be introduced.

The expense of the school would be borne by the various small arms companies, and there would be no charge made to the pupils. Springfield is a suitable location for such a school, because of the national armory, Smith & Wesson, and the Stevens Arms company being there.

Then there is the small arms museum at the armory, which is the finest in the country. The work which would be done in the school would be furnished by the various companies, and the man doing the work would have 25 per cent of the money for which the piece was sold, a part would go toward the running expenses of the school, and the rest to the manufacturer. The gun shops would be benefited by such a school, and the country would be in possession of the trained workmen necessary in the application of firearms.

Last winter THE TRIBUNE printed the opinion of a number of army and navy officers to the effect that the system of planting mortar batteries along the coast was a gross misuse of the public funds. Eminent authorities in both the army and navy declared that no mortar could be depended upon to hit a ten-acre lot a distance of five miles, and that the chances for hitting a battleship in motion was so extremely small that a mortar battery could not be considered in the light of any coast defense at all.

Army Officers Will Test Mortar Batteries.

These facts were perfectly well known in the service, but the actual publication created something of a sensation, and the President directed that the matter should be investigated thoroughly.

Secretary Root has now issued an order convening a board of officers to meet at Fort Preble, Me., July 1, to arrange the details for and conduct the firing and test of the mortar batteries in the district of Portland. The tests will be under the supervision of the Board of Ordnance and Fortifications. Army officers generally express the opinion that the result of the test will show that a hulk anchored off shore, or better still, a slowly moving raft cannot be hit once in twenty times at an ordinary range by any mortar battery now in the service, although the government has spent and is spending millions of dollars on this antiquated system of coast defense. The detail for the board to conduct the test includes Lieutenant Colonel John R. Myrick, Captain Frank S. Harlow, and Captain Charles J. Bailey, all of artillery corps.

Frank A. Vanderlip, former Assistant Secretary of the Treasury, made a flying visit to Washington today for the purpose of paying a social call to his former chief, Secretary Gage. He was at the treasury only a short time, but while there disposed of several rumors regarding his movements. He said his trip abroad was entirely for his own account; that he left the government employ last March; that he had not been offered another government position; that he would not take it if it were offered to him, and that he was not to become President of the Lincoln National Bank of New York.

Regarding his connection with the proposed international bank, Mr. Vanderlip declined to talk. Rumor has it, however, that he is to be connected with the National City Bank of New York, and that he is to have charge of the relations of that big institution not only with the United States government but with other movements as well.

The theory is that the National City Bank proposes to enter the market for foreign loans, and Mr. Vanderlip's trip is supposed to have been for the purpose of familiarizing himself with the funding methods of foreign countries.

While he was away Mr. Vanderlip performed some little financial errands for the Treasury department, but he denies with considerable vigor that he has been or could be on the public pay roll since he resigned last March. He does not deny that the bank or trust company with which he is to become connected might have sent him abroad.

Secretary Gage is not well, although he is attending to his duties.

Secretary Gage Urged to Take a Vacation.

His physicians have advised him to take a rest, at least during the hot season. The Secretary's condition is not at all alarming, but he is worn out by the strain under which he labored during Mrs. Gage's illness and since her death. His friends have advised him to leave Washington for a while at the first opportunity, and it is quite probable he will take a longer vacation this summer than he has enjoyed since he became a member of President McKinley's official household.

Army authorities in Manila are going to have considerable difficulty in taking the census of the islands.

Obstacles in Way of Census of Philippines.

A good deal of information has been acquired through military sources, and this recent data will be used in conjunction with the reports inherited from the Spanish Bureau of Statistics. The latter information is by no means reliable, and the insufficiency and inaccuracy of the figures thus obtained add to the difficulty of the task.

One of the bewildering features of the work has been the eradication of former towns by fire, removal, and in many cases by absorption in larger pueblos. An example is Lauan, Masbate, which existed in 1887, but is now merged into San Augustin, while the Town of Carmen, in Bohol, population of 4,000, has since 1887 been burned to the ground. The change in population, due to the insurrection chiefly, forms another difficulty. As an example, the Town of Baugued, in Abra, is quoted. The census taken by the Spanish civil authorities gives this town's population as 16,596, while data supplied by military officials of the present occupation give it as 11,188. In other cases it is greater instead of less. The Spanish census of Manila Province (1887) gave it a population of 1,000,392; of Manila City, 154,062. Both, it is well known, are now considerably greater

SOUTHERNERS WHO FOUGHT FATAL DUEL.

Lawrence A. Bailey and Walter Selph, two hotblooded young Southerners, both loved the same girl. After several wordy quarrels, in one of which one young man called the other a coward, the two met by appointment in Audubon Park, New Orleans, to settle the matter with their bare fists. The battle was a short one, but it ended in the death of young Selph. Bailey gave himself up to the police and was released on $1,000 bail on a charge of manslaughter. He is nearly insane with grief and it is feared he may lose his mind. The young men had been warm friends up to the time they fell in love with the same girl. The families of both are well known and highly respected in New Orleans.

HAY FUNERAL TO BE AT CLEVELAND

Body of Young Man Killed by Fall at New Haven Starts on Westward Journey.

FAMILY GOES WITH IT.

College Classmates of the Dead Alumnus Give Sincere Evidence of Sorrow.

SECRETARY HAY IS BETTER.

New Haven, Conn., June 24.—The body of Adelbert S. Hay, who was killed by a fall from a third-story window of the New Haven House early on Sunday morning, was started tonight on the journey to Cleveland, O., where the funeral and interment are to take place. In the party accompanying the body were Secretary John Hay, Mrs. Hay, mother of the dead man; the Misses Hay, his sisters; and Clarence Hay, a younger brother.

Arrangements for the departure from New Haven had been perfected during the day while the members of the family who came here yesterday were awaiting the arrival of the mother and of Miss Alice Hay, the younger daughter, from Newburn, N. H. When Mrs. and Miss Hay reached the city they went directly to the Moseley residence on Wall street. There mother and father met. After the sad greetings Mr. and Mrs. Hay, with their daughters, Helen and Alice, and Clarence, the son, entered the room where the dead lay. For a few minutes only they remained, and then the casket was closed, to be opened no more.

The party will reach Cleveland tomorrow at 12:30 o'clock. Arriving, they will go at once to the Lakeview Cemetery, and in the chapel there will be held the last rites.

Messages of Sympathy General.

The general feeling of sadness so noticeable this morning still pervades throngs of graduates in New Haven tonight, and especially is this true of the '98 men, with whom Adelbert S. Hay spent the four years of undergraduate life.

Henry B. Wright, secretary of the class of '98, received the following message from the triennial class at Harvard tonight:

"Secretary of Yale, '98: In the midst of our triennial celebration our hearts are made extremely sad by the deplorable death of your classmate, Adelbert S. Hay. Our deepest and most sincere sympathy is yours.

"BARTLETT HARDING HAYES, Harvard."

The following reply was sent: "Bartlett Harding Hayes, Harvard University: Please extend to your class the gratitude of Hay's friends at Yale for the fraternal message of sympathy."

A committee consisting of Robert Raynolds Hitt, son of Congressman Hitt of Illinois; Payne Whitney, son of ex-Secretary of the Navy William C. Whitney of New York; James T. Wadsworth, son of Congressman Wadsworth of Genesee, N. Y.; Robert Garrison of New York; and Julian Starkweather Mason of Chicago will represent the class at the funeral. Mr. Hitt was a roommate of Adelbert Hay in college.

Secretary Will Not Take Degree.

Boston, Mass., June 24.—[Special.]—Governor Crane today received a telegram from the private secretary of Secretary of State Hay to the effect that the latter could not avail himself of the opportunity to visit Harvard with the Governor on commencement day. This is taken to mean that the proposed honor of LL. D. for the Secretary of State will not be conferred this year.

Messages Received in Washington.

Washington, D. C., June 24.—Telegrams of condolence from all quarters of the world are coming to the State department today addressed to Secretary Hay. Cards also are being received at the Hay home here expressing regret.

The deepest sympathy for the Secretary of State and his family in their affliction is expressed at the White House.

Sorrow in Foreign Lands.

The following are among the great number of cablegrams and telegrams addressed to Secretary Hay:

From Sandringham Palace, Sir F. Knollys, private secretary to his Majesty the King of England, says:

"The King shares your grief in your terrible loss. He had the pleasure of knowing your son in London."

From the Elysée Palace at Paris the President of France sends the following message:

"Sincerest sympathy."—Loubet.

Lord Roberts telegraphs from London:

"I deeply sympathize with you in the tragic death of your son. His kindness and courtesy to our prisoners in Pretoria will ever be most gratefully remembered."

Lord Pauncefote: "Our hearts go out to you in deep sympathy and sorrow."

Sir Henry Irving: "My deep and most profound sympathy with you and Mrs. Hay and your family in the terrible affliction which has come upon you."

Whitelaw Reid: "We are grieved at the sad news as from a personal calamity and send our most earnest and affectionate sympathy. His promise was so fine and his performance so ample for his years that this untimely fate seems doubly cruel."

President Arthur T. Hadley of Yale University: "Pray accept heartfelt sympathy from a friend of your son, who was proud of what he was doing. He lived long enough to leave his mark upon the world and to help every one who knew him."

Diplomatic Corps Sends Messages.

All the members of the diplomatic corps in Washington have expressed their sympathy by card or by personal communication to the acting Secretary excepting those who are out of town. The Portuguese Minister to England, Senhor Soveral, sends an expression of his sympathy.

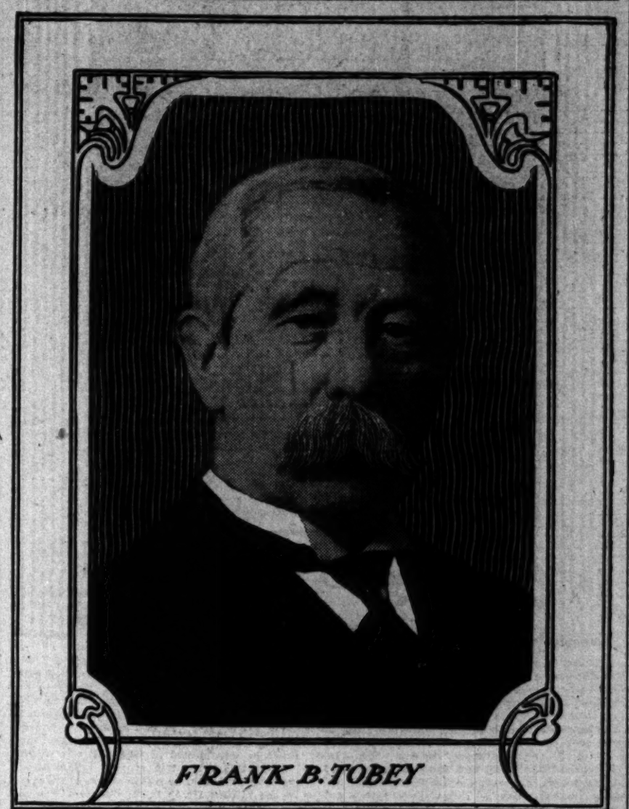
Cablegrams and messages have been received from Henry White, First Secretary of Embassy at London; Consul General Osborne at London, Consul General Gowdy at Paris, Herbert W. Bowen, late Minister to Persia; Mr. Leger, Minister of Hayti; Mr. Zaldivar, Minister of Salvador; Mr. Corea, Minister of Nicaragua; Mr. Vasques, Chargé d'Affaires of San Domingo; Mr. Amaral, Chargé d'Affaires of Brazil, and Dr. Yela, Secretary of Legation of Guatemala, and scores of Senators, Congressmen, and others.

M'KINLEY COMING NEXT YEAR.

President Says He Will Be Unable to Visit Chicago This Fall, but Will Do So in the Spring.

Washington, D. C., June 24.—[Special.]—Volney W. Foster of Evanston called upon the President this afternoon and endeavored to have him fix a date some time this fall when he would go to Chicago to be present at the banquet which it was intended to give when he reached Chicago on his return from the Pacific coast. The President said it would be impossible for him to visit Chicago this fall, but that as he contemplated a visit to the West next spring he would be delighted to stop at Chicago. Mr. Foster is the representative of the Business-Men's association, and the other organizations which combined in an invitation to the President to visit Chicago.

MAN WHO HAS HELPED MAKE CHICAGO GREAT.



Frank B. Tobey, President of the Bureau of Justice, and also President of the Tobey Furniture company, is one of the men who have made Chicago great. He came to the city in 1857, and entered the furniture business as a clerk at $7 a week in the small store of his brother, Charles. The brothers at once were forced to show the keen business sense which lay in them, for the panic of '57 struck the business before it had taken firm root. By skillful management they weathered the storm, though many apparently stronger houses went down.

The same shrewdness and commercial understanding has enabled Mr. Tobey to increase his business from the little store of the '50s to the establishment of today with a ground area of 143,000 square feet, and a trade extending to every State and Territory in the union and to other continents.

Mr. Tobey was born in Massachusetts in 1833, being descended from a long line of New England ancestors. He is well known as a philanthropist and student of social conditions. He has taken an active part in various endeavors to draw more closely together the laboring-man and the capitalist. He is a trustee of Rush Medical College and Vice President of the board. He is also President of the Society for Ethical Culture.

YALE SENIOR CLASS DAY.

COMMENCEMENT PROGRAM AT NEW HAVEN IN FULL SWING.

Academic Department Holds Its Exercises and the Law Department Hears Address by Judge Marcus P. Knowlton—Maurice Mason of Chicago Is One of the Historians—Illinois Boys Numerous and Finish with Credit to the State.

New Haven, Conn., June 24.—[Special.]—Yale's commencement program was in full swing today, the seniors of the Academic department holding their class day exercises and the Law department of the university their commencement exercises. The orator of the day at the Law School commencement was Judge Marcus P. Knowlton of the Massachusetts Supreme Court. His subject was "Legislation and Judicial Decisions in Their Relation to Each Other and to the Law."

Judge Knowlton said: "Our ancestors who framed our constitutions first made the division of civil government into three departments, a foundation on which to build an enduring system. This method secured to each department independence of the others in its separate work in its own field.

"Legislators should be astute to discover defects in governmental machinery and to supply the requisites for perfect work. They constitute the constructive force in government, as distinguished from the managing and regulating forces. They needs exercise a wise conservatism. The danger of too much legislation is ever present. A sparsely settled state inhabited mostly by agriculturists needs but few laws. A densely populated manufacturing and commercial country needs many more."

Following this address came the annual prize speaking for the De Forest prize of $100. This was won by C. P. Kitchel of Liverpool, O. The annual award of prizes followed.

Award General Prizes.

In the middle class Garfield R. Jones of Evanston, Ill., received a cum laude general scholarship honor. Mason Harder Newell of Springfield, Ill., received a similar honor in the junior class awards.

In the class day exercises of the Academic department the class poem was read by Paul Titus Gilbert of Cincinnati, O., and the class oration was delivered by R. H. Edwards of Lisle, N. Y., this morning. The picturesque features attending the reading of the class day histories this afternoon were enjoyed by 2,000 people.

Maurice Mason of Chicago was one of the historians. Gordon Brown, Captain of the champion football eleven, was chairman of the Class Day committee.

Illinois members of the class are: James Leonard Boyce, Chicago; Morton David Cahn, Chicago; Oliver Hall Eddy, Evanston; Henry Sayrs McAuley, Chicago; Louis Manierre, Chicago; Joseph Medill Patterson, Chicago; Edwin Orlando Valle Jr., Oak Park; Richardson Wilson Walsh, Chicago; and Arthur Frederick Yagger, Lake Forest.

The full list of senior appointments at Yale was announced today. It includes the summary of the general scholarship rank of the members of the class of 1901 during the entire four years of the course. William Howe Warren of Holden, Mass., led the class. Edwin Hotchkiss Tuttle of this city was second, and William Mills Maltbie of Granby, Conn., was third.

Oliver Hall Eddy of Evanston received a high oration appointment, M. D. Cahn and A. E. Valle of Chicago an oration, and Downer McCord of Chicago a first dispute.

PLAGUE SHIP AT SAN DIEGO.

British Steamer from Hongkong Reports Six Deaths from the Bubonic Pest During Voyage.

Washington, D. C., June 24.—Surgeon General Wyman of the marine hospital service today was informed by Dr. McKay, quarantine officer at San Diego, Cal., of the arrival at that port of a plague-infected ship. The vessel is the British steamer Carlisle City, which sailed from Hongkong on May 16.

Dr. McKay reports that there were six deaths en route, five of which were certainly caused by plague, and the sixth is supposed to have been. All the deaths but one were among members of the crew, the exception being a Chinese steerage passenger.

The vessel is being thoroughly disinfected and kept well away from the wharf so as to prevent the escape of rats as well as of persons. The dead bodies were all buried at sea and the baggage of the deceased burned. Dr. McKay says that dead rats were found on this ship before the sickness made its appearance.

REDUCES SERVICE TO GUARD GRADE.

St. Paul Road Meets Sheridan Park Complaint by Ending Feeder System.

STEP TO FORCE COUNCIL.

Little Being Done by Railways to Prevent Accidents at Crossings.

DEADLY WORK AT THE GRADES.

	Killed.	Injured.
July	7	10
August	6	18
September	5	12
October	8	23
Total	26	63

The foregoing is the record of grade crossing fatalities last year in the four months now approaching. Conditions now are the same practically as then. As casualties of this nature maintain the same general average from year to year, conditions being unchanged, this is also a forecast of what will be sacrificed to the grade crossing in the next four months.

Of these ninety-one accidents—twenty-eight fatal in four months—the Chicago, Milwaukee, and St. Paul railroad was accountable for eight—five killed and three injured. This road yesterday made one of the few changes which will tend to diminish the list of deaths on grade crossings. The "feeder system," which has been operated from Sheridan Park to Evanston in connection with the Northwestern Elevated road, was discontinued.

In doing this the company had two motives. One was to eliminate a cause of accidents. The other was to force the City Council of Chicago and the Council of Evanston to pass ordinances allowing the elevated road to lease the tracks of the Chicago, Milwaukee, and St. Paul from Wilson avenue to Evanston and run through trains from the Union loop to that town. Stopping of the "feeder service" will diminish grade crossing accidents for the reason that Wilson avenue was made especially dangerous by the switching of trains there.

Cuts Off North Shore Service.

Following the accident to Miss Nellie Cowles there last week, the Sheridan Park Improvement association prepared to renew the fight which had been made last year on the grade crossings of the Evanston line. The company met it by taking off the trains. The only service now given is that from Evanston through to the union station. While the "feeder system" was working trains were switching at Wilson avenue every ten minutes in the rush hours and every twenty minutes during the rest of the day.

Residents of the north shore suburbs who relied on this service in connection with the elevated road now find themselves deprived of their most convenient way of reaching the city. The railroad company hopes to use the discontent which will follow as a lever to secure the passage of ordinances through the Council.

With this exception conditions in the city are much the same as they were last summer, when the record of casualties at grade crossings reached ninety-one in four months. Work is now progressing on the elevation of tracks ordered by the Council, and work will be begun next year under ordinances passed this year by the Council. Some of the most dangerous crossings in the city still remain.

Disagreement Delays Work.

Because of a disagreement between the Illinois Central and the Lake Shore and Michigan Southern railroad companies as to which shall be required to cross above the other at Grand Crossing, that grade crossing, which added heavily to the list of victims, will remain unattended to. The ordinance providing for the elevation of tracks there probably will not be presented to the Council until next fall, and the work cannot be completed by the companies for a couple of years.

The crossing at Polk street is covered by ordinances now passed, but nothing can be done this summer. There is little to decrease the number of grade crossing fatalities, and it is expected that the record of last year will be paralleled this summer.

Victims of St. Paul Road.

Those killed and injured on the tracks of the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul railroad last year, according to the police record, were as follows:

July 17—Bernard Schneider, fatally injured at Nelson street.

July 18—Paul Suckan, killed at Ashland avenue.

Aug. 1—Peter Schmidt, killed at Oakdale avenue.

Aug. 22—Miss Hattie Nolan, killed at Pratt avenue.

Aug. 23—Fred Voele, injured at Hawthorne avenue.

Aug. 27—Elvis Clifford, killed at Wilson avenue.

Sept. 10—Joseph Lesquewski, injured at Kingsbury street.

Oct. 19—Sing Sim, Chinaman, struck at Lawrence avenue.

Says the Line Didn't Pay.

Assistant General Superintendent Charles A. Goodnow of the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul company said the trains between Sheridan Park and Evanston avenue had been taken off because they had been run at a loss and without patronage. He said the failure of the company to secure the desired privilege of changing its motive power from steam to electricity also had influenced the discontinuance of the service.

The Sheridan Park residents, who were about to renew the fight against the grade crossings, expect to drop the movement now that the dangerous part of the service has been eliminated.

"LEVEE" LOSES ITS LIFE.

ORDERS OF POLICE PUT DAMPER ON THE DISTRICT.

South Clark Street and Custom-House Place Undergo a Quick Reformation—O'Neill's Command That Back Doors of Saloons Be Closed Is Obeyed—Ike Rosen's "Joint" Silent as a Tomb—"Whisky Row" Continues Its Strenuous Mood.

Had any one who knew the levee in the days of its glory gone down Custom-House place or South Clark street last night he would have had difficulty in recognizing it. The same old signs were out before the doors, the same gaudy curtains marked the saloons, but the crowd was lacking, the music was stilled. Ike Rosen's place, for years of unsavory memory, was tight as a drum. The levee had become as respectable as its situation would allow.

The fear that the sudden revocation of Rosen's and Tuckhorn's licenses has created has had a salutary effect.

"It ain't that we're afraid," said one of the "barkeeps," "but we don't like to run up against a brick wall. It hurts us, and not the wall. See?"

Rosen's license was taken yesterday morning, and the Harrison street police were told of the fact at roll call last evening. It was taken away from him once before because of a robbery there, but the plea that the police had wrongly accused him induced the Mayor to grant its renewal.

Rosen's "Pull" Fails to Save.

Shortly afterwards a cutting affair took place in his saloon and Rosen tried to hide the facts. This resulted in another recommendation that the license be revoked, and yesterday the Mayor ordered it taken away, after listening to all that Rosen had to say in his own behalf. The position of Rosen, his "pull," politically and financially, made his fall a signal for a general stampede. Rosen is a man of prominence in the First Ward. Last year at election time there were thirty-four alleged voters registered from the two-story shack he has made his haunt, but yesterday not even Rosen himself gave the place the honor of his presence.

While Clark street, especially south of Polk street, was orderly, Custom-House place was like a tomb. The order given on Friday that all rear doors to houses must be cut off was for the first time obeyed. The keepers had begged Chief O'Neill for two days' grace. They said they could not get the lumber to fasten the doors—they wanted Saturday and Sunday trade—and they had their request granted.

"That door is broken," said the barkeeper of the "Saratoga;" "you can't go through there. It swings all right, but the Chief says it's bust."

On the door of the "California," the most unsavory joint on the street, the following sign was tacked on the entrance to the room where women, wine, music, and depravity rule: "Door is broken. Can't open it. Go through 116."

One Saloon Man Quits.

The "Maison Bore," another saloon of wild repute, was closed. Its bar was being torn to pieces, and its proprietor has decided to go out of business and keep a "parlor house." At 156 the back of the saloon is being built up and completely isolated from the house it belongs to. "The Montreal," "The Waldorf," "The Belmont," and "The Dell" were running quietly. Few had patrons, yet all entrances to the joints behind them were through long passageways from the street. The street was "dull, blamed dull," as Joe West of 146 remarked when asked what was the trouble.

South Clark street below Polk, the district which caused complaint from the brothers of St. Peter's Church, was still. The rumbling of cars, the yells of drivers, and singing of children took the place of the ragtime music and the clink of glasses. Joe Canan's barkeeper was in front of his saloon, and when asked what was the matter muttered, "Nothing doing tonight, we are dead to the world."

Even the police were still. The district was crowded with Central detail and Harrison men, but only two arrests were made, and both were for drunkenness.

While this quiet of the tomb was marked in the real center of Chicago's disreputable district, "Whisky row," in State street, was enjoying itself. The music was being pounded out of old pianos, drunks paraded about, and the saloons were as lively as they have been since the revocation of Tuckhorn's license called a temporary halt. The saloonkeepers were jubilant over the fact that they were allowed to run while Custom-House place and Clark street were tight. With their joy was a note of dread, though they would not acknowledge they had received any orders to close up.

MRS. M'KINLEY GAINS STRENGTH

Is Able for First Time Since Her Return to Go Down-Stairs and Join President at Luncheon.

Washington, D. C., June 24.—For the first time since she was brought home from California in a feeble condition, Mrs. McKinley today was able to go down-stairs and join the President while the latter was at luncheon. She remained at the table for some time and then returned to her room, having enjoyed the break in the daily routine of life for the last month. Apparently she was not fatigued by the extra exertion. Mrs. McKinley's general condition continues favorable, and Dr. Rixey said tonight she was improving steadily.

WHEAT DULL AND EASY.

Wrenn Putting Out Large Quantities in Way of Changing Into September—Cables Generally Firm, but Not Strong Enough to Hold Prices Up in the Face of Local Bear Sentiment—Corn Bulled Early on Reports of Too Hot Weather West.

Wheat was a particularly heavy market yesterday, moving within narrow limits and closing with net declines on each delivery, ⅛c on July and about ¼c on September. The trade was bearish pretty much all the session but evened up toward the close. The feature of the day—and not a large one at that—was the continued selling of July wheat by Wrenn and the buying of September. These changes began on a spread of ¼c, which subsequently widened to ½c. In volume something around 500,000 bu were changed. Bartlett-Frazier and the larger commission houses generally also had considerable wheat for sale and their lead was taken by a number of pit traders. In a general way the buying was pretty well scattered.

Sept. Wheat Range.

The stronger cables were something of a help to the opening markets. Liverpool was steady to ⅛d higher, while Paris was 10 centimes up on both wheat and flour, a reflection of the conditions which have existed in French markets for a week or two past. The Paris cables, as a matter of fact, have been strong for so long that their effect is hardly what it used to be when talk of a short crop and of large requirements which would later draw on the reserves in this country first began to be heard. Domestic markets, except possibly St. Louis, were fairly firm. The thing which made the Southwest bearish was the arrival in several markets of new wheat of high grade and heavy weight, the conditions which invariably break the primary markets when the new crop begins to move. Combined, the cables and the few other factors on the bull side of the market opened the July price steady to ⅛c higher, sales ranging from 67c down to 66⅝c. Sales made at 67c were top for the day, the price declining until it reached 66½c. The bear influence on this break was the Wrenn selling. The close was at 66⅛@66¼c against 66⅝c on Saturday. September did not fare quite so badly, opening at at 66⅜@66⅝c, selling to 66⅝@67c, and off to 66¼@66⅜c, closing at 66½@66⅝c. The domestic visible, now 33,903,000 bu, showed an unexpectedly large decrease—2,227,000 bu. The trade generally had not figured on so large a falling off, but it is looking more to the big harvest now going on in the Southwest and on the prospects of big increases when that crop begins to move than to anything in the immediate conditions. World's shipments were larger—9,481,000 bu, as compared with 8,135,000 bu a week ago and 8,886,000 bu last year. There was a slight decrease on passage, 96,000 bu, the total being 41,056,000 bu. Liverpool stocks, 2,656,000 bu, increased 68,000 bu, and the English visible decreased 444,000 bu. Receipts were moderate, not particularly large at any point. Locally 54 cars were inspected, without contract. The three leading markets reported 484 cars, compared with 470 cars the previous week and 661 cars a year ago. Local public wheat stocks, now 5,970,000 bu, decreased 334,000 bu. The local cash market was almost flat, bids being considered but no sales reported. Atlantic and gulf ports cleared 511,600 bu, while New York had 24 loads for export.

Corn Crowd Afraid of Weather.

High temperature throughout the belt and hot winds in places was considered sufficient grounds for bulling corn early, though the advantage gained by the bulls early in the day was not sustained. After opening at 43⅝c and selling to 44c July corn worked back to 43¼@43⅜c and closed at 43⅝c. September, which sold early at 45⅛c, dropped off to 44⅛c, and closed there. The first reports circulated to the effect that hot weather would have a damaging effect on corn were supplemented by claims that it was exactly what the growing grain needed. On the early advance there was a good deal of profit-taking, Comstock being a conspicuous seller. The Phillips people also had large quantities of July on the market. The later offerings included a considerable percentage of the earlier purchases. The "outside" trade was in fair volume and was generally on the buying side of the September delivery. The visible decreased 85,000 bu, and is now 17,186,000 bu. Last year at this time it was 12,162,000 bu. Local stocks, 5,897,000 bu, decreased 439,000 bu. The world's corn shipments were 5,923,000 bu, compared with 7,529,000 bu the previous week, and 3,707,000 bu last year. Corn on passage, 17,104,000 bu, showed an increase of 1,112,000 bu. Liverpool stocks increased 8,000 bu, and are now 770,000 bu. Corn receipts at domestic primary points were 317,200 bu, compared with 1,264,800 bu a year ago. Shipments were 485,500 bu, against 1,131,000 bu last year. Eastern clearances were 338,200 bu, New York reporting 8 loads for export. Local cash inquiry was moderate and resulted in sales of 50,000 bu.

July Liquidation in Oats.

Oats were firm at the opening, but closed lower and easier. Strength borrowed from corn did not last, and the market eased off slightly for both July and September. There was some liquidation in July at the start, but liberal offerings forced the price down to 27⅛-¼c at the close, a loss of ⅜-½c from Saturday. McReynolds was one of the longs selling. The disposition for trading is shifting to September, the demand for this future becoming more pronounced. Commission houses were the principal buyers. The visible supply showed a decrease of 231,000 bu, against an increase of 244,000 last week. Local stocks increased 177,000 bu. Local receipts were 195 cars, with 183 cars expected today. Seaboard clearances were 50,000 bu, and 30,000 bu were secured for export. Cash oats were steady and in moderate demand.

Provisions were higher, with fair demand. The market closed at $14.82½ for July mess pork and $15.02½ for September, a gain of 10c over Saturday. Lard scored a similar advance, closing at $8.80 for July and $8.85 for September. Short ribs were steady. The general tone of the market was bullish at the close. The opening was quiet. The principal demand of the day was for lard. The Anglo-American Packing company led the moderate selling by packers. Cudahy interests traded in distant futures, selling December and January. Some pork was offered at top figures. Pit scalpers were active on the bear side early, but their efforts were unavailing. Hogs were active and firm, with prices a trifle higher. Local receipts were 38,000, against 42,000 last week and 42,000 a year ago. Estimated receipts today are 21,000. Receipts at the principal Western packing-houses were 54,400, compared with 19,000 last year. Shipments of cut meats were 2,734,140 lbs, against 2,967,394 lbs last year; lard, 1,290,270 lbs, against 1,526,708 lbs. Liverpool market was 6d higher for lard and firm for hams and bacon.

Rye was steady for July and ⅛c lower for September. The market was quiet, with light inquiry. Receipts were 6 cars. July and September both closed at 47c bid.

Barley was quiet, with little demand. Receipts were 22 cars. Screenings were quotable at 33@38c; barley, common to fair malting, 45@50c; good to choice, 51@53c.

Timothy was higher, with light demand. The tone of the market is excellent. September opened steady and sold up to $4.12½ bid for September, with $4.17½ asked. October was quoted at $4.05 and cash $4.07½.

Flaxseed was firm and higher, with light inquiry. There is little stock coming to hand and the firm oil market influences prices. September closed at $1.35, a gain of 2c over Saturday; October, $1.31 bid, and cash seed at $1.85. Receipts were 3 cars in Chicago, 20 in Minneapolis, and 3 in Duluth.

Clover was steady and unchanged. Cash seed was quotable at $6.00@9.00 for poor to choice, and $9.50 for contract.

Trade Gossip on 'Change.

Estimated receipts today: Wheat, 95 cars; corn, 245 cars; oats, 185 cars; hogs, 21,000.

Smith-Gamble of Baltimore reported 105,000 bu of wheat bought in southern Indiana yesterday for July delivery at Baltimore on Baltimore terms at 72½c.

A membership sold yesterday at $2,400 net to the buyer.

M. E. Cooke has just returned from a trip through the Dakotas, and reports farmers in that section enthusiastic on the subject of wheat. They expect a duplication of the yield of 1892, with an increase of one-third in acreage. The whole section is prosperous, and land has advanced in many instances $10.00 per acre.

J. R. Dalton of Eschenberg-Dalton has made a personal inspection of crop conditions between Iowa and South Dakota, and writes that crops of all kinds look better in the southeastern part of South Dakota than he ever saw them at this time in June. The acreage of corn in northwestern Iowa has been increased 10 per cent, and the stand is good, but owing to rains fields are weedy. With favorable warm weather from now on the crop will be all right. There has also been an increase of 10 per cent in the barley acreage.

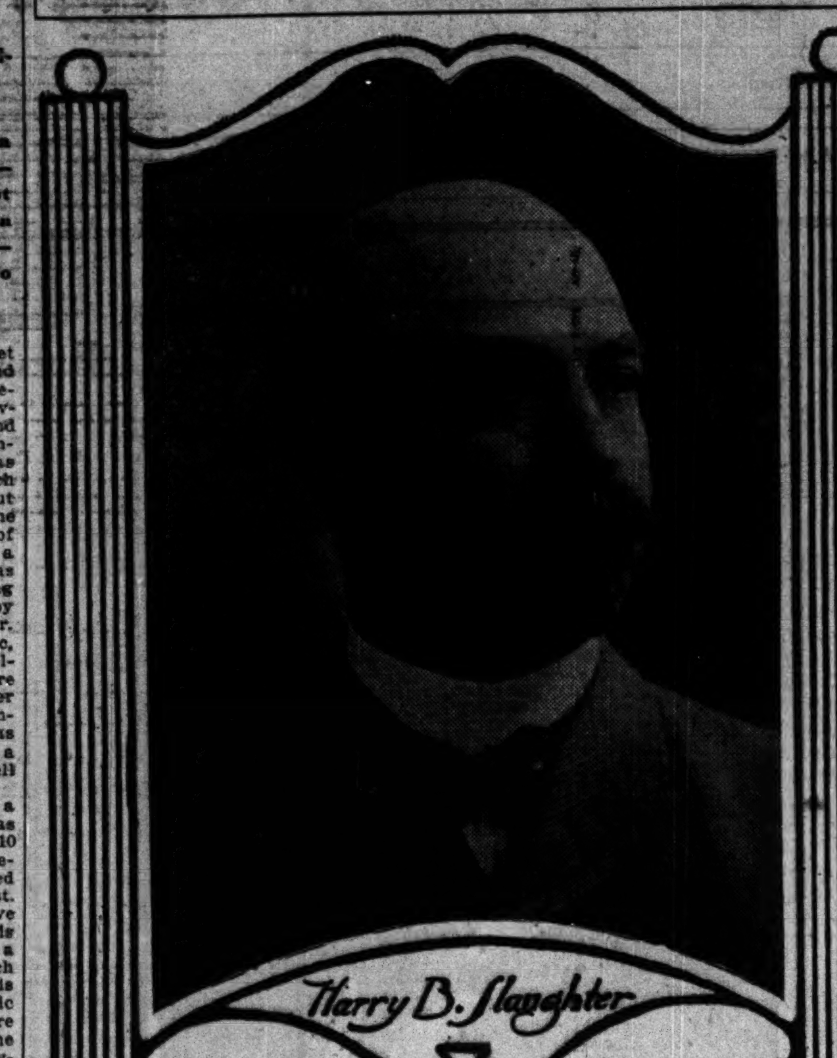
Wheat harvest began yesterday in northern central Kansas, many points reporting hardly an average crop, not yielding over 12 to 15 bu per acre. Chinch bugs are said to have appeared in great numbers the last few days, though they cannot now do much damage.

New wheat was marketed at several points in Kansas yesterday, weighing 62 lbs to the bushel. The grade was generally better than last year.

Oats are said to occupy a somewhat peculiar situation in the list of speculative commodities, the general position being strong on bad crop reports, particularly from northern Iowa, while to a certain extent this is offset by the large local stock, which is now 3,282,000 bu, 117,000 bu larger than it was a week ago. On May 25 the stock was down to 2,809,000 bu. A year ago the local stock was only 1,335,000 bu, which is as small a stock, trade requirements considered, as the present one is large. Delivery day is expected to help the situation from the bull standpoint, as larger quantities are more likely to move at that time. Viewed solely as a statistic the large stock is a depressing factor. On the other hand, the natural strength of the situation is sufficient to go a long way in overcoming obstacles of this kind.

First sales of corn for May delivery were made yesterday at 44¼@44⅜c.

ONE OF YOUNGER MEMBERS OF BOARD OF TRADE.



Harry B. Slaughter of A. O. Slaughter & Co. is one of the younger members of the Board of Trade who has come to the front. He was born in Maryland in 1858. After receiving a common school education he entered the employ of the Old Dominion Steamship company of New York, where he remained for several years. The Western fever getting the best of him, he went to Kansas City in 1877, and there secured his first experience in the grain trade. Six years later he went to St. Louis to secure the benefits of the broadening out of the grain business in the country. In 1895 he came to Chicago and took charge of the Board of Trade business of A. O. Slaughter & Co. and has made a signal success of the grain dealings of the firm. While in St. Louis he was elected in 1894 a director of the Merchants' Exchange, and was also chairman of the Legislative committee of that organization. With George H. Small, the late United States Subtreasurer at St. Louis, he was in charge of the campaign in which former Congressman Hatch, author of the famous Hatch bill in Congress, was defeated for reëlection. Mr. Slaughter was elected a director of the Board of Trade last January.

WORLD'S VISIBLE GRAIN SUPPLY

Mark Lane Express Sees Less Promising Prospects in England, France, and Baltic Regions.

LONDON, June 24.—The Mark Lane Express today, in its weekly crop review, noting the necessity for rain in the United Kingdom, says: "The wheat has come into ear on remarkably short stems and the ears will not fill without more moisture.

"In France the spring corn is less promising.

"Wheat cutting has begun in southern Spain. The provinces of Andalusia and Murcia expect fine yields and the promise in central and northern Spain is excellent. The wheat crop in central Europe is promising on the confines of the Adriatic and extremely bad indeed on the confines of the Baltic, indicating that Croatia and Hungary will have a good crop, while Prussia and Prussian Poland will have a serious deficiency. Mediocre results may be expected in Bavaria and Austria."

Range of Cotton Prices.

Cotton—Bulls had everything their own way in today's cotton market. Many longs misjudged the strength of the market and sold on the first 10 points' advance, only to later buy anew when it became evident that much higher prices were inevitable before the close. On the first call the feeling was firm, with prices up 4@8 points, this being in sympathy with a greater rise in Liverpool than expected. Following the call the market continued to gain steadily in strength as well as in activity. The bulls supported the entire list, the commission houses executed many large sized buying orders, the South and Europe feverishly bid for the near months and October, while Fall River interests purchased July freely on all the easier intervals. About the only cotton for sale consisted of holdings upon which a generous profit had accrued. Fall traders had the courage to sell for short account despite the 75 point advance since the bull movement started. The spot situation in the South was seen to be exceptionally strong, the mills all reported an unprecedented demand for goods and a meager reserve supply of cotton. Crop reports were again lower, prices showing anything but a favorable average. The afternoon session witnessed the high point of the day on active and strong buying for bull account and continued nervous buying for short account. Fears that the English market would open up with a rush in the morning caused shorts to protect themselves. The market was finally steady, with prices net 15 to 18 points higher.

Spot closed dull, 3-16c higher; middling uplands, 8 13-16c; middling gulf, 9 1-16c. Sales, 1,300 bales. Futures closed steady: June, 8.58c; July, 8.58c; August, 7.99c; September, 7.73c; October, 7.65c; November, 7.65c; December, 7.64c; January, 7.66c; February, 7.66c; March, 7.71c.

Heavy brown sheetings and drills are scarce and sellers are reserved in accepting orders for forward deliveries; tone strong. Bleached cottons firm but demand today moderate. No change in wide sheetings. Denims, ticks, and other coarse colored cottons firm. Prints in good demand for staples. Ginghams firm. Silks are firm, with strong market for raw material.

Hamburg was unchanged. American warehouse deliveries last week, 34,418 bags, against 119,720 in the previous week and 70,780 last year. Rio firm at 50 reis advance. Exchange, 11¼d (7-32d decline). Receipts, 7,000 bags. Stock, 287,000. Santos quiet at unchanged prices. Receipts, 16,000 bags. Stock, 457,000. Interior receipts, 14,500 bags. Coffee advanced owing to a report that Santos receipts were retarded by a scarcity of labor and that the yield was disappointing. This caused shorts to cover freely, and prices advanced in the absence of offerings.

Poultry.

Alive—Spring chickens, large, per lb, 18@20c; do, small to medium, 16@17c; fowls, 11c; roosters, 6½c; turkeys, 8c; ducks, average Western, per pair, 70@75c; geese, average Western, $1.00@1.12; pigeons, 15@20c. Metals.

Tin, in local and foreign circles, was depressed today. The supply of that metal continues ample and selling orders were numerous, causing a loss of £10 10s in London, the closing being weak, with spot standing at £128, while futures were quoted at £121 10s. Here a drop of 50 points occurred without any business of consequence noted. A weak undertone, however, prevailed all day, with the close weak at $27.75@28.25. Copper ruled featureless and nominally unchanged here, while in London a lower level was reached, spot closing at £68 11s 3d and futures at £69 1s 3d. Lead was without change here, but in London a loss of 1s 3d occurred, closing spot at £12 8s 9d. Spelter was quiet and steady at old prices. Domestic iron markets ruled inactive, but in buyers' favor. Pig iron warrants, $9.50@10.00; Northern foundry, $14.25@15.50; Southern foundry, $13.75@15.25; and soft Southern, $12.75@15.25. Glasgow warrants closed at 53s 4d, and Middlesboro at 44s 1½d.

NEW POTATO CROP IS SHORT.

Yield Estimated at from 15 to 30 Per Cent Less than Last Year—Prices to Advance.

New potatoes were easy and lower yesterday, owing to liberal receipts. Triumphs from Texas, Arkansas, and other States were in fair demand at 80@85c a bu, while Early Ohios sold well at 75c. These conditions are likely to change and prices advance. Crop reports are that the yield this season will be from 15 to 30 per cent less than last year. While prices now rule abnormally low, there is every indication that they will not continue any length of time. Local stocks are pretty well cleaned up, and but a small number of shipments are reported on the way here. Michigan strawberries were in fairly large receipt and readily sold at 40c to $1.00 for 24 qt cases. The demand is improving. Some Indiana berries came to hand in poor condition, and were unmarketable. A consignment of extra choice juicy Indian River pineapples arrived from Florida and met with favor at $3.50 a box. Lemons are in brisk demand and firm at top quotations. All lines of produce were in large receipt and prices easy. Trade was fairly good. Creamery butter and eggs are firm.

STOCK MARKET IS RAGGED

ONLY MODERATE INTEREST DISPLAYED IN DEALINGS.

Impending July Payments, Settlements, and Readjustments Provoke Cautious Action by Leading Brokers and Traders—Gold from the Klondike Expected to Make Material Impression—New York Traction Shares Lead in the Trading.

[BY A SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT.]

NEW YORK, June 24.—[Special.]—The moderate interest displayed in the stock market today was largely professional and the business transacted indifferently distributed. The movement of prices in the main was irregular, operations for European account being restricted by continued sensitiveness regarding a possible stiffness in money rates in the short interval before July 1 interest and dividend payments are redeposited in the regular banking channels.

On the other hand, operators for a fall realize the risk of extensive commitments on the short side in the face of the forthcoming unprecedentedly large July payments, the resumption of the movement of new gold from the Klondike, the impending considerable reduction in revenue taxes, and last, but not least, the extremely favorable crop conditions and prospects.

The most interesting point in the local monetary situation is the fact that the subtreasury will shortly pay out over $4,000,000 on account of gold received from the Klondike and an equally large sum will be disbursed on July 1 on account of the new 2 per cent bonds and the government 4s of 1907. This makes an aggregate of $8,000,000 or over of new money that will be available for banking purposes in this city.

The local traction stocks as a group were the strongest features of the market. Manhattan Railway was far in the lead of any of the railroad issues in point of activity, and at a reaction of over 2 points from the highest price it left off with a net gain of 1 per cent. Metropolitan Street Railway closed 1¼ per cent higher, a recession of as much from the best figure, while Brooklyn Rapid Transit, which came next to Manhattan in volume of dealings, lost all of an early improvement of 1⅛ per cent, closing unchanged from Saturday. The movements in the stocks mentioned were unattended by any news, but the rumors of a lease of the Manhattan by the Metropolitan were again current. Illinois Central was a strong feature and retained 2½ per cent of an extreme rise of 3½ points, as compared with the final figure on Saturday. No news was forthcoming to account for the strength of the stock, and the buying was attributed simply to comparisons made by investors of the intrinsic merits of the property and its selling price, with those of other railway stocks.

Union Pacific and St. Paul were only moderately active, and on what appeared to be a continuation of the moderate pressure that was evident on Saturday, ended 1¼ and ⅝ per cent lower respectively. New York Central and C. C. C. & St. L., on moderate transaction, closed nearly a point higher, and Central of New Jersey scored a net improvement of 1 per cent on nominal dealings. In the less active issues, Minneapolis, St. Paul, and Sault Ste. Marie preferred and common recorded net gains of 6 and 1 per cent respectively. Iowa Central preferred finished 2⅝ higher, while the common closed at a net loss of 1½ points. St. Joseph and Grand Island first preferred at the highest price of the day left off 1⅝ per cent to the good on sales of a few hundred shares, and Twin City Rapid Transit rose nearly a point, also on light business.

In the industrial group, United States Steel shares received more attention than for some time past on more sanguine expectations regarding the prospect of a dividend on the common stock, and they closed strong at fractional net improvements. Sugar Refining was also active, the transactions aggregating approximately 4,000 shares. The stock, with a single exception, displayed greater irregularity than any other, and, after early weakness on reports of cutting of sugar prices, rallied 2½ per cent. At a reaction of 1¼ points it closed at 1⅝ per cent higher. The strength of the stock late in the day was due to advices from lower Wall street that favorable significance really attached to the fact that, after irregularity in the price of fine granulated sugar, ever since June 1, the various leading interests today made a common price of 5.45c. This was thought to indicate a partial reëstablishment of harmony.

Colorado Fuel and Iron moved within a wide range and closed a point higher, while Tobacco lost 1½ and Continental common 1 per cent. General Electric gained 6 points. The railway bond market was firm on moderate transactions. Wabash debenture Bs were about the only exception in closing nearly a point lower.

General Tendency of Cash, Bonds, Railway Shares, and Securities in Wall Street.

NEW YORK, June 24.—The stock market maintained its waiting attitude today. There is a sort of tacit agreement generally adhered to among the larger operators that this waiting period shall extend at least to the end of the month and until the money requirements of the half year's end are out of the way. The consequence is that the attendance of members in the boardroom is small, and many brokers have gone away on vacations to the country or to Europe. The smaller class of room traders, who operate from day to day, were disposed to sell the market this morning on the disappointing showing made by the Saturday bank statement. The money market failed to reflect any constriction of supply, such as was indicated by the bank statement, and money on call loaned as low as 3¼ per cent. Sterling exchange eased off a bit, but hovers within measurable distance of the gold export point, and the continued depression of the sterling exchange rate at Berlin indicates that that center is still heavily liquidating its holdings of American securities. The market closed semi-stagnant and with the inertness of prices fully maintained.

Business in railroad bonds was also of moderate proportions and prices moved narrowly either way. Total sales, par value, $2,190,000.

Money on call steady at 3¼@4½ per cent; last loan, 3½; ruling rate, 4. Prime mercantile paper, 3¾@4½ per cent. Sterling exchange easier, with actual business in bankers' bills at 487⅞@800 for demand and at 485¼ for 60-day bills. Posted rates, 486½ and 489. Commercial bills, 484⅝@485¾. Silver certificates, nominally 60. Bar silver, 59⅝. Mexican dollars, 47½.

IN THE BOSTON MONEY MARKET.

General Tendency of Cash, Bonds, Mining Shares, and Other Securities at the Hub.

Boston, Mass., June 24.—[Special.]—The local market today was of a somewhat streaky character. Prices of the copper stocks were in the main soft and the tendency was downward in many instances. This was due largely to the taking of profits. One of the incidents of the day was striking off the list of Boston and Montana and Butte and Boston, trading in these issues having ceased. Amalgamated was barely steady, holding, however, within a fraction of 124. Baltic was relatively firmer, selling up at one time to 53, later easing off below 52. Centennial was a feature of activity. Centennial, Mohawk, United States Mining, and Massachusetts made fractional declines. In the afternoon fairly spirited buying caused an advance in Adventure, which carried the price up nearly 2 per cent to 20⅜. Isle Royale and Tamarack were both strong. Trinity eased off to 39 at one time. The Whitney stocks were heavy. American Telephone held firm. Sugar was the arbitrage feature, with an advance of 2 per cent to its credit.

Call loans, 3½@4 per cent. Time loans, collateral, 3½@4 per cent. Time loans, mercantile paper, 3¾@4½ per cent. Clearing-house loans, 2 per cent.

IN FOREIGN MONEY MARKETS.

General Tendency of Cash, Bonds, Stocks, and Other Securities in London, Paris, and Berlin.

NEW YORK, June 24.—Commercial Advertiser's London financial cablegram: Stock Exchange brokers today were discussing holidays instead of transacting business, with the result that trading was well-nigh dormant. As there was no business to transact—or at least no inclination to transact it—members larked like schoolboys. It was a blank day for American shares with the rest, although New York dealers made a slight inquiry for Illinois Central and U. S. Steel corporation. The rest of the list sagged.

The Bank of England has bought £20,000 gold in bars in Australia. Paris exchange is 25.20½; Berlin unchanged.

DAVID R. FORGAN

David R. Forgan, Vice President of the First National Bank, has become in a few years one of the most prominent and able financiers in Chicago. He and James B. Forgan, President of the bank, are among the few instances of brothers who are associated in the management of large public banking institutions.

Mr. Forgan was born in 1862 in St. Andrews, Scotland, and at the age of 15 years entered the Clydesdale Bank at St. Andrews. Four years later Mr. Forgan went to the Bank of Nova Scotia. He remained there ten years, the last five of which were spent as manager of the bank's office at Frederickton, New Brunswick. Mr. Forgan went West then, and obtained the position of assistant cashier of the American Exchange Bank at Duluth, Minn. After a year there he was called to succeed James B. Forgan as cashier of the Northwestern National Bank at Minneapolis, when the latter came to the First National of Chicago. In 1894, or four years afterwards, Mr. Forgan was asked to come to Chicago to take the management of the Union National Bank as Vice President. In two years he was elected President, taking that position in January, 1898. While in charge of the Union National Mr. Forgan developed its business steadily and successfully. Last fall the bank was merged with the First National, and Mr. Forgan has been Vice President of the First National since the amalgamation took place.

The chief amusement Mr. Forgan enjoys is golf playing, in which he is expert. He was the first Western amateur champion, securing that title in 1899, and holds now the playing record of the Onwentsia Golf club at Lake Forest.

TRACTION STOCK ACTIVE.

COMMON SHOWS LARGEST TRADING ON LOCAL EXCHANGE.

Negotiations for Absorption of Shelby Steel Tube Company by United States Steel Corporation Reported Settled—Autumn Demand for Money in the United States—Brooklyn Rapid Transit May Report—Railroad Earnings—Other Financial Topics.

Trading on the Chicago Stock Exchange yesterday was largest in Union Traction common, which sold up to 20 and held there at the close. The buying was of the same character that has kept the stock active for so long a time. The desire seems to be to keep the issue at its present level. With the large volume of trading which has taken place in the stock the price has hardly varied except between 19 and 20.

The second annual statement of the traction company, due next month, will be awaited with much interest. During the latter part of the fiscal year the company has been exceeding its earnings for the corresponding period last year, but for a long time the competition of the Northwestern Elevated kept traffic below the figures of the previous year. The gains in the last two months will go a little way toward offsetting the losses of the first part of the year. The company is, however, a long distance from the resumption of dividends on its preferred stock. There is every probability that it will not pay dividends again until after the franchise matter is settled.

Report Shelby Tube Deal Closed.

It is reported from New York that negotiations are about completed for the absorption of the Shelby Steel Tube company by the United States Steel corporation. Some activity was shown in Shelby common on the local exchange at 11½ and at 12. The deal for the sale of the Shelby company to the steel combination has been under way for some time. No statement as to the prices at which stocks will go in has been made, but the present market quotations are supposed to be about the figures. According to the plan of absorption, the Shelby company will be taken over by the National Tube company, of which it is in a degree a competitor. Chicago people are largely interested in the Shelby company.

American Car stocks were off a little, the common selling down to 27⅞ and the preferred at 76⅞. Diamond Match was firmer at 147 after reaching 148.

Autumn Demand for Money.

The London Statist calls attention to the large demand for money which is likely to arise in the United States in the autumn. It says:

"Unless the weather during the next couple of months proves altogether unfavorable, it seems certain that the United States will be able to export an immense quantity of wheat to Europe. And, of course, Europe will want all the other foods and raw materials which she usually obtains from the United States. Supposing that the crops are not bad, it seems a reasonable anticipation, therefore, to make that trade is likely to get a new impetus from the demand for wheat for Europe. The railway companies will carry increased quantities of goods. Merchants will do a larger business. And the farmers will receive larger profits. The result ought to be increased business in all the towns and an extraordinary stimulus to enterprise of every kind.

"If that proves to be the case there may be an exceptional demand for money in the United States. The moving of the crops always does cause some degree of stringency towards the end of August, and throughout September and the first week of October. If the crops are large this year and the European demand strong, there will be eagerness to get the crops to market as quickly as possible. And that will lead to a great outflow of money from New York to the interior. On the other hand, the knowledge that the crops are good and that the European demand is strong will lead everybody to expect that the railway companies will do better than ever, and consequently there is likely to be a stimulus given to speculation as well as to investment. It may be said that prices are high enough already. Granted; but that does not alter the fact that people usually assume, when a particular industry is about to become exceptionally active, that a further rise in prices is justified. If there are higher prices on the Stock Exchange, higher prices for produce, larger profits made by the farmers, more dealings by the agricultural classes with the towns, it seems safe to conclude that wages likewise will advance.

"And, therefore, it seems a not unreasonable conclusion that the volume of money that will be needed in the autumn to conduct the vast business which seems likely will be beyond comparison greater than it has ever been before. No doubt it is true that the United States raises a large quantity of gold, and that it likewise receives the gold from the Yukon and other Canadian districts. On the other hand, there is little creation of new notes now, and therefore the addition to the currency will be almost restricted to the increased output of the mines."

The local money market continues dull, although the banks remain well loaned up. The tendency to firmness in New York over the interest and dividend disbursements of July 1 has had little effect here. Some of the large corporations have sent money from Chicago to New York in preparation for the payments. Bankers, however, express confidence that the money market will not change this summer. Rates are easy on stock collateral and commercial paper. The bank statement on Saturday, it is expected, will be a poor one. The government disbursements on July 1 are on the new 2 per cent bonds and the 4s of 1907 and aggregate over $4,000,000.

Receipts for June 25 are estimated at 8,500 cattle, 21,000 hogs, and 16,000 sheep, against 8,103 cattle, 19,709 hogs, and 15,950 sheep Tuesday of last week.

Packers purchased 26,200 hogs and shippers 7,000, leaving 5,000 in the pens. Droves averaging 154@163 lbs cost $5.90, and 233@274 lbs, $6.03@6.11. Armour bought 8,300; Anglo-American, 3,200; Boyd & Lunham, 900; Continental, 1,400; Hammond, 1,200; Lipton, 900; Morris, 2,500; Swift, 6,800, and butchers, 1,000.

Chicago sold cattle 50c higher than Kansas City, 90c higher than St. Louis, and 65c higher than Omaha. As a matter of fact, Chicago is the only market in the country for fat cattle.

Eleven markets received 82,000 hogs, against 93,000 a week ago, 95,000 a year ago, and 101,000 two years ago.

The Drovers' Journal cablegram from Liverpool quotes the British market slow and lower, with American cattle at 11½@12½c, against 11¾@12¾c last week and 12¾@13c a year ago. Sheep were quoted at 13¾c, same as a week ago.

Cattle—The better grades of cattle met with a good demand at steady prices, while other cattle ruled weak to 10c lower. Receipts were large, but the demand from all sources was good and comparatively few were carried over. The corresponding Monday a year ago 20,797 arrived, being the largest receipts during June, 1900. The quality of yesterday's offerings was only fair. Three loads averaging 1,503@1,584 lbs sold at $6.30, with some averaging 1,402 lbs at $6.25. A good many sold at $6.15, including three loads of 1,310-lb Dakota fed steers. Most of the beef cattle sold at $5.15@5.80, with 1,409-lb stillers at $5.80, and a good many fed Westerns at $5.60@5.80. Few beef cattle sold below $5.00, with a bunch of 144 Iowa-fed Texas, averaging 1,051 lbs, at $5.00. About 1,500 straight Texas sold steady at $4.00@5.15 for steers and $3.25@3.75 for cows and heifers. Native butcher stock ruled steady, and stockers and feeders ruled firm. Four loads of distillery bulls sold at $4.45@4.60. Veal calves sold at $5.00@6.25. Cows sold at $1.75@4.50; heifers, $2.75@5.25; bulls, $2.75@4.60; and stags, $4.50@5.25.

Hogs—Prices advanced 2½@5c. The market opened strong, but closed rather easy. Trade was active most of the time, but packers "backed up" late in the day and left 5,000 in the pens. Receipts were fully up to general expectations, yet 5,000 smaller than a year ago and 10,000 smaller than two years ago. The quality was considerably improved, there being more good 260@320-lb averages among the arrivals. One fancy load averaging 314 lbs sold at $6.25, with $6.20 the next highest for 308@337-lb averages. Some 192-lb butchers' sold at $6.07½. Few sold below $6.00. Quotations follow:

ASSESSED VALUATION TO RISE.

Board of Assessors Expects an Advance of $380,000,000 Over Figures of Last Year.

An increase of $76,000,000 in the assessed valuation of Cook County's real estate and personal property, meaning an advance of $380,000,000 in the total "full valuation," is expected by members of the Board of Assessors when the assessment now being levied on personalty is completed next week and the realty values of last year have been revised. This increase, if secured, means a total assessed valuation of Cook County's property of $400,000,000 instead of the $324,354,537 returned last year—an aggregate "full valuation" of $2,000,000,000 instead of last year's round $1,620,000,000.

Much of this expected increase is due to the fact that the number of assessments entered this year have exceeded last year's total by from 20,000 to 25,000. During 1900 50,880 names were placed on the tax rolls. This year the total will be between 70,000 and 75,000 names. In the West Town alone there will be 10,116 taxpayers, as against 7,348 last year. In Hyde Park the increase is expected to run from 4,000 to 4,500. In Lake View and other districts a proportionate increase is looked for. Evanston's returns, already totaled, show no great gains, there being 2,033 names on the tax rolls, as against 2,002 in 1900.

"This year citizens who scheduled personal property of an assessed valuation of $350 were put on the tax books," said a member of the Board of Assessors. "Last year those we scheduled below $500 were not listed as taxpayers. Then we expect that the taxation of property owned by churches and schools, but not used for religious or educational purposes, will bring an increase in assessed values of about $25,000,000."

Whether Cook County's total assessed valuation of property will remain at $400,000,000, even if that aggregate is shown on the Assessors' books, will depend on the action of the Board of Review. Last year the Assessors returned a total assessed valuation on personal property of $73,329,498, but this was cut by the reviewers to $54,698,103. The Assessors' assessed valuation on realty footed $251,025,039, but this was reduced by the Board of Review to $203,857,649, the Assessors' total assessed valuation on realty and personalty being cut from $324,354,537 to $258,555,752.

Today the Assessors will forward the books for the West Town to the Board of Review. All books will be turned over to the latter body before July 10, the time required by law. The reviewers expect to begin their work of revision on July 8.

TRIAL FOR OLD MERIT BOARD.

Former Members of County Civil Service Commission May Be Called Before Judge Tuley Today.

Former members of the County Civil Service board charged by the grand jury with violating the civil service act, probably will be put on trial today. The defendants are James D. Morrison, George D. Lovejoy, and Walter A. Lantz. The cases are on Judge Tuley's call, and the State's Attorney says they will be tried at once. The defendants are accused of certifying employés to positions without "public competitive and open examinations." The charges on which indictments were based were preferred by the Citizens' association and the Civil Service Reform league. The voting of the bills by the jury was followed by the resignation of the commissioners and the reorganization of the board. The charge is a misdemeanor, punishable by a fine ranging from $50 to $1,000 and by imprisonment in the county jail not more than six months, or by both fine and imprisonment.

Of course Manhattan Island is a "pent-up Utica" in comparison with Chicago, and yet some very bright people come from there, and THAT'S WHY they come from there. They don't dress hogs, but they do know how to dress themselves. Hence Rogers, Peet & Co. sell them some millions of dollars' worth of clothes every year. Chicago, never slow, is catching on and is buying from us largely of this same excellent make of goods. 1900 was the biggest sales year we ever had and this year is going ahead of 1900.

"Ike" Rosen's License Revoked.

Acting on the personal recommendation of Chief O'Neill, and overruling the protest of the distinguished Aldermen from the First Ward, Mayor Harrison has revoked the saloon license of "Ike" Rosen, whose place has been for some time one of the ornaments of "Whisky row," on the levee. Following, as this does, similar action in the case of the notorious Tuckhorn, Mayor Harrison's action is encouraging. It would seem to indicate both that Chief O'Neill is in earnest in his expressed determination to keep the "levee" in order, and, what is even more to the point, that Mayor Harrison is determined to back up the efforts of the Chief. Rosen, it will be remembered, is the First Ward divekeeper the revocation of whose license was recommended some weeks ago, but who was saved at that time, it is declared, by Aldermanic influence. Since then, however, Chief O'Neill has looked into the case himself, and the Mayor has had the courage to defy Rosen's official friends. If similar prompt action is taken in a few more cases of the kind it may be expected that the denizens of the "levee" will learn that they must at least preserve outward decency, and must refuse to allow their places to be made traps for the unwary and hiding places for criminals. When that has been accomplished a great step in the direction of practical and permanent reform will have been taken.

Opportunities in Cosmopolitan Chicago.

On Sunday over 10,000 Swedish citizens of Chicago gathered in the woods to celebrate with Swedish folk songs and Swedish dances the annual midsummer festival, which is one of the great events of the year in their fatherland. A pretty young Swedish girl was chosen queen of the fest and was crowned with wild flowers, while other Swedish young women, wearing the picturesque national costume, gathered about her as maids of honor. Yesterday the French-Canadians of the city celebrated with a street procession and with religious services the feast day of St. John the Baptist, the patron saint of their people. In the procession marched a little lad wrapped in a goatskin and wearing "a leather girdle about his loins," with the shepherd's crook in his hands. Almost every day during the warm months some one of the many nationalities which make up the cosmopolitan citizenship of Chicago celebrates one of its national festivals or holidays. In the course of a year the curious or interested man might see, without ever leaving the vicinity of the city, most of the peculiar and picturesque national fêtes which the globe-trotter travels far to gaze upon. At the expenditure of one-tenth the time and money, it is possible for a resident of Chicago to study more thoroughly and more completely the national customs of three-quarters of the world. But few people take advantage of their oportunities in this direction. They will travel to Europe and spend several days to look at a folk festival, while balking at the idea of going out a few miles into the country, or from one section of the city to another, to see the same thing. The opportunities for foreign travel within the city limits of Chicago have yet to be appreciated.

THE WEST VIRGINIA FLOOD.

Probably several days must elapse before it will be possible to know with any definiteness how many lives were lost in the Elkhorn Valley flood in West Virginia, but it seems certain that the fatalities exceed sixty, while they may reach two or three times that number. The property loss also will reach half a million dollars. The inaccessible nature of this mountain region and the destruction of the meager telegraph and railway connections make it difficult to learn the facts. The mixed nature of the mining population may render it impossible ever to learn exactly how many people were drowned.

While the Johnstown disaster caused a much greater loss of life, the details were soon known and published. In many respects the two floods are similar. Though not caused by the bursting of a reservoir, the Elkhorn Valley flood seems to have been almost equally difficult to escape. It was the result of a cloudburst following upon a prolonged and heavy rainfall. It was one of those inevitable disasters which no man can foresee or guard against. The inhabitants of Galveston had more chance to predict the tidal wave that ingulfed them than these isolated dwellers had to expect that their villages were to be swept away. The valley is peculiar in that it has a large watershed area with an extremely narrow outlet, but nobody could foresee the coming of the enormous mass of water that rushed through these gorges on Sunday morning, leaving death and destruction in its wake.

The loss, suffering, and bereavement caused by this accident call for universal regret and sympathy. The property loss is deplorable because so large a proportion of it represents the humble cabins of miners who had no other worldly possessions. When the details of the catastrophe become more definitely known there undoubtedly will be an opportunity for extending practical aid to the sufferers. Fortunately appeals of this kind are never made in vain to the people of the United States.

SPIRIT OF RELIGION IN CHICAGO.

It is possible to say something in reply to the charge that at the present moment Chicagoans have no ambition and no interest but business success. The cursory observer sees, of course, the more striking manifestations of ferocious energy. The Stock-Yards, the Board of Trade, and the lunch counters attract his curiosity and determine the character of the subsequent book or essay. He neglects to acquaint himself with the quieter but no less significant features of urban life. There are certain places in the city that might effect a complete change in his attitude.

For instance, it might open his eyes if he were to go down to the Studebaker on Sunday morning and take a look at the audience that has assembled to hear Dr. Gunsaulus preach. If the visitor arrives a few minutes late he will be unable to get a seat. And the audience is not only large but it is in earnest. Getting down-town on Sunday morning is no such delightful excursion as to attract the pleasure-seeker. Moreover, the sermon will be long. But the audience never seems to be distressed. It is not only patient but keenly attentive. It has felt the need of spiritual as well as material life. No one can be present without seeing that Chicagoans feel themselves concerned in other things beside business.

Another place that might be suggested is the Church of St. Stanislaus, on Noble street, in the Polish district. The service here is quite different from that in the Studebaker. But the earnestness is the same. Perhaps there is more of the spirit of reverence. The church is immense, but every Sunday morning it is full to the doors, and men and women who have been unable to get in are kneeling on the front steps repeating the responses or reading in their prayer books. The intense concentration of mind which is apparent in the worshipers is likely to communicate itself to the observer, and he will find himself swept against his will into the full tide of worship.

These two homes of the religious life of Chicago have been mentioned only because they are so far apart that almost everything else can be included between them. There are many other churches in Chicago that display the same devotion and illustrate the same truth. They seem to show that even at the present time Chicago is not without a fervent religious life, and they form a most auspicious omen of the conditions that will exist when the city shall have passed from the haste and thoughtlessness of youth to the more settled habits of middle age.

THERE IS A MIDDLE PATH.

Senator Burrows said recently that "if the Dingley rates were removed from the products of the steel trust that concern, gigantic as it is, would sooner or later go to the wall, because it could not survive against the competition of the world." The first thing it would be forced to do, said the Senator, "would be to cut the wages of all employés," and it would have to do this, not once, but many times, with consequent labor strikes and disturbances.

The Senator may not be so well informed of the ability of the steel trust to withstand competition without protective duties as are some of the men prominent in that concern. They have said that there are some of its products where labor is an unimportant element of cost, which need no protection whatever, but that there are other products which do need it. Whether duties lower than those imposed now will not answer the purpose these steel and iron men have not stated.

One would conclude from Senator Burrows' remarks that he sees no middle path between letting the iron and steel schedule of the Dingley law remain unaltered and repealing it altogether. There is such a middle path. The men interested in the metal industries admit as much. Then why not follow that path? It is the lowering of unnecessarily high duties. In the past iron and steel duties have not been looked on by the Republican party as a finality. It has lowered them from time to time. Some of those now in force are lower than the duties of the law of 1890.

There were industrial changes between 1890 and 1897 which made a lowering of some duties manifestly safe. There have been changes since 1897 which make further reductions not only safe but expedient. The retention of a duty higher than is necessary to fulfill what Senator Burrows calls "the elemental principle of American protection, which is the protection of American labor and the guaranteeing to it of steady employment," is both an economic and a political mistake.

Some manufacturers who have more protection than it is desirable they should have are insisting that there shall be no "tampering with the Dingley law," as if it were the embodiment of tariff wisdom for all time to come. There are Congressmen who appear to agree with these manufacturers, or who know and dread the difficulties which always arise when an effort is made to revise and amend a tariff law. Nevertheless, it will not be an easy matter to put this question on one side when Congress meets. There is no longer that unanimity among manufacturers which used to exist, and which made the lowering of high duties on any product so hard a task.

MISS ANTHONY AND THE "COEDS."

Miss Susan B. Anthony appears to be stirred up to a needless degree over the recent action of Armour Institute in abolishing its courses for women and of Northwestern University in suggesting that the number of its women students be restricted. These things scarcely warrant her conclusion that an attempt is being made in Chicago to belittle the ability of women along educational lines. In neither institution have the authorities raised any question as to the ability of the feminine students, nor is there any sign of the "bitter enmity to coeds" of which Miss Anthony is said to complain.

The exclusion of women from Armour Institute is understood to be the result solely of a determination to concentrate the forces of the school upon certain important branches in which women thus far have shown no interest, such as electrical and mechanical engineering. The Armour authorities have not implied, as Miss Anthony thinks they have, that "there are technical subjects too deep for girls to handle." Undoubtedly many bright girls could pass with honor in such courses, but thus far they have shown neither the taste nor the aptitude for such work, nor is it clear that they would be fitted physically to pursue the profession of electrical or mechanical engineer if they were to go through the mental preparation for such work.

"Contemptible" is the word Miss Anthony is said to apply to the attitude of the Northwestern authorities toward the "coeds." She says the truth is that the young men spend more than half their time at athletics, while the girls attend to their studies, with the result that the girls come out ahead in the examinations and the boys are "both ashamed and jealous at their seeming inferiority." Miss Anthony will not say that the boys are less bright than the girls, which is a rather generous concession on her part, but she believes the boys are falling behind and are bent on excluding the girls for this reason. Here again she is in error as to motive. Anybody who has seen the inside of college life at Evanston will smile over the charge of enmity between the two sexes. The feeling is only too strongly of the opposite kind.

The difficulty is that there is an increasing drift of young men toward technical schools, while there is an increasing drift of young women to colleges of liberal arts. This tends to make the women in the majority at coeducational colleges, and when the feminine influence begins to predominate it is likely to drive away boys of the more robust tastes and end by making the institution practically a woman's college.

WHY GAMBLING IS WRONG.

Despite the Mayor's assurance to the contrary, the bookmakers were openly busy at the Derby. The betting, however, which characterizes this annual event—and, indeed, all races—is only a further evidence of human propensities whose assertiveness is evidenced in a thousand other ways, and whose existence is confined neither to citizen, savage, nor particular epoch. Are these propensities virtuous or vicious? Is betting essentially wrong, and if so on what ground?

The final and prevailing charge against betting is apt to be that it results in one person's getting something for nothing. That this answer is usually accepted as sufficient, however, is due to our commercialized view of human relations—our notion that every transfer of resources must be on a basis of "quid pro quo." For in real fact both our higher social institutions and our religious doctrines exemplify and enjoin precisely the opposite idea. The child throughout babyhood and education is continuously receiving something for nothing. The most applauded gifts in every grade of society transcend the quid pro quo idea. It is the basic doctrine of current religion that its priceless benefits are to be had "without money and without price."

The case against gambling, to be successful, must be rested ultimately upon the broad theory that the possession of wealth imposes the duty of administering it in a rational manner—and hence forbids its being voluntarily hazarded upon an issue of chance. In a simple wager the stake goes to one party or the other, irrespective of any ground or reason. Its destiny, and hence its subsequent disposition in society, are determined by mere chance. Such treatment of wealth—of the products of human labor—is irrational and hence in the literal sense inhuman.

A story is told of a man who, years ago, was coming north on a Mississippi River boat with a young female slave, who had reason to believe that he was about to set her free. One night, while gambling, he staked this slave, lost—and she leaped overboard to her death. The event dramatized the essence of gambling. The life and fortunes of this slave were left to chance—to a throw of the dice—instead of being directed by intelligence and judgment.

No person responsible for another person, or for human life coined into commodities or dollars, has a right to commit the destiny of either to a throw of chance. It is because gambling pure and simple violates this principle that it is wrong. And in so far as any wagers or "gambling transactions"—although they may also involve the exercise of discretion and judgment—purposely rest upon chance, or upon uncertainty which to the parties is equivalent to chance, they violate that duty of responsible "stewardship" over wealth by its possessors which society has a right to insist upon, and whose voluntary recognition it is to be hoped is spreading in society.

THE BOSTON DECADENTS.

It is always wise to discount the unfavorable criticisms of a city or its people made by visitors. There must be a liberal allowance for what scientific gentlemen call the personal error of the observer. Therefore, when a recent visitor to Boston says its schoolhouses are the dirtiest he has ever seen it may be that he has seen so few that his opinion is of no value. When another visitor says that the Boston Museum of Fine Arts is "the nastiest art gallery in the world" it may be that he is one of the unhappy persons to whom objects are nasty which are beautiful to the majority.

But when the critics are residents instead of visitors, then their criticisms are presumably correct. It is not an agreeable task to expose domestic shortcomings, and only a high sense of duty will drive a member of the family to do it. As it is a Boston paper which angrily denounces a bad "social custom" which exists in that city, there must be such a custom. The Boston Journal says:

> What kind of a social custom is this of new and ugly growth that tolerates the dropping of young girls, in ball costume and unprotected, at 2 or 3 o'clock in the morning, into the coarse company of a night car and the perilous solitude of suburban streets and roads? What stamp of dull indifference is upon the fathers and mothers who sleep while their daughters are abroad in such surroundings? Who are those unspeakable cads, passing for young gentlemen, who will take a respectable girl from her home, spend the night with her in lawful pleasures, and then, to save himself a half-hour's ride in a car, will bundle her back without companionship or protection? Their fathers would have walked till they dropped in the ditch rather than so disgrace themselves and insult the girls of their choice.

These, indeed, painful revelations. They shake the inherited faith in Boston "culture." The young man of Boston not only allows the young woman to go home alone but also fails, no doubt, to hand the conductor the money for her fare. Economy is a virtue in its place, but this Bostonian economy in time and money, while it may meet with the approval of that distinguished economist, Mr. Russell Sage, will not be sympathized with by the young men of Chicago. They not only take their ball partners home, though it may be miles out of their way, but they often stand so long conversing on the doorstep as to miss the last car.

A city may thrive in spite of dirty schoolhouses. Dirt and intellect may dwell together. The surroundings of Shakspeare were not so clean as modern notions demand. But a city whose young men are impolite, not to say boorish, is doomed to inevitable though perhaps slow decay. It may be, of course, that the young women of Boston are not so good looking as those of some other cities. They may be more angular than the stone ladies in the art museum. It is pleasanter to go home with a handsome than with a homely girl, but courtesy cannot discriminate. The ugly and the pretty should be treated alike.

There are doubtless many things in Boston which need reforming. Josiah Flynt thinks so. But the reformation of the young men of that city is the first matter to be taken in hand. The Boston Journal has enlisted in a noble cause.

BOERS AND BRITONS AS FIGHTERS.

Captain Reichmann and Captain Slocum, the military attachés sent by the United States government to observe the operations on the Boer and the British sides respectively, have both made official reports which carry more weight than the views of newspaper correspondents. Captain Reichmann praises the Boers as men, but criticises them adversely in many respects as soldiers. He says the foreigners in the Boer army, though comparatively few, were the aggressive element in it. He intimates, however, that defeat was inevitable in any case because of the overwhelming superiority of the British in men, money, and warlike materials.

Lack of discipline was the greatest source of military weakness on the part of the burghers. Captain Reichmann says that "the degree to which inferior officers carried their self-will is inconceivable." The higher positions were monopolized by a few families of political leaders. When a proposed movement did not suit a private or a subordinate officer he simply did not move. Many a well-planned affair was ruined by this lack of discipline. The defect in organization was of the same nature as that seen among the American troops at the beginning of the revolutionary war, and, to a smaller degree, among the volunteers at the beginning of the civil war. It was the natural result of a life of freedom in which men had had no opportunity to learn the importance of obeying orders.

During a stay of seven months Captain Reichmann saw no drunkenness and heard no profanity in the Boer camps—a record hardly to be duplicated in any American camp during war or peace. The burghers read their Bibles and hymn books after the day's fighting or marching, and their religious sentiment controlled them at all times. They were horrified at the slaughter of the enemy almost as much as they were grieved by their own losses. They never failed to treat British wounded or prisoners humanely. The military attaché remarks that if there was any violation of the rules of war it was not confined to one side.

On the British side Captain Slocum found the most perfect discipline, coupled with a staying power which the Boers lacked and with courage which he criticises as reckless. He speaks especially of the reluctance of the British soldiers to intrench themselves and the neglect of the officers to enforce this vital precaution. The Boers owe many of their successes to the fact that they intrenched themselves at every opportunity, rendering themselves invisible, while the British owe many of their defeats to the fact that they fought in the open or behind a little parapet of stones which merely served as a target and was a source of death in itself. They rarely would dig a trench. Captain Slocum says the universal disregard of ordinary precautions was astonishing. Our own armies betrayed this fault at the beginning of the civil war, but they soon learned the value of intrenchments. The British in south Africa do not seem to have learned it in nearly two years of fighting.

HOWEVER, the city is saving a great many hundreds of dollars a day by not having to remove snow from the streets.

AMONG those persons who bet on the wrong horse last Saturday the thirst yesterday must have been terrible.

THE mercury ran up to 90 or thereabout yesterday, and Chief Swenie had no difficulty in making that hot finish everybody has been talking about.

BUT the Czar of Russia probably has not the faintest idea of the trouble he will have when all those daughters have grown older.

PERHAPS it is merely the ordinary humidity of the atmosphere of New York City that ails the horses there.

THE man near Santa Barbara, Cal., who is cultivating a "turtle farm" is taking considerable risk. His farm itself may turn turtle on him.

IN A MINOR KEY.

Familiar Example.

"This verse," said the Sunday school teacher, "says to him that hath shall be given.' You must have noticed many instances of the operation of this principle. Will you mention one?"

"Yes'm," said one of the little girls. "When you've got a sore eye all the bugs and things fly into it."

Could Testify Otherwise.

"It's all a lie," the tomcat howled,
As he quickly ran to cover,
While the missiles all around him flew,
"That the world adores a lover!"

Unable to Differentiate.

Visitor (in Boston)—"He seems to be a distinguished foreigner. Is he a Japanese or a Chinaman?"

Native Citizen—"I do not know. Individuals of the Mongolian race all present the same external aspect to me."

Job That Required Time.

"Don't move the men," said the justice of the peace, rising from the checker board. "I have to step into my office and marry a couple, but I shall be back in five minutes."

At the end of an hour he had not returned. A messenger was sent for him. He was found in a high state of perspiration, with his coat off, his necktie awry, and his collar wilted and forlorn, trying to marry two couples bearing these names:

Wladislaw Katzarzynzynkowski, Jozevinska Dobrzwitkiwicz, Stanislaus Bjordrazekoniatowski, Katarazinska Berkawitztzwzw.

The Dray Horse and the Racer.

"All that hinders me from being as fleet as you," the dray horse said to the racing horse, "is this long hair on my fetlocks. It impedes my motions. If I could have it cut off I would run against you, best three in five."

"All right," replied the racer. "I will remove that long hair for you, and we will have a go."

So he gnawed the dray horse's fetlocks free from the long hair, and the two ran a race, with the result that the dray horse was ignominiously beaten.

But the racer jeered and laughed at him so scornfully that the dray horse kicked him to death.

You can't always tell how an instructive little incident is going to turn out.

Her Great Disappointment.

"I had such a disappointment last night!" said Kitty at the breakfast table.

"What was it?" they asked her.

"I dreamed I was papa, and I was about to have such a good time smoking my pipe, and then I woke up and found I was still Kitty and had to be proper."

Nothing Like Accuracy.

First Clubman—"Woggles, I want you to decide a bet. Higginside says the quotation, 'hell hath no fury like a woman scorned,' is from the book of Psalms, and I say it's from Job. We've put up $5 on it and agreed to leave it to you."

Second Clubman—"I think you're both wrong. I know it's in the Bible, but my impression is that you'll find it in the Proverbs of Solomon."

The Obvious Remedy.

"If there is such a thing as a towel trust," roared the shaggy-haired boarder, "it ought to be crushed!"

"Wouldn't it be better," suggested the dyspeptic boarder, "to wipe it out?"

A LINE-O'-TYPE OR TWO.

OUR country, says President Schurman, is intellectually weak. It is only Mr. Schurman's continued effort to maintain a decent average that prevents us from being utterly hopeless.

HON. VIC SMITH of the New York Press thinks men will some time wear corsets. It gives one a straight front, making it possible to drink a glass of beer without spilling part of it on one's vest. If Vic can't drink a glass of beer without beslobbering his weskit he should use a straw. The difficulty is to put up a straight front after getting away with a quarter-keg, and a corset would hardly mend matters.

LATEST NEWS FROM THE AGRICULTURAL DEPARTMENT.

Washington, D. C., June 24.—[Special.]—The expert agrostologists of the Department of Agriculture are cross-breeding corn and wheat for the purpose of securing a new variety of breakfast biscuit. Those now in the market taste like excelsior, and for people that like excelsior they are a very satisfactory substitute. The department believes, however, that by crossing the wheat with corn something like shredded johnnycake will result, and as all the world loves a johnnycake, especially when it is shredded, the department is urging on the farmers the great importance of selecting only the best stock for cross-breeding purposes. Secretary Wilson has personally interested himself in this matter.

The department also has in view a new variety of zwelback, and is building kilns for experimenting purposes. The public has but a faint idea of the amount of government money spent by the Agricultural department. The motto of the department, modeled on that of the traveler to Brobdingnag, is that whoever can make two pieces of zwelback grow where only one grew before, deserves better of mankind, and does more essential service to his country, than the whole race of politicians put together.

Troubles of Bird Housekeeping

IF the average small boy knew what a hard time birds have to rear their families under the best conditions he would hesitate to disturb their nests, even if there was no law to threaten him with punishment if he does so.

There was a patient pair of robins, for instance, who built their first nest more than six weeks ago in a low apple tree in the orchard. Presently there were two blue eggs in the nest. Then came the first catastrophe. Next morning the nest was empty. On the ground under the tree lay one of the eggs with two holes picked in its shell. The other was entirely missing. That was the work of a big, sneaking bluejay, if one may judge by the fact that the same afternoon the robins were seen chasing a scolding jay about the orchard and that the picture of the jay has long been in the birds' rogue gallery.

Immediately after the destruction of their eggs the robins set about building a second nest on another limb of the same tree. They got so far as to have three blue eggs in this prospective cradle when a red squirrel came down one afternoon from the oaks adjoining the orchard and made a robins' egg omelet of what he found there.

Then a third nest was built and on that the old mother bird has now been sitting for two weeks. Perhaps she will succeed this time in rearing an interesting family, but there is an old white cat with three kittens under the hay mow stairs, who spends hours standing motionless, all but the tip of her tail, in the tall orchard grass and who thinks that a dinner of young robins would do her own children much good.

There is a little yellow warbler who built down in the pasture wood lot and who had equally hard luck in a different and really peculiar way.

The yellow warbler's nest was in itself an exquisite thing. It was built near the top of some thick bushes, about five feet from the ground. It was lined with soft, silky gray mosses and threads of vegetable tissue and it looked like the inside of a spun silver cup. It was built so artfully that leaves and branches hid it on all sides, and it took hard work and good luck to find it even after one knew it was there. It was found the day it had been completed, when the mother bird was just ready to begin laying her eggs.

But there was another bird out that day, sneaking through the bushes like a pickpocket, looking for a chance to leave one of its eggs in a newly built nest. The sneak was a cowbird, which never builds a nest of its own and dismisses the whole subject of maternal responsibility from its mind when it has left an egg in some other bird's nest. One of these big brown and black cowbirds found the yellow warbler's dainty little nest and laid one of its big spotted eggs there. Then it flew back to the pasture again and got down on the ground among the cattle, with others of its sneaking kind.

Sometimes when a yellow warbler finds a cowbird's egg in its nest it will build a false bottom over the egg and proceed to make its nest above it on the second floor. But this poor warbler got no such opportunity. This has been a cold, late spring, and the warblers and other similar birds have been slow in building. Also there were many cowbirds about, looking for a chance to saddle off the hatching and rearing of their young on their betters, and before the yellow warbler mother could get a chance to lay one of her own eggs in the nest she had built it was actually filled almost to overflowing with four big cowbird eggs. This is believed to be the record in the way of cowbird greediness. Often two cowbird eggs are found in the same nest, but rarely if ever before have four been found.

The greed of the cowbird in thus completely occupying the warbler's nest brought its own punishment with it. The warbler, disgusted, abandoned the nest completely. A day or two later something—boy or beast—had discovered the deserted nest and stolen all four of the eggs.

If the yellow warbler builds another nest and succeeds in raising its brood where the cowbirds cannot find it the first catastrophe may be all for the best. Even when only one cowbird's egg is laid in a nest and is hatched out with three or four young warblers the latter are likely to get far the worst of it. The young cowbird from the moment it breaks the shell is bigger and greedier than its foster brothers and sisters. It will crowd them to the side and insists on eating much more than its share of the food which the yellow warblers bring for their young.

Across the barbed wire and rail fence from the warbler's nest is a big woods pasture. Close to the fence grow thick clumps of hazel brush and wild crab and plum trees. In some places the thicket is so dense that a man has hard work in forcing his way through it. High up in these tangles, six or eight feet from the ground, two pairs of catbirds have built their nests. They are apparently safe from all but other bird enemies, for the long, sharp thorns and the interlacing branches protect them from attack from the ground. This is evidently a favorite nesting place of theirs, for in the branches there are the ruins of nests evidently two or three years old.

Close to the catbird's tangle and lying on the ground in a poor apology for a nest were found a recently hatched mourning dove and a white egg from which the little bird had not yet picked its way. This nest was close to the stalks of some close growing bushes and would never have been discovered if the old mother bird had not gotten up and flown away in a terrible fright when the nestseeker was four or five feet away.

MOURNING DOVE BROODS ON THE GROUND.

With the instinct of most of the ground building kind the old bird went off with an apparently broken wing and did her best to decoy danger away from her helpless little ones. It is a wonder how these little doves escaped the prowling cats which hunt in the meadows and woods all about, but so far they have done finely, and on Saturday last the elder of the two was already able to use his wings in a flight of three or four feet.

Out in an old telephone pole which stands at the corner of two country roads is a regular birds' flat building. About fifteen feet up from the ground, just high enough up to be the despair of small boys, is a small hole leading down to a circular chamber. Here a bluebird family has its home. Five feet higher up is another and larger hole. This is the front door to the residence of a red-headed woodpecker. At present the young woodpeckers are just getting ready to try their wings, and at almost any time one of the youngsters may be seen looking out of the hole at what must seem a strange world. Still higher up, in the third story of the flat building, is another opening evidently made by a flicker, who changed his mind and left before he completed the work. There is likely to be an English sparrow's nest in that cavity before the summer is over, for the "avian rats" are going out into the country for the summer in great numbers and bid fair soon to be as big a nuisance there as they are now in the city and nearby suburbs.

There seem to be other birds beside the bluejay which sometimes eat or at least destroy the eggs of their fellows. Thus the other day a horrible suspicion was aroused in regard to that symbol of innocence and gentleness, the robin redbreast. The robin flew from a tree down into the grass of a swamp meadow. There he disappeared for a moment. When he came into sight again he was flying for dear life with a red-winged blackbird close behind it, shrieking "stop thief" at the top of its voice. Of course the robin's intentions may have been perfectly honorable, but why should the redwing be roused to such a sudden pitch of fury at sight of him?

NEWS OF THE RAILROADS.

J. J. HILL BELIEVED TO BE AFTER TWO MORE LINES.

Chicago Great Western and Wisconsin Central Said to Be Sought for Amalgamation with Great Northern and Northern Pacific Systems—East-Bound Freight Business Shows Serious Falling Off and Grain Rates Are Threatened with Disturbance.

The opinion is gaining ground in railroad circles here that J. J. Hill will soon secure control of the Chicago Great Western road and Wisconsin Central and will merge them with the Great Northern and Northern Pacific systems. These two roads are virtually left orphans, not being owned or controlled by any of the big interests which now control most of the roads in the country. They are not strong enough to stand alone and make a successful fight against any of the big combines, but at the same time they can inflict great injury for a time upon both the Hill and Harriman interests if allowed to remain independent. So far as the Wisconsin Central is concerned it is quite certain that it will become the Chicago end of the Northern Pacific. The Chicago Great Western, with the probable exception of that part of the line between Marshalltown and Kansas City, will probably be amalgamated with the Burlington, and these will form the Chicago end of the Great Northern. That part of the line of the Great Western between Marshalltown and Kansas City will in all probability be turned over to the Chicago and Northwestern, to give the latter an independent outlet to Kansas City, and to prevent it from building a line of its own.

Grain Rates Again in Danger.

East-bound freight business from Chicago has fallen off so seriously during the last two or three weeks that most of the roads, it is alleged, have again commenced to cut rates on grain. Shipments of grain by the all-rail lines from Chicago last week were only 1,850,000 bushels, as compared with 3,089,000 bushels shipped by lake. The lake lines, it is claimed, managed to get away with the bulk of business by making unusually low rates, and the all-rail lines have been compelled to shade the rates last week to get any of the traffic. Cut rates were being quoted from Missouri River points, St. Louis, and other Mississippi River points, but tariff rates at Chicago were firmly held until last week, when some of the roads went in, made contracts for grain at 11 cents per 100 pounds from Chicago to New York.

Shipments of both flour and grain by the all-rail lines from Chicago last week were the smallest of the season, and show fair reductions. Flour shipments last week were 68,835 barrels, a decrease of 2,247 barrels from the previous week. Grain shipments decreased 275,000 bushels. Shipments of provisions increased 5,723 tons. A comparison with the shipments of flour last year shows an increase of 39,138 barrels, a gain of 648,000 bushels of grain and of 5,985 tons of provisions.

TO IMPROVE LONG ISLAND ROAD.

Pennsylvania Company, It Is Said, Means to Apply $20,000,000 on Developments.

New York, June 24.—[Special.]—A director of the Pennsylvania railroad, which now controls the Long Island railway, is authority for the statement that not less than $20,000,000 is to be expended in extending the lines of the Long Island road and developing the suburban territory traversed by those lines. The work of constructing a tunnel under the East River from Long Island City into the heart of New York will cost between $8,000,000 and $10,000,000.

Reaching this city at the foot of East Thirty-fourth street the Long Island railway tunnel will pass under Thirty-third street almost due west to Seventh avenue. Proceeding north under Seventh avenue the tunnel will intersect the Rapid Transit subway in Long Acre square at about Forty-fourth street, and there will be a close traffic connection between the two systems. Convenient way stations are to be established along the line of the Long Island railroad tunnel, and wherever possible a connection will be made with the Rapid Transit subway.

With the completion of this tunnel it will be possible for persons to take a train at Long Acre square in this city and proceed to Philadelphia without emerging from shelter.

It was stated in Wall street that conferences are to be held this week by Wisconsin Central interests to consider a proposition submitted to the management looking to a change in the control of the system. Last night it was reported that an offer had been made to purchase the road at $66 for the preferred stock and $33 for the common. While no confirmation of the report can be had, it is believed in some quarters of the street that this week's conferences will have to deal with the proposition.

One of the stories heard in the financial district today, and generally credited because of the sources whence the report came, was to the effect that one reason for the delay in announcing the completion of the greater Missouri Pacific system is that the Gould interests are endeavoring to obtain control of St. Louis and San Francisco, this road having formerly been a Gould property. At the office of the Missouri Pacific neither denial nor confirmation of the report could be obtained.

In order to concentrate the management of the Baltimore and Ohio railway system, L. F. Loree, the new President of that system, has been elected President of the Pittsburg Junction railroad and the Pittsburg and Connellsville railroad. Within the next few months all of the Baltimore and Ohio controlled lines will be transferred to the management of President Loree. The official headquarters of the Boston and Albany will remain in Boston, notwithstanding recent published reports that they were to remove to New York, and the old Boston and Albany corporation continues to maintain an independent existence under the terms of the lease of the property to the New York Central. President Newman of the last named road will direct the operations of the Boston and Albany, but the details will be looked after by Vice President Van Etten, who will have an office in Boston.

A readjustment of the financial affairs of the Mexican Central railroad is to be made by the newly elected Executive committee. This readjustment, it is asserted, will include the retirement or conversion of the income bonds. From official sources it is ascertained that the recent visit of F. P. Prince of Boston to London was for the purpose of conferring with foreign holders of Mexican Central securities.

ONE OF THE OLDEST TRAFFIC OFFICIALS.

One of the oldest and best known traffic officials in the West is Thomas Miller, the veteran General Freight Agent of the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy road. His strict integrity has earned for him the sobriquet among railway officials of "Honest Tom Miller."

He is one of the most modest of men, and dislikes notoriety of any kind. The publishers of the railway directory even failed to get any facts from him as regards his railroad career, and hence all the directory says of him is as follows: "Has held his present position since Feb. 1, 1890; previous to that date was for several years General Freight Agent of the Burlington and Missouri River railroad at Omaha, Neb."

Only two or three days ago, when asked for his photograph, Mr. Miller insisted that he never had his photograph taken except once, about two years ago at Denver, and he did not think there was one in existence. However, not all of those Denver pictures got "lost, strayed, or stolen," as Mr. Miller asserted.

Mr. Miller is about 65 years of age, and his entire railroad service has been with the Burlington. He began as traveling auditor in 1875. He then became division freight agent at Burlington, Ia. Subsequently he came to Chicago as Assistant General Freight Agent of the Burlington. A few years later he was sent to Omaha as General Freight Agent of the Burlington and Missouri River railroad, and in February, 1890, came back to Chicago to assume the position of General Freight Agent of the Burlington, which he still holds, to the entire satisfaction of the management.

KICK THE ARMY CANTEEN.

METHODIST MINISTERS FEAR IT WILL BE USED AGAIN.

William P. F. Ferguson Addresses Weekly Meeting Condemning the Post Saloon—M. M. Parkhurst Tells About Its Effects in the National Home for Volunteers at Milwaukee—Baptist Clergymen Arranging for Convention of Young People's Union.

"The flood of beer received by Shafter's army was worse than the scanty rations. The canteen was the cause of the sickness that broke out in the army before Santiago."

These words were part of an attack by the Rev. William P. F. Ferguson on the army canteen, made in an address to the Methodist ministers at their meeting yesterday. Dr. M. M. Parkhurst took part in the discussion and told of the effects of the canteen as he had seen it at Fort Sheridan.

"The canteen is like all other saloons in its results," said Dr. Ferguson. "Murder, suicide, and riot have followed in its wake. It has been condemned by army officers and privates alike. The liquor dealers, however, favor its presence. They say the soldiers begin their sprees inside and finish them outside. Chaplains in the army are afraid to talk against the evil. They have been ordered from Washington to cease reporting about the government saloons. The men who have repeatedly said that in the absence of the canteen drunkenness has increased and riots have been incited have grossly slandered the soldiers."

Dr. Parkhurst told the ministers that unless they used all their influence the canteen would get back into the army. He told of seeing a dozen soldiers at the veterans' home in Milwaukee lying on the floor so intoxicated that they could not get up-stairs to their rooms. He said the great trouble with the canteen is that it puts the seal of approval by the government on the liquor habit and makes it respectable.

Arranging for Baptist Convention.

Arrangements for one of the largest gatherings ever held by the young members of the Baptist churches were discussed at the session of the Baptist ministers. The event is the eleventh international convention of the Young People's union, to be held at the Coliseum from July 25 to July 28. At least 15,000 representatives of this organization are expected to come from all parts of the United States and Canada.

Ministers to Take an Outing.

Members of the Presbyterian and Baptist Ministers' associations will lay aside their cares on Tuesday, July 2, to enjoy their ninth annual outing. The preachers and their friends will leave Chicago at 9:30 a. m. on the Christopher Columbus for Milwaukee, returning the same evening. Religious services will be held in the main cabin of the steamer on the way to Milwaukee and on the return trip. The visitors will visit the Downer Home for Aged Pastors while in the Wisconsin city. The Rev. Flavius Brobst will address the ministers on "The Religion of the Twentieth Century," and the Rev. George William Wright will speak on "The Religious Aspect of the Twentieth Century." The Congregational ministers decided not to attend as a body.

HONOR THEIR PATRON SAINT.

French-Canadians Celebrate for John the Baptist—Parade, Church, Service, and Picnic.

French-Canadians honored their patron saint, John the Baptist, by a celebration yesterday in Oswald's Grove, Fifty-seventh and Halsted streets. The festivities opened with a parade composed of 1,800 marchers, which traveled through the streets of Englewood to the Church of St. John the Baptist, where pontifical high mass was celebrated. Louis Courchene, 4 years old, dressed in a lamb's skin, to represent the early days in the life of St. John, had a conspicuous part in the parade, and drew many cheers from the crowd along the way. There were two floats in line, one representing Chicago in 1833 and the other representing the city as it is today.

Mgr. Legris of St. Viature's College, Kankakee, officiated at the church services, assisted by Father Bergeron and Father Poissant. The sermon was delivered by the Very Rev. Father Marsile, President of St. Viature's College.

From the church the delegations went to the picnic grounds. It is estimated that 4,500 persons assembled at the park. After addresses by Alexander Beaubien and Z. P. Brosseau, the rest of the day was devoted to athletic games and dancing. The celebration closed with a banquet last night in the Notre Dame Church hall.

Arrest Hotel Proprietor's Wife.

On a warrant procured yesterday morning before Justice Quinn in the Hyde Park police court Mrs. Lena McSweeney, wife of the proprietor of the Hotel Mildred, Sixty-first street and Cottage Grove avenue, was arrested yesterday afternoon by the Woodlawn police on a charge of selling liquor in quantities of less than one gallon. Mrs. McSweeney furnished bond for her appearance in the Hyde Park police court this morning.

IN THE INSURANCE FIELD.

EXCEPTED CITIES AGREEMENT SAID TO BE STILL OPEN.

Many Non-Union Companies Suspicious of Some Scheme and Are Circulating an Old Rule Which They Think Will Protect Their Interests — Secretary Trimingham Will Speak on "The Policy Contract" Tonight—Reinsurance of North German of Hamburg.

In spite of repeated announcements that the excepted city agreement had been shelved for the time being till resentments aroused by the recent union meeting could subside, it was stated yesterday by representatives of the non-union side that the question was still open, and that action might be taken this week. Many of the non-union element are suspicious of some underlying scheme. What they seem to be most afraid of is that the union will get the non-union companies tied up with an agreement regarding expenses and then will spring some sort of a separation scheme on them. The following old union rule is being circulated among the non-union companies by those who are apprehensive:

"Any member of the union may employ one salaried representative or agent, who shall act solely for such member in each of the cities named [the excepted cities], but no one who at the time shall represent any other member of the union as agent shall receive such appointment as salaried agent."

This rule has not been operative since the union surrendered jurisdiction over the excepted cities. The non-union companies say the enforcement of this or any such rule would put them in a position where they would be sure to get the worst of it.

The Chicago Fire Insurance club has engaged Steinway Hall as a permanent meeting place, and will hold its first session there tonight. R. N. Trimingham, secretary of the Chicago Underwriters' association, will speak on "The Policy Contract."

James De Veuve has been appointed a special agent of the Western department of the Girard, his field to be assigned later.

The North German of Hamburg has reinsured in the Western of Toronto, and will operate hereafter only in Chicago and on the Pacific coast, where it has made money. A. Loeb & Son retain the Cook County agency and remain as United States managers for the other territory.

Chairman Lenehan of the Governing committee of the union has resigned from the new committee on the revision of the union rules, which has already begun its work. He is succeeded by T. W. Eustis of the Manchester. On the Membership committee of the union Wise and Higley of the Hanover succeed C. B. Gilbert of the Lancashire.

Judge Eugene Cary, chairman of the committee of union companies in charge of the quo warranto litigation begun against the companies at Topeka, Kas., for alleged violation of the anti-trust law, has been at Topeka to make a deposition in the Frank Thomas cases, in which the same issues are involved. He was subpoenaed when he was out there some weeks ago arranging for the trial of the anti-trust cases. He was interrogated as to the rules, regulations, and practices of the union, the object plainly being to get information for use in the anti-trust cases rather than for the Thomas litigation. He declared that all union rules and regulations were off in Kansas, the union having relinquished jurisdiction. The Thomas cases against the Springfield and Traders' for alleged violation of the anti-trust law are set for trial on June 26, but one of the attorneys is ill, and probably they will be postponed.

Charles H. Bunker, President of the Continental Casualty company of this city, was elected Vice President of the International Association of Life Underwriters at its annual meeting last week. A. A. Forrest, secretary of the North American Accident company, is on the Executive committee.

The liability conference, which was in session all of last week in New York City, has made a marked advance in rate on team insurance, the losses having been unusually heavy of late.

COUNTY FUNDS ARE LOW.

APPROPRIATIONS FOR SEVERAL INSTITUTIONS EXHAUSTED.

"Contingent" Money Must Supply Deficiency Till End of Fiscal Year, Five Months Away—Notwithstanding This State of Affairs Condition Is the Best for Several Years—Evanston's Request for Separate Township Denied Because of Illegality.

With the end of the current fiscal year five months away, the funds set aside for several of the county institutions have become so depleted that the County board yesterday afternoon was forced to begin setting aside amounts from the "contingent fund."

Of the $43,000 in the contingent fund, $11,000 was set aside to be used later in meeting bills from the County Hospital, $8,000 for the custodian of the Courthouse, $5,000 for the County Agent's use, $5,000 for the custodian of the Criminal Court Building, and $250 for the County Civil Service commission.

The funds set aside for supplies for the year for these various departments, the sums expended, and the balances on hand June 1, follow:

	Appropriated.	Expended.	Bal.
County Hospital	$165,000	$107,784	$57,216
County Agent	100,000	94,630	5,370
Custodian Courthouse	30,000	28,462	1,538
Custodian Crimin'l Court	20,000	19,998	2
Civil Service commission	300	294	6

During the part of this month which has elapsed the two last named funds have been totally exhausted and unsettled bills are now being held against the county. The County Hospital fund has been reduced to little more than $40,000, and the County Agent has but a few hundred dollars left.

Best Condition at Dunning.

Of the county institutions the Dunning institutions are in best condition, there remaining $85,000 of the original supply appropriation of $220,000. The condition of the supply funds of other departments on June 1 is shown in the following table:

	Appropriation.	Expended.
Dunning institutions	$220,000	$123,288
Sheriff	7,000	4,894
State's Attorney	5,000	3,164
County Attorney	1,000	998
Coroner	1,000	830
County Treasurer	6,000	3,359
Recorder	6,000	3,977
County Clerk	10,000	6,736

"Despite all this," said County Controller Monaghan, "the county will be in better financial condition at the close of the fiscal year than has been known in years. The funds were heavily drawn on immediately after the passage of the appropriation bill to pay old bills contracted on last year's accounts. This was especially true in the case of the hospital and the County Agent. The heaviest expenses of the year—during the winter and spring months—have been passed, too."

The board authorized the immediate improvement of the boiler plant at the County Hospital. Bids for two new boilers were asked for, these to be opened next Monday afternoon.

Evanston Township Plan Illegal.

Acting on the advice of the County Attorney, the board refused to grant the request of citizens of Evanston that they be allowed to form a new township coextensive with the limits of the City of Evanston, to be known as Ridgeville. It was held that the State law under which this permission was asked was limited to cities of not less than 3,000 inhabitants, lying wholly in one township. Evanston extends over portions of three townships.

War was declared on the Canadian thistle and a "thistle commission" will be appointed.

County Treasurer Raymond's semi-annual report for the period ended June 1 was received. The interest received on delinquent taxes is placed at $7,806, all of which was turned into the County Treasury. The commissions collected on special assessments aggregate $1,632. Of the $2,404 received as commissions on receipts and disbursements, $2,000 was devoted to paying the Treasurer's salary.

AIR CHURCH FIGHT IN COURT.

Suit for Criminal Libel Brought by Chicago Heights Preacher Called for Trial.

The old quarrel between the Rev. Paul Quarder, pastor of the German Evangelical Church at Chicago Heights, and John Held, a member of the congregation, came up before Judge Horton yesterday in an action for criminal libel brought by the preacher against Held. This suit is the last of a series of events beginning with the suspension of the defendant's daughter from the church confirmation class, succeeded by the whipping of the pastor by the girl's father and brother, a trial on the charge of assault and battery, publication of letters by Held in a German newspaper of Joliet, the filing of a protest by Mr. and Mrs. Held against the preacher with the Mission board of the church, and the indictment of Held on a charge of criminal libel growing out of these letters.

Members of the Mission board, to which alleged libelous letters were written, have been subpoenaed as witnesses. Among them are the Rev. William Hattendorf, 4610 Dearborn street; the Rev. Julius Holz, 10251 Avenue L; the Rev. E. Rahn, 1818 Eberly avenue; the Rev. Paul Forester, 152 Newberry avenue; the Rev. K. J. Freitag, 5213 Justin street; the Rev. A. Neidgesass, Blue Island; the Rev. Gustav Kock, 628 Green street; the Rev. C. Bauman, Bartlett, Ill.; the Rev. Charles Schnak, Moking, Ill.; the Rev. H. Schmidt, Niles Center; the Rev. H. Jacobi, Elgin; the Rev. J. Z. Hoffmeister, Palatine.

The letters which are alleged to be libelous charged Mr. Quarder with various offenses unbecoming a minister. The case was continued a week after a number of witnesses had been heard.

TO ORGANIZE WEST PARK BOARD

New Members Meet Today with Prospect of Electing Fred Bangs President and Walter Fieldhouse Secretary.

The West Park board meets today to organize under its new membership. It is expected that Fred Bangs will be elected President, and Walter Fieldhouse, Secretary, but the story yesterday was that the selection of a superintendent would be deferred, William Cooke, the incumbent, being allowed to act in the meantime.

The superintendent is the main thing from a political point of view, he being the man who "puts men to work." Cooke is a follower of ex-Congressman Lorimer, and has been the instrument whereby the latter was able to use the patronage connected with the board to his own political advantage. This is the only appointment Lorimer is interested in, and if he does not get it there is likely to be trouble between the ex-Congressman and the Governor.

Lorimer refused to talk yesterday regarding the story that he and Governor Yates had gone into an offensive and defensive alliance for political purposes.

J. N. JEWETT ON ISLAND POLICY.

He Lectures at John Marshall Law School in Support of Government's Course.

The first of the regular summer lectures was given at the John Marshall Law School by Attorney John N. Jewett last evening. The Philippine question was the subject. Mr. Jewett argued in support of the policy of the United States in retaining the islands. He said:

"The distinctive doctrines of humanitarians and sentimentalists are not the doctrines upon which the civil governments of the world have been established, nor are they the foundations upon which such governments can safely rest.

"It has been asserted that we are interlopers in the Philippines and the same people who make such assertions assign to the President and his followers theories which they do not entertain, and endow the Filipinos with qualities which they do not possess. They attempt to elevate the cunning, treacherous, and deceitful Aguinaldo, the head of a back-yard rebellion, to the place of a hero and emancipator."

HARLEM MEN ACCUSE LAWYERS

Affidavit Gives Names of Alleged Crusade Attorneys, Said to Be Employed by St. Louis Interests.

Another affidavit, more specific than the first one, was filed in the Harlem racetrack injunction yesterday, this time indirectly charging Attorneys Washburn and Healy with being employed by St. Louis racing interests and local poolroom managers to close up the Harlem track. The affidavit, which was filed in support of a motion to dissolve the injunction issued by Judge Holdom, was made by Harry D. Collins of St. Louis, a bookmaker's clerk, and is the first effort directly to connect names with transactions. It relates to an alleged conversation Collins had with Mr. Adler of Adler, Sella & Tilles, principal owners of the Del Mar Park Jockey club of St. Louis. According to Collins' sworn statement Adler said:

"The Harlem racetrack crowd has not treated us right and we are going to get even with them. We are going to stop them from racing. We blame them for getting an injunction against our poolrooms, and we are going to do the same to them. We have got a man by the name of Washburn, who is pretty close to the Governor of Illinois, and we are going to give the impression that it comes from Springfield. McWhorter and Brown of Chicago are in it and they have engaged a lawyer named Healy. We are furnishing the money. We have got lots of it and we can spare $50,000 if it is necessary."

The injunction case was set for hearing yesterday morning, but was continued until Thursday morning.

Argument on the motion to dissolve the injunction restraining the police from interfering with Powers & O'Brien's saloon at 170 Madison street was heard by Judge Hanecy yesterday, and the court then took the case under advisement.

Chief of Police O'Neill yesterday afternoon detailed Detective Schubert and four other men to police the Washington Park club grounds, with instructions to permit no open, professional gambling.

LOWER RATES ON REAL ESTATE.

Downward Tendency of Money Market Illustrated by Extension of Mortgage Loan at Five Per Cent.

The tendency of the money market toward lower rates was illustrated yesterday in connection with the extension of a mortgage loan on property at the southeast corner of Twentieth and Morgan streets. The original loan was for $70,000 and ran three years at 6 per cent interest, while under the new loan the rate was reduced to 5 per cent. The principal was also reduced to $45,000. The mortgagee is Catherine Seipp, guardian of the estate of Conrad Seipp, a minor, and the mortgagers are James D. and Jane S. Lehman of Cincinnati. The new mortgage also runs for three years.

Herrmann Loses 2,055 Votes.

The first to pass the 2,000 mark in losses in the County Commissioners' contest was William G. Herrmann, who was the highest among the defeated candidates. In twenty-five wards he has lost 2,055 votes; Palt, 1,631; Hulsman, 1,449; and Happel, 1,713. The seating of any contestant is regarded as unlikely.

LAKE SHIPPING NEWS.

AMONG THE NEW BOOKS.

CANADIAN'S DEFENSE OF BRITISH POSITION IN AFRICA.

Professor James Cappon of Kingston Endeavors to Disprove the Correctness of Dr. George H. Theal's History of South Africa, and Thus to Show That England Has Been and Still Is in the Right—Book Based on Colonial Records.

Though "Britain's Title in South Africa" (Macmillan) marks a distinct advance in the consideration of the struggle not yet ended between the Britain and the burgher, it will not be until some American, as strongly possessed with England's love for commercial civilization as with the Boer's love for liberty, comes to write an account of the dispute between the warring nations that a really satisfactory account will be given to the world. Yet Professor James Cappon, who holds the chair of English in the Queen's University at Kingston, Canada, has undoubted qualities which fit him for the production of an ideal work, and his really important book deserves patient examination.

It is a statement borne out by experience that British colonists are usually more British than the inhabitants of Great Britain themselves. In the recrudescence of British imperialism which has swept over the Dominion, the colonist felt the stigma which Britain rested under in south Africa, due in no small degree to the authoritative history of that part of the world which emanates from the hand of Dr. George M. Theal. Feeling that this able historian was altogether too partial to the Dutch view of the contention, with his suspicions of his accuracy strengthened by the knowledge that F. W. Reitz, formerly President of the Orange Free State and afterward secretary of the Transvaal republic, was his collaborator in the history, Mr. Cappon instituted an inqury into the facts of the case based upon the records of the Cape Colony as published by the colonial authorities. How complete these are or under whose editorship they were compiled is not made clear, but they have been sufficient to base the present work upon, a work which has for its object the setting right of matters which Dr. Theal has made to appear wrong from the British point of view, though himself an Englishman.

It is in the necessities of the case that writing during the pendency of actual war should lack dispassion. Dr. Theal wrote before the outbreak of hostilities, but while prejudices were still active and his point of view, like that of the average American, was strongly pro-Boer. Mr. Cappon writes when war is coloring the sky and his anxiety is rather to prove Dr. Theal wrong, and, at one stroke, England and the present Tory government right than to take a more moderate course. Between the prejudices of the historian and his critic the truth unquestionably lies, both being partisan.

What is most evident from this examination of England's title is the profound misunderstanding of purpose which has existed from the beginning between the two conflicting forces. That commercial civilization, in its least lovely form, today represented British ideas to the burghers through the foreign contingent at Johannesburg has not entered into Mr. Cappon's own consideration of the case. His work does not go beyond the great trek, except in a lucid final chapter or two, and it cannot be said that he has availed himself of his opportunity to demonstrate England's title to the allegiance of the trekkers, except under the old common law theory, overthrown by the war of 1812, that allegiance to the British crown is inalienable. He does, however, make it reasonably certain that the racial misunderstandings, being what they were and are, there was not room for both Briton and burgher in south Africa until one or the other had been subjugated by force of arms.

This at least, has the merit of simplicity. British domination over the Cape rests upon the same title that American domination does in the Philippines—under treaty rights and the payment of a substantial sum of money to the former overlord. In neither spot was it derived from the consent of the governed, at least in so far as an armed resistance represents the views of the inhabitants. In both cases the original title of the vender stood flatly upon conquest from the original inhabitants—the negroes in south Africa as conquered and despoiled of their land by Holland, the heathen and Moslem Tagals and Visayans in the Philippines as conquered and Christianized by Spain. This original title, disputed in the transfer by the persons chiefly affected, is in progress of settlement in both countries by the final arbitrament of war. This is "the good old rule, the simple plan," and its efficiency does not rest upon academic theory or conflicting statements of historians.

It implies, of course, that might makes right, and that, as it has in the past, so it will in the future. In other words, if the burghers ever get strong enough, or England weak enough, or both, for the Boer to take south Africa, he will do it. For the rest, it is undoubtedly true, as Mr. Cappon points out, that English rule has greatly benefited the burghers who have accepted it; but it is equally true that the civilization of a mining camp is an obtruding factor in the existing dispute which he does not weigh, and that England has failed, up to the present, to impress her fairness and good faith upon her antagonists—is governing, in short, or seeking to govern, without the consent of the governed.

John Blake—an honored name in British naval affairs—has prepared a well-illustrated book with a title which is fully explanatory of its purpose: "How Sailors Fight: An Account of the Organization of the British Fleet in Peace and War, with Some Tactical Illustrations of the Behavior of Modern Fighting Ships in Action" (E. P. Dutton & Co.). Captain the Hon. Hedworth Lambton, C. B., R. N., late of H. M. S. Powerful, has written a brief introduction praising the work, and with him its readers will be bound to agree.

Mr. Blake goes little into naval technicalities. He takes each class of naval vessels by itself—battleships, commerce-destroyers, torpedo boats, and torpedo boat destroyers, and shows what is to be expected of each theoretically. Then, in two or three interesting chapters more, he reduces the theory to practice in imaginative accounts of the performance of these various kinds of ships in action. One describes a naval battle between French and English battleships; another an action between two French armored cruisers and a British ship of the same class; still another an attack by three British torpedo boat destroyers upon a Russian battleship. It is interesting to observe that the commercial idea obtains even here, the enormous expense of the battleship being balanced against the comparatively inexpensive loss of two destroyers, and Britain shown to be the gainer.

It is also made clear that the naval battle of the future, when waged between enemies of approximately equal force, will result in the death of practically every sailor in the two fleets. Like the enormous death rate of army officers in modern battles, this must have a salutary effect in securing permanent peace to the world.

"The Abandoned Farmer" (Scribners) is the story of a newspaperman, musical critic on a morning paper, whose wife conceives the need for moving into the country on account of the health of their little boy, Paul. Just when they are wondering how the hours of the critic and the trains to something beyond mere suburbs can be reconciled the managing editor decides to make an agricultural editor of the musical critic and the rest is managed with comparative ease. The book is written by Sidney H. Preston and is constantly suggestive of Frank Stockton through the use of whimsical situations. But it would be wholly unfair to say that the method of one is in any way derived from that of the older writer, there being a resemblance and nothing more.

The intervention of the managing editor is an indication of the use of similar external machinery to clear up the other situations as they occur throughout the life in the country. Yet none of the rest comes out quite as it should. Various persons turn up through the pages to add to the general humor of the story, and more than one laughable episode will brighten the reader's path as he goes delightedly on. An old farmer who charges the editor a hundred dollars more rent for working the land which ought to go with the farm is in constant evidence, and the farming generally proceeds on the lines laid down by the editor's wife, of saving money by not spending it.

Whenever there appears to be an absolute need for buying some agricultural implement the money it would cost is put in the bank as a profit. The wife is deliciously feminine and the boy a wonderful lad. "The Abandoned Farmer" is a welcome addition to the stock of summer reading.

SHORT STORY OF THE DAY.

The One Thing Lacking.

BY ALICE B. MORRISON.

LL day long the ovation had lasted; banners had waved, drums had beaten, and the swarming masses of humanity, gathered from all parts of the country, had shouted themselves hoarse as the great General had passed through the streets in his handsome carriage, bowing to right and left or chatting pleasantly with the President of the United States, who sat by his side. And now the night was bringing a more brilliant repetition of the day's festivities.

Best of all, no envious voice was raised in all the multitude. For not only had the great man saved the honor of his country by his intrepidity in a moment of peril, but he flattered the national pride because he realized in every way the highest and finest type of American manhood. Then, too, he wore his laurels with a quiet dignity and modesty that the people, tired of blatant heroes, appreciated; so in return they loved him, and as national love can only be expressed by badges and parades and illuminations and much speech-making, all these things had their places in the swiftly-moving panorama of the day.

The finest feature of all, at least in the eyes of the ragged street gamins, was to be the great dinner that night, when under canopies of rare flowers and to the soft accompaniment of beautiful music the men of highest position and the fairest ladies of the land were to welcome their returned hero.

In the meantime the object of all this adulation had been driven quickly to the hotel for an hour's rest before the banquet, and after reaching his apartments had thrown himself into an easy chair in utter exhaustion of mind and body.

"Don't call me until I have barely time to dress, Matthews," he said to his valet, and the man, after carefully attending to the few wants of his master, left the room. Then the General, left to himself, walked slowly to the window and looked down into the street, where his name was still being shouted, and where remarkable presentments of himself in electric lights had begun to flash across the darkness of the sky.

Some one slipped copies of the late editions under his door and he arose and glanced at their glaring pages.

But he soon threw them from him and sought the refuge of his chair. Then he looked around him. The room was radiant with flowers sent by countless admirers, and the soft light gleamed upon pictures of himself, over which the national colors were draped. "Highest pinnacle of fame! Everything within his reach!" The absurd headlines contained in the afternoon papers rang persistently in his ears. He shrugged his shoulders a little wearily. Yes, people must think him a happy man, he said to himself. He could put himself in the attitude of the toilers of the work-a-day world, to whom no prizes fall, and could realize that the heights to which he had climbed might seem to them the summit of all earth-born ambitions. Well—fame, honor, wealth, all had come to him at last, but, after all, was he the happy man which, according to all known precedent, he should be?

Again he picked up a newspaper. He moved restlessly in his chair, glancing down its columns. Then he gave a low exclamation and sat with staring eyes looking at the page before him.

Two roughly-executed woodcuts had caught his eye, taken from two old photographs which some enterprising young reporter had unearthed—one of the General himself, in his young manhood, and the other of his girlish wife, taken soon after their marriage—the merry, patient little wife, who had always believed in his coming greatness; who had stinted and saved that he might have the opportunity to develop himself, and who had slipped quietly away into the unknown country long before there were any signs or portents that the world shared her convictions concerning her husband. The poor little picture brought back what the great General had been trying to put away from him all day—the thought that he had at last accomplished all that she in her love had dreamed of; and now she to whom the credit of whatever glory he had won was due was not there to share it with him! The world had never known—how could it know?—that in the heart of the man whom it delighted to honor there was a shrine where sweet incense was always burning before the image of the wife of his youth; an image never supplanted by any other woman. Nor could the world know the anguish his unshared honors brought him.

The paper dropped from his hand unheeded, the tumult of the street was heard no longer as he lived over again the two short years when the one soul which had ever fully understood and loved him was by his side. There had not been much money in those days, and the new book or fine photograph meant many petty economics which only made each acquisition to the little household stock more prized. But they had been rich in love and happiness. When they sat together by their cozy fireside on the long winter evenings (they were always together) how they dreamed and planned for a golden future when they would wander through enchanted lands across the sea and share the treasures of the ages! What drives they had taken, too, in the mellow, autumn days, over quiet country roads, gay with foliage which vied in its scarlet and gold with the rich coloring of the old Venetian painters—drives when the whole beautiful world seemed theirs alone, and no words were needed to express the perfect sympathy which enveloped them. He remembered—ah, how he remembered—the pretty way she had of slipping her hand into his at such moments and lifting her sweet eyes to his face, saying as she did so: "Isn't it a lovely, beautiful world?"

Today as he had ridden at the head of the procession some bright autumn leaves had floated gently into the carriage from an overhanging bough, and in a moment all the pomp and ceremony surrounding him had vanished, and he was once more with her in the gentian-fringed roads, the trees swaying above them. He felt the gentle pressure of her hand. A question from the distinguished man at his side had brought him back suddenly to the actualities of his life, and he could have cried out with the pain of it.

Now he lived over again the time that even in memory was not good for a man to dwell on—a time when all the pain of the world cried out to him through the one being for whom he would have given his life a thousand times over had it been possible—a time when his very reason tottered, when he seemed to be living in some dreadful dream from which he woke to find himself alone. How many times he had prayed that he might follow her, but fate only mocked him, for he lived on each year and brought added fame and honor, but what had it mattered? There was no one who really cared, and each new preferment seemed to mark more plainly his isolation from his kind. How proud she would have been of it all, how she would have rejoiced and sympathized, and how she could not know—she could not know! Hot tears burned in the General's eyes and he buried his face in his hands.

"I beg pardon, sir, but I've called you three times, sir;" it was the voice of Matthews, and the General sat up with a start.

Even the valet noticed that his master seemed unusually depressed as he dressed for the night's festivities.

"You're tired, sir," he said, deferentially.

"Yes, Matthews, I am tired, so tired that——" but the General left the sentence unfinished.

The banquet surpassed even the most rose-colored expectations. Everything that wealth and wit and culture could give added to its success. Representatives of all the powerful nations of the earth vied with his own countrymen in singing the praises of the hero of the hour. Yet there were those who thought that their guest was strangely silent, and the reigning beauty who had the place of honor at his right confided to a friend the next day: "He may be great, my dear, but, if it were not sacrilegious to criticise him as an ordinary mortal, I should be obliged to say that he was both dull and stupid—exceedingly stupid."

START CONCERTS AT OAK PARK.

Eighth Series of Summer Evening Musical Entertainments Opens at Scoville Place Tonight.

The band will play at Oak Park tonight, and Scoville place, the plot of ground at Lake street, Oak Park avenue, and Grove avenue, will be dressed in multi-colored lights. This will be the first of the eighth series of summer evening band concerts given by popular subscription under the auspices of the Oak Park club. The First Regiment Band of Pullman will open this year's course of concerts, and hundreds will be on hand to applaud the music, which ranges from a Mendelssohn overture to the comic opera airs now bidding for approval at Chicago's theaters.

John Farson gave the impetus to this movement for summer evening concerts eight years ago. Recently the Oak Park club assumed control of the plan, and Melancthon Smith has given the idea his personal attention. To provide the necessary funds a thousand or more chairs were purchased, which were rented at 10 cents each to those who cared to subscribe. For the first four years the concerts were given on the plot of ground now occupied by Mr. Farson's new home, and then a change was made to Scoville place.

"The concerts are splendid," said Mr. Farson last night, "and I believe that other communities will fall in line with Oak Park. Frequently 4,000 to 5,000 people attend the concerts, and there is enjoyment for all at little or no expense. I do not know of a place in the United States where band concerts have been given of such a high order of excellence and with such a degree of success as at Oak Park. The people have been most liberal, and it may be surprising to know that so loyal has been the support that, though $1,800 was spent last year on these concerts, we have probably enough money left to see us through this entire year."

Should rain fall tonight the concert will be postponed until Friday evening. The next concert will be given on the evneing of July 2, when De Baugh's Band, with its megaphone quartet, will fill Scoville place with melody.

INCORRIGIBLE GIRL IN COURT.

Margaret O'Shea Sent to House of Good Shepherd After She Testifies Against William Bizzett.

Margaret O'Shea, who was the chief witness to secure the indictment of William Bizzett by the grand jury yesterday, was later in the day sent to the House of the Good Shepherd by Judge Tuthill. The girl is only 15 years old, but it is said that her father is unable to control her. He lives at 88 Sholto street. The girl is said to have been frequenting places of bad repute for some time. Bizzett was indicted on the charge of enticing her into such places. The girl was accompanied in court by Miss Jennie Ratcliff of the Women's and Children's Protective agency.

IN THE SOCIETY WORLD.

DRAMATIC ENTERTAINMENT AT ELMHURST TOMORROW.

Mr. Thomas B. Bryan Opens Byrd's Nest for It and Ladies' Auxiliary Has Charge—Lawn Fete at Mrs. Charles Hitchcock's Residence for Benefit of Juvenile Court Probation Work—Marriage of Miss Frances Valentine to Mr. John Kehoe.

A pretty event is scheduled at Elmhurst for tomorrow evening. Mr. Thomas B. Bryan and Miss Bryan will open their home, Byrd's Nest, for a musical and dramatic entertainment given under the auspices of the ladies' auxiliary of Byrd's Nest chapel. The entertainment will be entirely amateur. Miss Veronica Murphy will give piano numbers, and Mrs. Emerson Brush will sing. For the dramatic, Mr. Northcote has written a playlet, "The Conquest of England," in which he and Mrs. Peter Dudley take the only parts. Mr. Dudley will be stage manager. The story of the play is that of an English lawyer, who wishing to save a client from marrying a pretty French widow, made a journey to France for that purpose. The trip ends in his marrying the pretty widow himself.

The entertainment will be given in the art gallery on the second floor in Mr. Bryan's home. There is a stage at one end of the room, with beautiful tapestry drapings, and the footlights will be a row of wax candles.

For the musical part of the entertainment some of the Elmhurst young people taking part will be Mr. Canfield, Mr. Erskine, Mr. Erskine Wilder, the Misses Murphy, Miss Dudley, Miss Blair, Miss Emory, Miss Rockwood, and Miss Rochel.

Several of the Wheaton folks will drive over for the entertainment. Mrs. Peter Dudley will give a dinner on that evening, and Mr. Bryan and Miss Bryan will have Mr. and Mrs. Bryan Lathrop as their guests. The Chicago people who have summer homes at Elmhurst will also be at the entertainment. Mrs. Emmons Blaine is a near neighbor to Byrd's Nest.

Equally attractive will be the lawn fête to be given this afternoon from 3 till 6 o'clock on the grounds of Mrs. Charles Hitchcock's residence, 4741 Greenwood avenue, for the benefit of the probation work of the Juvenile Court. There will be a music program and various attractions in the way of booths. A bevy of young women will assist in entertaining, including:

Miss Frances Cecelia Valentine, daughter of Mrs. Lawrence E. Valentine, 5900 La Salle street, and Mr. John Edward Kehoe were married last evening at St. Anne's Church, Garfield boulevard and Wentworth avenue. Only relatives witnessed the ceremony, which was performed by the Rev. Francis Bernard Kehoe, brother of the groom. Miss Blanche Betts of Cleveland, cousin of the bride, was the only attendant. She wore white silk and carried a bouquet of pink roses. The bride wore white point d'esprit over white silk, trimmed in point lace. She wore a white Gainsborough hat and carried bride roses. A wedding breakfast was served after the ceremony in the French Suite at the Sherman House. Mr. and Mrs. Kehoe left for an extended trip through the West. They will be at home after Sept. 15 at 949 West Monroe street.

The wedding of Miss Hattie Strauss, daughter of Mrs. Madlon Strauss, 3440 Michigan avenue, and Mr. L. A. Rosenthal took place last evening at the Standard club. Dr. Hirsch performed the ceremony at 6:30 o'clock. Miss Rosie Kahn was the bride's only attendant, and wore a gown of white Swiss, over pink, and carried pink roses. The bride's gown was of white silk mull, with insertions of lace, and she carried lilies of the valley. Marquise de Fontenoy Letter.

IT is seldom that the British government consents to receive one of its own subjects in the rôle of envoy from some foreign power. It, however, made an exception in favor of Sir Halliday Macartney, the ex-surgeon of the Ninety-ninth Regiment of Foot of the British army, who is now secretary to the Chinese Embassy in London, and who has on several occasions acted as Chargé d'Affaires; and it has now made another exception in favor of Harry MacLean, formerly a Captain in the British army and a member of the British Red River expedition, under Lord Wolseley, but now Commander-in-Chief of the army of the Sultan of Morocco, and who has just been officially received by King Edward at the court of St. James as Assistant Ambassador.

MacLean looks every inch a Moor in his turban and Moorish robes, but from the moment that he opens his mouth to talk English the fact that he is a Scotchman becomes apparent. He has held his position of Moorish Generalissimo for a quarter of a century, and is simply idolized by his troops, numbering about 30,000 men, who are never tired of relating his feats of courage, of strength, and of endurance, and who keenly appreciate the fact that they alone of the servants of the Moorish Sultan receive, thanks to him, their pay with regularity and in full.

The "Kaid," as he is called in Morocco, has never found it necessary to become a Mohammedan in order to strengthen his position in Morocco, and, although the Moors are perhaps the most fanatical of all the followers of the Prophet, the fact that he has remained a strict Presbyterian has never been allowed to interfere with their excellent relations with this thoroughly honest and fine old Scotchman, who thinks nothing of remaining nineteen hours in the saddle at a time.

Mrs. MacLean is as popular as her husband, and the worthy Scotch couple have two handsome daughters to help them do the honors of their hospitable house at Tangier.

Harry MacLean is a son of The MacLean of Loch Buie, and his father owns the greater part of the Island of Mull. Sir Fitzroy MacLean, although a Baronet of ancient creation, the baronetcy dating from 1682, is the head of a junior branch of the grand old Scottish clan of MacLean, of which the Kaid's father is the acknowledged chieftain. The Kaid's brother, Alan, is British Consul at Dar Al Baida, and is, in fact, in charge of the British consular work of the entire Empire of Morocco.

The Kaid is of medium height, with a keen, blue left eye—he lost the right one many years ago—and gray hair and whiskers.

He invariably dresses in the uniform of his rank—a blue, gold-embroidered jacket, with large knickerbockers, a big turban, and white, flowing mantle. Mrs. MacLean and her daughters, when in Morocco, never appear in public otherwise than veiled and in Oriental costume, this being one of the few concessions which they make to native prejudices.

The career of the Kaid is particularly interesting as affording a notable demonstration that in spite of the prejudice of Mohammedan Orientals against Christians, and notwithstanding the fact that Orientals, being adept in the art of intrigue, are imbued with the belief that every one else has the same propensities as themselves, it is nevertheless possible for a Christian, by straightforward dealing, by absolute frankness and integrity, to win their entire confidence and friendship.

The Kaid, who is already a Companion of the British Order of St. Michael and St. George, is likely, as the result of the part which he is playing in the present Moorish Embassy to the court of St. James, to receive a promotion in the order, and to be transformed into a Knight Commander or a Knight Grand Cross of the order, with the title of Sir Harry MacLean.

There are some royal personages in the old world who seem destined to be forever getting into more or less unsavory trouble of a nature to bring their names before the public in a manner calculated to expose them to popular contempt and ill-will. One of them is the Duke of Orleans. Another is Prince Ferdinand of Bulgaria, while a third is Duke Ernest Gunther of Schleswig-Holstein, the disreputable brother-in-law of the Kaiser.

Up to the time of his marriage the Duke was forever getting into scrapes, some of which were of such a nature as to compel his brother-in-law, the Kaiser, to banish him from court. But since he became the husband of the 17-year-old Princess of Coburg he managed to keep his name relatively free from scandal until the other day, when he was cited to appear before the Berlin courts as defendant in a case of a particularly sordid character, which cannot but greatly distress and mortify his sister, the German Empress.

The plaintiff is a woman of the name of Mlle. Anna von Milewski, and she claims not only the restoration of money taken from her by agents of the Duke but likewise damages for the treatment to which she was subjected in Egypt by his instigation. Without going into the rights and wrongs of the case, it is sufficient to state that the proceedings have brought to light a number of things that, for the credit of the Empress' family, had best been left unrevealed. The plaintiff was lady-in-waiting and maid of honor to that Princess Amelia of Schleswig-Holstein who was not only the aunt of the Empress but likewise a second mother to her. For the Kaiserin's own mother, the late Duchess Adelaide of Schleswig-Holstein, was crazy during a considerable portion of her life, and while she was under restraint it was her sister-in-law, Princess Amelia, who took charge of her daughters and who virtually brought them up.

Yet, in spite of this, the Princess was treated in the most niggardly manner by her former wards. Although the Empress has a large allowance independently of her husband's revenues, and notwithstanding the fact that Duke Ernest Gunther draws an annuity of $80,000 from the Prussian Treasury, besides having a large private fortune of his own, and having received an immense dowry with his wife, yet they forced their aunt, who had done so much for them, to content herself with a pittance of $3,000 a year, with the result that she was always in straitened circumstances and often in difficulties.

On such occasions as these, especially during the last few years of her life, she had recourse to the purse of her lady-in-waiting, the greater part of whose fortune of $80,000 was thus swallowed up in advances to the Princess and by expenses incurred in her behalf.

It seems that at Malta the Princess, who at the age of 75 had become a little weak-minded, fell into the hands of a young American of the name of Walker, to whom she took such a fancy that she engaged his services as chamberlain. His head turned by the honor of being gentleman-in-waiting to the Kaiser's aunt, he embarked the Princess in all kinds of expenses far beyond her means, and which the lady-in-waiting was called upon to pay.

The lady protested and complained to the German envoy at Cairo, whither the party had betaken themselves. The Minister took the ground that it was not a cause for official intervention, but privately notified the Duke of Schleswig-Holstein that he had better come as quickly as possible to Cairo, and to straighten out the difficulties in which his aunt had become involved. The Duke came, caused the arrest of the lady-in-waiting by the Egyptian police, her expulsion from Egypt, and her deportation to Italy, seizing her effects. When these were restored to her at Berlin the balance of her money, a sum of about $20,000, which she carried about with her in securities and in notes, had disappeared. It is for the recovery of this that she is now suing the Duke, as well as for damages for her arrest and expulsion, which was done entirely at his request and without any charges whatsoever being made against her. The Princess died suddenly at Cairo about two weeks after her expulsion.

QUEEN OF BEAUTY AT THE SWEDISH FEST.

Miss Maria Windrow of 1762 North Clark street was voted the most beautiful woman of Swedish extraction in Chicago by the Swedish midsummer festival at Fox River last Sunday. It is an old Swedish custom to choose a queen of love and beauty at the midsummer fest. The young girls of each village vote among themselves for the most popular girl and she becomes queen.

At the Chicago picnic, however, such a plan was obviously impossible. There were 20,000 people present, who had assembled from widely separated parts of the State. So it was determined to make beauty the sole qualification. The following plan was adopted: The Managing committee of three chose a committee of six married men, each one of the committee naming two. Each of these six men picked out two married women; and each married woman selected the two girls among those present whom she considered the most beautiful. The twenty-four girls thus chosen elected the queen by a ballot among themselves. Miss Windrow obtained a plurality of four over her nearest competitor and so was crowned with a floral wreath in the shape of the royal crown of Sweden, while her erstwhile rivals danced around her as maids-of-honor.

Miss Windrow is of medium height. Her dark brownish hair is a shade unusual among her countrywomen, but her clear blue-gray eyes proclaim her northern blood.

MUSIC AND THE DRAMA.

Chicago Opera-House—Vaudeville.

A varied and an attractive vaudeville entertainment was found at the Chicago Opera-House yesterday. Two of the players to give most enjoyment were almost strangers to the audience. They were Nick Long and Idalene Cotton, who appeared in an act of clever impersonations. Miss Cotton was at one time a member of the Henderson Extravaganza company, but if she is not generally remembered on that account she is known to a larger number as the daughter of the old-time minstrel, Ben Cotton. She is a young woman of exceptional ability as a burlesquer and a mimic, as she demonstrated in more than one way yesterday.

For one thing she caught the distinctive tone of Mrs. Fiske's voice, a feat more than one professional imitator has unsuccessfully tried to do. Her imitation of Mrs. Fiske as Becky Sharp in the scene where Becky recites her family history to Rawdon Crawley was remarkable for its truth to salient peculiarities, though it lacked finish. Of the nearness of her copy of the French dancer and chanteuse, Fougere, to the original it was impossible to judge, as Fougere did not extend her American trip as far as Chicago. Solely for itself the impersonation was amusing, however, and was so judged by the audience. A burlesque upon Camille concluded the act. Mr. Long bridged over the time necessary for his companion's change of costumes by a monologue, and aided her in the Camille burlesque.

A pair of outright burlesquers, Jules and Ella Garrison, also were on the program. Their work was along an old-style pattern, and contained a large amount of herolcs, some of them inserted for themselves as well as for purposes of burlesque. "Macbeth" and "Othello" both supplied materials for the act, the assassination scene of the former and the suffocation scene of the latter being parodied—and in each instance more vigorously than skillfully. The noisy abandon of the act appealed, however, to the audience.

Carrie Scott was also on the bill, having returned to Chicago after an absence of several months. She has discarded her "tough-girl" act in favor of a series of songs, most of them negro melodies. She also has taken the liberty of using James E. Sullivan's song, "Annie More," from "The Casino Girl." Her good-humored manner, as much as her songs and dances, earned for her the bountiful portion of favor she received. A small and nimble negro boy danced with her while she sang a cake-walk song.

Larry Dooley and Charles Kent, who are members of Primrose & Dockstader's minstrels during the regular season and vaudeville performers in the summer, were among the other entertainers, giving an act of monologue, dialogue, and song. Jessie Couthoui appeared with a new monologue, and M. Torcat, a French clown, went through a laughable performance.

Though the heat is the worst enemy a new play could have, "Lorna Doone" was performed at the Grand Opera-House last night before an audience of good size. Better augury still, the audience gave vigorous signs of being pleased. The play is being knitted together with each presentation, and the players and their rôles are becoming units.

The fiftieth performance of "The Village Postmaster" was given at the Great Northern Theater last night, and to mark the event Manager Russell of the theater and Rosenquest of the company distributed fans as souvenirs.

Changes in King Dodo Cast.

Miss Maude Odell, well known as a stock company actress but untried as a comic opera singer, was announced last night as the successor to Miss Maude Lambert in the rôle of the Queen in "King Dodo." The change will be made next Monday night. Musical Director McGhie also will leave at the end of the week. Miss Lambert is going abroad for study, and Mr. McGhie, who has been in poor health for several weeks, is to rest during the summer.

It is understood also that William Norris, who is playing the part of King Dodo, is to leave the company in a fortnight. Raymond Hitchcock in all probability will take his rôle. Mr. Norris has been playing steadily since last September, and, now that he has "created" the part, making it easy for another player to copy his work, it is said he is desirous of being released from his engagement.

Several classes will be organized among those students who do not know how to swim, and special instructors provided. For the purpose the university has secured the free use for students of the open air natatorium at Cottage Grove avenue and Sixty-first street. Full credit for the work will be given in the physical culture department.

VACATIONS FOR CHILDREN

ASSOCIATED CHARITIES SEEK HOMES IN COUNTRY.

Bureau Sends Out Paid Agents to Arouse Interest in Project in Behalf of Little Ones—Railroad and Steamship Lines Give Assistance—Number of Boys and Girls to Be Given Outings Depends on Support Outside of Chicago.

The Bureau of Associated Charities has put in operation a plan which, if successful, will provide outings in the country this summer for a large proportion of the poor children of Chicago. Four paid traveling agents have been sent out to all the towns within a radius of 150 miles from Chicago, and they are expected to interest the country people in the project to an unprecedented degree.

Railroads and steamship lines are coming to the assistance of the Bureau of Charities in offering transportation free, or at reduced rates. The work of selecting the children has been so systematized that it will be possible to choose the most needy. Officers of the bureau say there is an unlimited supply of children, and that the work will be limited only by the number of country people who will consent to take care of children.

The outing work of the Bureau of Charities is growing in importance, in the estimation of those who have watched its effect in past years. It is even asserted that if charities are to be conducted on a business basis that is where a large part of the money should go. It is declared that the money spent to send children to the country is saved in doctors' bills and medicine. The relief to the home of the poor family that comes after the tired mother and children have had a rest in the country averts many a condition of crime and dependency that would mean an increased expese to charity later.

Bureau Issues Directions.

So far as the Chicago end of the enterprise of giving 5,000 children a summer vacation is concerned, the arrangements are practically completed. The following directions for the selection of those to be sent have been issued by the Bureau of Charities:

"Only children and women may be selected who cannot possibly visit the country through the efforts of their own relatives or friends.

"Children selected should be under 12 years of age.

"Women selected should be tired out or sick mothers, dependent on themselves for support.

"Delicate children and delicate women will always be given preference.

"Children must be neat and clean. Every person sent to camp or country must have physician's certificate of freedom from infectious or contagious disease.

"Parents should be impressed with the absolute necessity of having the children ready to go at the time set."

Expect to Do Big Business.

"We expect to do by far the largest business in summer outings in the history of the Bureau of Charities," said Miss Holmes, assistant secretary. "Last year we sent about 3,700 children into the country, and there is double the number we would like to send this year. The one limitation against which we work is the number of country people who will take children. If every well-to-do country home within a radius of 150 miles of Chicago would take two children we could accomplish a wonderful work."

The Bureau of Charities will conduct its regular summer camps near Chicago. There will be three of them, at Evanston, Buena Park, and Oak Park. They are able to accommodate 100 children each week. The vacation season for the children will begin when the schools are closed, which will be at the end of this week.

Picnic for Poor Mothers.

The Salvation Army is arranging to take 500 poor mothers and babies to Island Park at Momence, Ill., over the Chicago and Eastern Illinois railroad, tomorrow. The special train will leave the Polk Street Station at 9 a. m. The mothers and babies will be supplied with two meals at the park. A brass band and string band will accompany the party.

PILGRIMAGE TO EDDY HOME.

Two Thousand Scientists Go to Concord, N. H., on Invitation of Their Leader.

Concord, N. H., June 24.—[Special.]—Mrs. Mary Baker G. Eddy, founder of Christian Science, has invited members of her church who have been attending the annual gathering in Boston to visit this city tomorrow, and 2,000 people are expected. One-quarter of this number have come to the city today, and are spending the day visiting the birthplace of Mrs. Eddy in Bow, about three miles from this city, and in making short excursions to points of interest.

Many of the Scientists have driven out to Pleasant View, "Mother" Eddy's beautiful estate.

It is understood that all Scientists will tomorrow be admitted to the grounds of the estate, and there they hope to see the founder of their faith some time during the day.

GIVE UP THEIR HUNT FOR GIRL.

Relatives of Miss Helen Fifield Return Disheartened to Janesville, Wis., Leaving Quest to Police.

Though the Chicago police are continuing the search for Miss Helen Fifield, who mysteriously disappeared from Janesville, Wis., last week, the relatives of the young woman have returned home disheartened with the quest. John Hogan, the Janesville Chief of Police, accompanied Detectives Murtaugh, Darrow, Morgan, and Rowe yesterday in an extended search of hospitals and hotels, but after obtaining no clew to the girl's movements he also left Chicago last night. Chief Hogan said he had concluded the girl was not demented, but was concealing herself.
